Joint Report of C. of C. and Greater Omaha Body Is Referred to Committee of the Whole.

City commissioners at their council meeting Tuesday voted to refer to the committee of the whole a the Chamber of Commerce and the in 1924 of $600,000. Greater Omaha committee that a municipal air field be purchased im-

Appearing for the joint committee were William A. Ellis, assistant commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce; Ralph Kiewit, chairman of the air transportation committee of the chamber, and Maj. Lawrence Churchill, chief air officer of the Seventh Corps area.

The report of the joint committee calls the commissioners' attention to the fact that unless Omaha does something in the near future the city may lose what air service interests are located here.

The report said the flying field at Fort Crook can not be used for other than army purposes, 2,000 Landing Fields,

There are 2,000 landing fields in the country, of which 228 are municipal-owned," the report says. The report, as read by Ellis, said the most economical site would be in the vicinity of Carter Lake, where 160 acres can be purchased for less Merriam & Smith organization. than $50,000. The field has been in-"Action must be taken now to ac-The developments are doing," said Shomer. can come later," Ellis told the commissioners. "Under the provisions of the city charter property can be acquired and bonds voted by the city commissioners where the cost of the project is not in excess of $100,000." the report of the joint committee says it will not cost this much.

Both Commissioners Koutsky and Hummel believe more than 160 acres should be hought when the appraisal made. They contended that the firm has dealt directly with the farm day night to be known land in the vicinity of the proposed trade. It has many agents going from air field would advance in price if a 160 acre site should be bought at this and between 300 and 400 acres should be purchased. This, they say, would take care of the city's needs in the way of an air field for many years.
