

Girl-Wife Runs Down Child in Pursuing Mate

Climbs on His Motorcycle as Husband Disappears Around Corner; Victim Cut and Bruised.

Mrs. Dorothy Bartell, 19, was pursuing her husband, F. Bartell, United States mail service, on his own motorcycle in the approved method of all detective stories when she ran into Ethel Halperin, 9, 1425 North Twentieth street, at Twenty-third and Michigan avenue, Thursday afternoon, according to Mrs. Etta Root, 313 North Twenty-third street, with whom the Bartells live.

Mrs. Root declared that Mrs. Bartell had suspected her husband of associating with other women and had taken the matter up with authorities. Thursday, when he dashed hastily from the house, she decided to trail him.

When she reached the street, Bartell was just disappearing around the corner. Although she knew little about handling a motorcycle, she sprang into the saddle of her husband's machine, which was parked at the curb, and gave chase. In negotiating the first corner, however, she lost control of her mount and it struck the girl.

Salute Fired Over Graves of Soldiers at Beatrice

Beatrice, Neb., May 30.—Business generally was suspended here on Memorial day. At 10 o'clock there was a parade, participated in by the cadets, the American Legion, Boy Scouts and other organizations. At the Beatrice cremery a salute was fired over the graves of the soldiers, and the same program was observed at Evergreen Home cemetery, where the exercises closed by the sounding of taps. The graves in both cemeteries were strewn with flowers.

Today Don't Forget the Living. Al Smith's First Song. Mosquitos as Doctors. Pity the Boss, Sometimes.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

On this Decoration day, honor the dead who deserve honor, and be sorry for those that died without a chance to do something worth while. As we have, we owe to men and women that have lived, fought, worked, suffered and died. Honor the first woman that lamed a husband by getting a regular milk supply for her children, and planted seeds, thus making settled civilization possible.

Honor the inventor of the sewing machine, printing press, steam engine, flying machine—all the great inventors. This is their day, as well the day of soldiers that died for their country, and mothers, that lived, worked and died for their children.

Honor the dead, decorate their graves, pray for their souls, but don't forget the living. Good milk given to a living baby, kind words spoken to an old man in distress, might be more pleasing to the Powers above than flowers dedicated to the memory of a dead hero.

Al Smith's boom progresses with the usual symptoms, including a campaign song with the refrain, "Take 'C' out of Cal, and That Leaves Al." One line reads: "The type of man like Lincoln was, courageous, simple, true."

The next song writer undoubtedly will give to Al Smith far ahead of Lincoln, and no wonder, for Lincoln lacked Al Smith's advantages, not having been educated in politics by Tom Foley, Charles P. Murphy and the rest of Tammany Hall.

Never laugh at anybody. Farmers of New Jersey used to say "Let mosquitos bite you, they cure rheumatism." We know now that mosquitos implanted malaria in those farmers. But here, from London comes news that malaria can be cured by injecting the serum of malaria into the paralytic's blood, or allowing mosquitos, infected with malaria, to bite the patient. Wonderful things are germs and wonderful is human knowledge.

The paralytic infected with malaria, suffers "chills and fevers" for two or three weeks. Meanwhile he gets rid of the paralysis and then three days' treatment with quinine cures him of the malaria.

You might almost say of the germs what the old Frenchman said of his higher power: "If there hadn't been any it would have been necessary to invent them."

Employees who envy their boss' easy life, give a thought to Martin Fritz, Pennsylvania manufacturer, 56. He called his workmen together, as they thought to announce details of the annual spring picnic. Instead, he said, "I want to bid you goodby. I am going away," and blew out his brains before them.

Some modern Alexanders of industry don't even get the purple cloak. They get dyspepsia, "nerves" and an old age of bitterness.

Methodist ministers in convention telegraph Governor Branch of Indiana, denouncing the Gibbons-Carpentier prize fight, arranged for next Saturday. It will be interesting to watch the effect this unanimous message from representatives of 3,000,000 Methodists will have.

Religion has not the authority it once had. There is Bishop Brown, Forty-Two Are Graduated From Aurora High School.

Aurora, Neb., May 30.—Forty-two boys and girls were graduated from the Aurora High school. Supt. Roy F. Gates of Grand Island delivered the address at commencement. The valedictory was given by Lucille Refshauge, who won high honors in the class, and the salutatory was given by Vera Stephenson, who received second honors.

What would they do, how would they feel, if they were living and speculating in Europe, where members of three different national parliaments start simultaneously throwing books and epithets at each other's head and the four biggest countries, England, France, Germany and Russia are all in the hands of socialists, labor leaders or communists.

America's speculators are fortunate, but don't know it. (Copyright, 1924.)

Market Basket Finds Tempting Relishes, Meats and Vegetables.

June, the favorite month of the year, the month of brides, entertainments, and picnics is about here. The housewives and caterers are planning outdoor lunches, wedding menus and luncheons. Plenty of thought is necessary to get up a menu that requires little coaxing to the appetite these days, but thanks to the Omaha markets, numerous suggestions are either on display or given orally for both elaborate and simple dinners.

At one large Omaha market, mushrooms were suggested. Here, tall cans of first choice buttons, household mushrooms at 59 cents. From 30 to 44 mushrooms are included in

This fish is excellent when broiled on a can, and, according to the market, is cheaper than fresh mushrooms.

In this same market, midget sweet pickles in gallon jars which are convenient to take along on a picnic, were seen. Although packed in containers, they are selling as cheap as pickles in the bulk. Very tempting stuffed olives are also on display, which attract many a shopper because of their dainty size.

Chicken Broilers Coming. Market Basket was also greeted with the good news this week that chicken broilers are becoming plentiful on the market. They are selling for 50 cents a pound and the coming week may bring another reduction in price.

Sandwich meats from all parts of the country are procurable. Milwaukee goose liver, Braunschweiger liver sausage, and mortadella, a select ham with pistachio nuts, will satisfy any appetite.

The fish departments suggest a shrimp salad to be included in the lunch dinner. Fresh pickerel can also be had at 25 cents a pound.

Over the fruit counter, cantaloupe lovers are greeted with the first supply of the year, shipped from California. They are selling for 20 to 30 cents each. Strawberries are still in abundance, although they seemed to have advanced slightly in price since last week, selling for 19 and 20 cents a quart.

Arkansas and Missouri berries are the leaders on the market, the Missouri being larger but not quite ripe enough yet. Pineapples can be bought for 10 and 12 1/2 cents each, or $1.25 a dozen; grapefruit, two and three for 25 cents, bananas three pounds for 25 cents.

The vegetable market is about the same. New home-grown head lettuce is seen at 10 and 12 1/2 cents a head, while leaf lettuce is four bunches for 25 cents. Nice ripe tomatoes are 18 cents for a two-pound basket. Cucumbers sell two for 15 cents. Green and wax beans are cheaper than last week, being purchased at two pounds for 25 cents. Radishes are 1 cent a bunch, new potatoes continue to fall in price, now retailing at five pounds for 25 cents.

Orchard-Wilhelm SATURDAY we commence an unusually large SALE of RUGS

Our buyers, attending the May Rug Market, were successful in obtaining for Omaha a large number of rugs in discontinued patterns, as well as many that were slightly imperfect according to mill standards.
