

Iowa to Vote on Smith Brookhart and Sweet Today

Supporters of Both Claiming Republican Nomination on Eve of State-Wide Primary.

By Associated Press.
Des Moines, Ia., June 1.—Candidates seeking nomination for offices ranging from the United States senatorship down to county posts have rested their campaigns. Tomorrow, in the state primary, voters of both major parties will decide the issue.

As the campaign closed, chief interest centered in the senatorial contest between Senator Smith, W. Brookhart and Burton E. Sweet, who seek republican preference. The republican race for the gubernatorial nomination, with six candidates entered, and 35 per cent of the total vote required for a decision, apparently had become a state convention issue.

On both republican and democratic tickets there are contests in the primary for most of the important offices and democratic leaders have predicted for weeks that contests in their party at this time marked the beginning of a revival of strength of the second party in Iowa.

Sweet Claims Three Districts.
Republican leaders however, consider that with few exceptions, nomination of their candidates in Monday's primary is equivalent to Monday's November, and the republican campaigns, therefore, have attracted a major portion of attention.

New Method Heals Rupture

Kansas City Doctor's Discovery Makes Truss or Operation Unnecessary.
Kansas City, Mo.—(Special)—A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, the well known Hernia specialist of this city. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel hands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Omaha Bee who writes him at his office, 1501 Koch building, Kansas City, Mo. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.

Illinois Central System Gives Comparisons in Regard to Rates and Costs

Anyone who compares the present costs of producing railway service with pre-war costs and compares the present rates charged for that service with pre-war rates will be struck by the fact that railway service is being sold now at rates relatively lower than before the war.

Below are the results of some representative cost comparisons as applied to this railroad. The Illinois Central System in 1923 paid:

- $2.44 for the same quantity of locomotive coal that it paid $1 for in 1913;
- $1.87 for the same quantity of materials and supplies other than coal that it paid $1 for in 1913;
- $3.28 in taxes for every $1 it paid in 1913;
- $1.96 for the same number of hours of labor that it paid $1 for in 1913.

In transportation rates, the increase is not so large. The Illinois Central System in 1923 received only $1.54 for hauling a passenger the same distance that it received $1 for in 1913. It received only $1.38 for hauling a ton of freight the same distance that it received $1 for in 1913. The latter figures do not have reference to the charge for hauling any particular kind of freight, but they show that the average revenue which the Illinois Central System received in 1923 for each ton of freight carried one mile was only 38 per cent greater than it was in 1913. This increase in rates compares, as noted above in dollars and cents, with increases in costs of 144 per cent for locomotive coal, 87 per cent for materials and supplies other than coal, 228 per cent for taxes and 96 per cent for labor.

Only through increased efficiency and the installation of modern, cost-reducing facilities has it been possible for the railroads to serve the public at the rates which they are receiving and at the same time to meet the great increases in the prices which they are compelled to pay for the things they must have to produce transportation.

The railroads have borrowed and expended many millions of dollars to improve their properties. They have done this because of their faith in the fairness of the American people. Given time and a chance to work out their destiny, the railroads will demonstrate their ability to serve the public adequately and at rates so low as are consistent with their costs of doing business.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

an intensive campaign which they declare has brought reports from all over the state that the junior senator has been losing strength. One Sweet campaign leader declared the Brookhart followers had dwindled so rapidly in number that one of the senator's closest friends had expressed concern as to the outcome.

State Representative Clyde Doolittle issued a statement claiming Sweet would easily win three congressional districts, the first, third and fifth, and declaring that he expected to carry the second, fourth, sixth, seventh and ninth.

Brookhart headquarters here, in charge of Louis H. Cook, conceded a probable lead for Sweet in 13 counties, classed 11 as doubtful and gave the remaining counties to the senator. Counties that probably will go to Mr. Sweet, Mr. Cook said, included Linn, Butler, Benton, Jones, Delaware, Dubuque, Buchanan, Franklin, Bremer, Johnson, Grundy and Black Hawk. The doubtful list included Muscatine, Lee, Chickasaw, Pottawattamie, Madison, Mills, Fremont, Des Moines, Louisa, Scott and Hardin.

Four Stand Out in Governor Race.
J. H. Anderson, speaker of the Iowa house; John Hammill, lieutenant governor; Glenn Haynes, state auditor and W. J. Burbank, state treasurer, are regarded by most of the political observers here as leading candidates for the gubernatorial nomination on the republican ticket.

Some of these observers and the candidates still hope for a nomination in the primary but even the staunch supporters of the stronger candidates declare the selection of a candidate to succeed Governor Kendall, who is retiring, probably will be made by the state convention.

States Senator J. D. Muser of Conesville and A. J. Banks, who has based his campaign on a tax reduction platform, are the other two republican candidates for the governorship.

Daniel M. Steck of Ottumwa, prominent in American Legion circles, has conducted the most active campaign for senatorial nomination on the democratic ticket. His opponents are Clem F. Kimball of Council Bluffs and John R. Price of Albia, a state senator, are republican opponents for nomination for lieutenant governor and L. A. House of Humboldt has no opposition on the democratic ticket.

There is no primary contest for secretary of state, Walter C. Ramsey of Belmont being slated to oppose Claude Lauderdale of Fort Dodge in the general election. They are republican and democratic respectively.

In the race for state auditor there is one democrat, E. T. Likes of Des Moines and six republicans, including State Senator J. C. Tuck of Corning, Representative J. C. McClune of Oskaloosa, William H. Nye of Rockwell City, O. E. Wilson of Morning Sun, J. V. Lemley of Leon and G. H. Getty of Boone.

Leslie W. Ainsworth, secretary of the state senate, who was a candidate against W. J. Burbank two years ago; Ray E. Johnson, secretary to the executive council and G. G. Wolfe of Mt. Vernon are the republicans seeking nomination for the state treasurer.

The democrats and insurgents never could forgive themselves if they permitted taxes to be reduced by a republican majority.—Cleveland Times.

"Right or Wrong, My Party," Soviet Leader Declares

Opposition to Bolshevik Rule Growing in Russia, Trotsky Warns Communist Party Congress.

By O. D. TOLLISCHUS.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.
Berlin, June 1.—"Right or wrong, my party." In these words, Leon Trotsky, after Lenin the strongest man in the bolshevik government, summarized his political confession of faith in a speech before the congress of the Russian communist party at Moscow.

This flat declaration of party allegiance, irrespective of consequences, is Trotsky's answer to his enemies within the party, who are trying to crowd him to the walk. The opposition to the bolshevik rule, Trotsky also warned, is growing in Russia.

That all is not well within the soviet party and with the soviet government is also seen in the speech of Zinoviev, before the same congress, in which he bared the strength of the Menshevik movement among the youth of the new bourgeoisie, especially the students, and which, he announced, most drastic measures are being taken to suppress.

Illuminating also is a secret memorandum which Trotsky sent to the central committee, in which he becomes an accuser of the soviet regime. The text of this memorandum is now made public by the German socialist paper, Vorwaerts. In this document Trotsky says openly and in the strongest terms that the soviet business management is in complete chaos, and that there is an unbridgeable abyss between the industrial workers and the peasants' parties.

He charges that the organization is "stifling in an atmosphere of incompetence, but all the more dictatorial, bureaucracy," and that the general dissatisfaction is growing to the point "where a crisis for the whole soviet regime is looming on the horizon."

The discovery of a photograph closely resembling Mrs. Marks, my flamboyant neighbor of the city apartment, and the statement that the picture was of Mamie's half-sister had intrigued my interest. Also, I remembered the sudden whiteness of Mrs. Marks' face when I made a casual reference to the east end of the island and the picture I had seen resembling her. She had denied ever being east of Patchogue and I had mentally commented that she was falsifying. What might I not have stumbled upon?

I was careful to make my voice casual, however. Katie must be permitted to tell her story in her own way, or I should get nowhere.

"Yes, I know Mamie," I said and stopped short.

"You shoot wait!"
"You mean you think you know her?" Katie returned, with superbly unconscious impertinence. "Ma, I think I know her, too; but I know nothing. She deep vun, dot girl, und I think she got me in vun nice mess."

"Oh, I hope not, Katie!" I exclaimed, startled out of my non-committed attitude, for the girl's distress was patent.

"You shoot wait!" Katie's voice dripped mystery. "After you go, she always doing nice things for me, all time cooing ofer, vant me to go mit by movies and getting me ice cream sodas."

I smiled involuntarily at the picture for I knew that Katie never could get enough of cinemas and sodas, nor could she persuade tired Jim to go with her more than once or twice a week. The attentive Mamie must have appeared a fairy to my little maid.

"Und I sooch fool," Katie went on. "I never saw she was shoot playing me for vun sunny goat, not even ven she coom mit soch a long face und say: 'Oh, Katie dear, I got some things I don't dare keep by me home, for my mudder she lick me eef she find dem! Von't you keep dem for me?'"

My little maid's voice was irresistible in its whining mimicry and I laughed aloud.

What Katie Displayed to Madge's Astonished Eyes.

The attic at the farm covers the entire house, with ample room for the storing of a whole household of furniture.

Not having any furniture to store and Dicky having found it impossible to fill more than a quarter of it with his collections of theater programs and magazines, he has fitted up a space under the highest part of the roof for a loafing place, where he can look over his beloved possessions.

It was to this spot where comfortable, if dilapidated appearing, rocking chairs and a table were placed, that Katie led me. I seated myself resignedly, knowing that there was no hurrying my little maid. She would tell the story she was so anxious to relate in her own time, with all the digressions so characteristic of her volubility.

"Sit down, Katie," I said, drawing a chair near to mine. "You might as well be comfortable while you talk."

"Dot's right," she giggled, her facial muscles suddenly relaxing their tension.

She slumped into the chair, folding her hands in her lap and patently preparing to take my advice as to comforting, while I sent my mind dashing in a dozen directions, wondering whether Katie was indeed menaced by some one, who, in her own phraseology, "was trying to hang something on her," or whether the whole thing was a figment of her movie-fed imagination.

Yes, Madge knows Mamie. But her first sentence brought me erect, tense, in my chair.

"Missis Graham, you know dot Mamie 'cross road,"

I did not answer for a second, for I was busy visualizing Mamie who had helped Katie and Mrs. Ticer "clean house" under Mother Graham's supervision before the arrival of the Braithwaites. I had been much impressed with the bright mentality and resourcefulness of the girl upon the night of the state treasurer's search for the home of her parents for the escaping murderer, incidentally discovering a whisky still in full operation.

Pekin, June 1.—Communication has been established with the bandits who kidnaped A. G. McKay, a native of Australia, May 16 at Pichikow, 250 miles up the Minkiang river from Foochow, said a report from Foochow.

The advices said McKay was being well treated and that the bandits were demanding a high ransom for him. No word has been received here regarding Rex Ray and Dr. H. C. Miller, Americans, and two Britishers named Jaffray and Carne, captured by pirates who attacked their motor boat in Kwangsi province a week ago. The captives are supposed still to be in the pirates' mountain stronghold in that section.

NEW AUTO TOPS ADD TO BEAUTY

"Automobile owners have taken advantage of the cool weather and had their cars fixed up for the warm days that are coming," said A. R. Hollenberger.

Many cars have been in the shop the last month being equipped with new tops and seat covers. A new top makes a wonderful improvement in the looks of a car, pointed out "Folly," and it increases the value of the car also.
