

Keynoter Denounces Republicans

Harrison Tells Convention G. O. P. Has Been "Honey-combed With Graft and Corruption."

Flays Foreign Policy

was these investigations that pointed to the immoral crimes of Forbes and sickening scandals in the Veterans' bureau. It was these investigations that put a republican congressman behind bars and lashed Newberry from the senate. It was these investigations that informed the American public that the first official act of Calvin Coolidge was the appointment of a private secretary who had traded and trafficked in public patronage. It was these investigations that led a republican senate to convict its own republican national committee for "framing" a democratic senator because he dared to do the right.

In this campaign the conscienceless leaders of this administration desire investigations. Let them accuse the congress of deteriorating; let them continue to shield those who conspired against the government, but in this dark drama the American people know and prefer the highly patriotic and cleansing work of Thomas J. Walsh to the foul inanity and thievery of Albert J. Fall.

Nothing in burlesque or opera bouffe is comparable to the scene recently enacted at Cleveland in the efforts of the silent Sphinx of the Potomac to exile and expatriate those republican senators who dared to oppose his mandate. It is somewhat a pathetic story—the treatment there accorded our republican senatorial friends.

"But yesterday the world of Caesar might have stood against the world; Now lies the truth and none so poor to do him reverence."

They dared to vote an investigation of a member of the president's official family, and they are penalized for their decency.

They dared disregard the protest of the world profilers to respond to the appeal of the soldiers who fought our battles on the fields of France, and they are punished for their justice.

By every device known to trained camoufleurs, by every subtle process of legerdemain, the republican nominee, in true pharisaical fashion, sought to divorce himself from his former comrades in arms. The plan was obvious; the plot is futile. Neither the president nor his Falstaffian army, headed by General Butler and Sergeant Stearns, can conceal the ugly fact that the Cleveland convention was the most highly organized, boss-ridden, and oligarchic ever held in America. The American people will not be deceived. They will not permit themselves to be used as pawns in a game of "hide and seek."

"BEST MIND" BACK FROM MEXICO

It was peculiarly appropriate that the republican nominee should have conscripted one of the "best minds" from faraway Mexico to write the platform for this campaign and a lame duck to preside as the permanent chairman of the convention. Both assignments for that convention were most fitting—one was available because of the "theory" that "distance lends enchantment to the view" and his lack of knowledge of things that are; the other because he was the only public man in the United States willing to offer himself as a living sacrifice upon the senatorial altars of Wyoming in defense of the Teapot dome.

The mask is off. Piercing through the political machinations of the convention we see the sinister lips of special privilege. The leopard does not change his spots overnight. Neither can the republican party be reformed by resolutions nor by presidential ukase.

The American people will know that every article dealing with a system that even though Hanna, Quay and Penrose are dead, their spirits go marching on in the personages of the Three Musketeers of present-day republicanism—Butler, Stearns, and Sloop. These bosses are doing business in the same old way according to the same old rule.

Fight to Save President

The republican organization is now trying to salvage something from the wreck of the old party. The proceedings and platform of the Cleveland convention portend the loss of our congress and the speedy madly fighting to save the presidency.

With an administration honey-combed with graft and corroded with corruption it is refreshing to reflect upon the innumerable republican investigations into expenditures of the preceding democratic administration. Following that period—the most momentous in our country's history—a period that called for the mobilization of our strongest and best, a period that necessitated the expenditures of $40,000,000,000 to prosecute and win the war—no similar period ever called for such a readjustment of governmental agencies and the prompt prosecution of expenditures. Following our country's triumph in arms and victory in the chancelleries of the world, through a campaign of lavish expenditures and appeals to the prejudices of groups, we lost control of the congress. As soon as it was organized the republican party inaugurated a scheme of investigations that were the most far-reaching and costly in the history of the government. Fifty-one separate committees were appointed, controlled by 51 separate republican majorities. They searched every hint. Like a dragnet, they mobilized every bit of gossip and ran down every rumor. Investigations covered the whole country and extended beyond the seas. What were the results? Where is the tainted dollar spent? Where was the defrauded soldier? Name the democratic cabinet ministers disgraced. Those republican investigations, particularly and relentlessly conducted, did not point to a single act that reflected discredit upon any democratic official. I call upon the republican nominee, Calvin Coolidge; I call upon the members of the republican cabinet; I call upon every republican member of the congress—I call upon the republican party to name the democratic culprit.

But it is not graft alone that offers in the two administrations such happy comparisons. During these little peace of the world. . . . The republican party is bound by every consideration of good faith to pursue such a course until the declared object is attained. . . . We therefore believe that we can most effectively advance the cause of international co-operation to promote peace by supporting Mr. Coolidge for election to the presidency.

"That was one of the spurious coins of 1924.

Through their miserable effort and vain meanderings to extricate themselves and their party from the morass of their own deceit, they have nauseated the American people by the pitiable spectacle they present. They aureole their promises with such beautiful rhetoric and vamp the truth to such an extent that they do not know the direction in which they are going. Henry Cabot Lodge, who made Coolidge at Chicago and unmade him at Washington, "with rolling eyes spews fine speech about duty and like phantasmal fancies of his flighty mind, attempts to weave new webs of intrigue, and to again enmesh and mislead the American people. Too long has this cultured gentleman and his intriguing cohorts denied peace to a suffering world, and in their unhatched world court schemes an outraged people can not and will not again be defrauded.

The lamented Harding, in his big hearted, sympathetic way, sounded the main call in his New York speech to enter the World Court. That was only a step, but a step in the right direction. It was merely a move, but a movement toward the broader and more inviting fields of peace, and he deserved the backing of his party and the cooperation of every peace-loving American citizen. Coolidge pledged himself to carry out the policy, and yet from the day he took up the task laid down by Harding.

he made only a bow in that direction. The World Court at best can decide only international questions unanimously submitted to it by the parties to the controversy. Indeed, it is not necessary for them to abide by the decisions of the court unless they agree to do so. And yet, simple as is the plan, earnest as are these nations that are cooperating to make it a success and draw to a broken world the light of hope and peace, the same serried ranks in the United States senate are pursuing the same indefensible tactics, bent on destruction and to reap their vengeance.

SEEK TO CHLOROFORM WORLD COURT PLAN.

Recently they have gained a healthy new recruit in "Caius Cassius" Pepper, the distinguished keynoter and keynoter. They are not willing to employ their power and talents against our country joining the present World Court, but they seek to chloroform the existing plan, to dismantle it, to destroy it. Thus, this unholy conspiracy against the peace of the world is carried forward, with silence, deep and impenetrable, broods over the Potomac. For months the senate foreign relations committee had this question before it. Numerous plans presented their same indefensible tactics, bent on destruction and to reap their vengeance.

stonary hearts of the administration. But the republican nominee and his reactionary followers in the congress have not permitted any governmental relief being extended to them, for the reason, as very impressively stated by the republican nominee on December 6, 1923, in his first message to the congress:

FARMERS' PLIGHT DUE TO INDIFFERENCE

"Those farmers," he said, "who raise their living on their own lands are not greatly in distress." Those sentiments come from the heart, throbs of the republican nominee, and the present deplorable plight of the American farmer is due to callous indifference and their cowardly, isolated foreign policy. No economist but knows that this selfish policy, without vision, is responsible for the dissipation of our foreign trade and the timidity of business. Until struck in Europe revives we can not hope for full settlement in our foreign debt. Allied payments to us depend on German payments to them. But even though the reparations question may be settled and Germany exerts every effort to pay, how can she pay if she is economically shackled by America and the world? The German citizen can set his hand to work and from one end of that country to the other every furnace may be lighted, every factory which spins whirled, every field be tilled, and every agency of commerce and industry work overtime, yet they can not continue unless some market be found for their wares. There can be no market if the tariff gates are closed against her by other countries as are our own. Such a sordid policy of selfishness, not only delays European rehabilitation but forces upon the American masses higher prices for home-made goods. Customs receipts do not prove the success or failure of tariff laws. A tariff that in normal times might be prohibitive, in abnormal times is but a license to the conscienceless profiteer to extort and gouge the American consumer. Exports from a country, the purchasing power of whose money is worthless, may be expected to seek those markets that offer the best purchases, no matter how high the tariff. In the abnormal conditions of the world today the result is that, with exorbitant tariff, our government may perhaps get more revenue but the European seller will receive far less for his product, and the American consumer will be compelled to pay more for his purchase.

fluence of fraud and inaugurate efficiency in government.

We will put a stop to republican procrastination and adopt a progressive reclamation policy.

Recognizing our obligations as a great humane power, we will assume in many fashion our responsibilities to the world.

PLEDGES PARTY TO HIGH COURSE

We will pursue the same high course that has ever inspired the leaders of democracy, untrifled by those who threaten to destroy any movement by those who seek selfishly to control.

Neither the cries of radicalism nor the threats of conservatism will swerve us from our fixed purpose. Democracy is the right way. It is the party that offers the safe middle course, patronizing no issue and paying tribute to no extremes.

It is the party that never harkens first birthright to serve the hour nor allowed expediency to dominate where right was involved.

It will wage war for the protection of the rights of property as zealously as it will battle against the guarantees of special privilege. At every cost it will defend the liberties and the constitutional rights of the citizen in the same sturdy way as it will assiduously guard the sanctity of the government's bureaucracy and centralized government.

These principles are just as precious today as when they were proclaimed at Runnymede, revived by the immortal Jefferson in the imperishable parchment of our Declaration of Independence, and indelibly written in the Constitution of the United States.

Ladies and gentlemen of the convention, may I say in closing that this is a democratic year. Victory is within our grasp if we but reach out for it. Let us remember that too much is at stake for the hideous form of fiction to frown upon this convention. Our guns and all our guns against the common enemy. Nothing must happen here to divide our councils or dampen our ardor. The fires of democracy must not flicker. The hope of the people lies in the action of this convention. There must be no skulking; there can be no mutiny; winning is not wicked. Strategy is no sin. Far better is it for the American people and the future of the democratic party that in this convention we deny to ourselves some vaunted expression or surrender some temporary advantage that we may succeed in this campaign than tenuously to persist and lose.

A great duty and a high responsibility rests upon us in this solemn and critical hour of the nation's life. Every impulse of decency, of human sympathy, of fair dealing, cries out and urges us on to action—militant, aggressive action. With struggling millions of men and women throughout the country calling upon us and humanity everywhere exhorting us onward, the great army of democratic men and women will not retreat before the enemy upon the great battle field of this campaign. We shall not fail.

No matter who may be the choice of this convention, we will rally around our leader, clad in the armor of a righteous cause, attracting to our standard all the forces of right and the flag of democracy waves triumphantly from every rampart of the government. And as we fight

Record of Promises Fulfilled

A record of promises fulfilled and pledges kept attest the loyalty of the democratic party. The long list of unparalleled achievements of the Wilson administration are among the glorious assets of our party. It is a record that should stir the soul of America and thrill every democratic heart. What is that record?

A tariff law which bred no bounties and spawned no special privileges. A tariff law that sought no taxes from the tables of the poor but raised them from the fortunes of the rich. A tariff law that unfettered buoyant hope and fledged ambition's best efforts. A tariff law that transformed a weapon of oppression into an instrument of usefulness. A tariff law so moneyed as to world conditions that our international trade balance reached the highest peak in all its history.

Uninflated by war conditions, at its lowest ebb it gave to the United States a favorable balance of trade $380,000,000 more than the present indefensible law afforded at its highest. At its peak it exceeded by $3,000,000,000 the highest under the republican law.

A federal reserve law that emancipated banking from the domination of a moneyed aristocracy and placed credit in the control of government officials; a law so modern and so elastic as to meet the constant needs of trade and commerce and to act as a panacea against panics and a cure for industrial ills. A law which the temporary chairman of the Cleveland convention said, "Serves as a bulwark to the financial life of the nation and will be left alone." We will leave it alone, and not one of the pillars upon which it rests will be removed, but we will not permit a reactionary republican leadership, dominated by selfish groups, to divert it from its real purpose and turn over its administration to its plant tools.

Record of Promises Fulfilled

A record that carved new lanes of trade and opened up additional markets.

A record that gave confidence to business and sent the sunshine of happiness and the glow of prosperity into every American home.

A record that filled the pay envelopes of all wage earners and piled high every bank with countless resources.

A record that lifted agriculture from the low depths to which the republican party had tossed it to a commanding place in American thought and sentiment—a place at which credit and transportation facilities to the farmers were made available and the distribution, sale, and marketing of their products assured.

A record which gave to the American farmer the only period in the history of the government in which the purchasing power of his dollar was at a premium.

A record that filled public offices with men of courage and not tools of corruption.

A record in which never before did the wheels of industry spin so sweetly and the flow of commerce move so smoothly.

A record that blazed the way to new heights of idealism, shot through with wise and humane policies.

A record of days when human rights were dominant, and through the force of our moral leadership America caused a spiritual awakening throughout the world. Those were mighty days. In every foreign capital

Difference in Foreign Policies

How different were the foreign policies of our government under Woodrow Wilson and under the Harding-Coolidge administration. It is the difference between a keynoter and keynoter, a policy of statesmanship. In the good old democratic days we did not seek to keep in, but diplomats to sit in; not observers without authority, but representatives with credentials. One policy was definite, halting and weak. We opened up new and broader markets, and the people of every clime were drawn to us. No humanitarian cause had movement to check wars, settle disputes, or promote world peace but promptly received the sympathetic consideration of this government. It was through such a policy that America forged to the front among the foremost nations of the world. Glory was in the flag and prosperity in every industry. What a change has come about during these three long years!

Oil has become the open sesame of power. It gained admittance to the robbers' cave and participation in the plunder. It has been the inspiration of this administration's foreign, as well as domestic policy. The magic significance of it flows has awakened the states department to an interest not only in Mexico and the United States of Columbia, but away off in the near east. Truly the administration might have boasted of two "secretaries of oil."

REFUSED PROTEST FOR PERSECUTIONS.

When the Christian women and children of Armenia were being wretchedly given to the Turkish sword, when thousands of these Armenian followers of Christ, driven like cattle into exile, were dying of starvation and exposure in the highways; when the Christian churches and Christian homes were being given to the flames and ministers of the gospel impudently the administration for a note of protest, it was refused; but the moment the oil magnates of the land sought a concession in the oil fields of Mosul the administration that refused to intervene to save Christian lives, Christian churches and Christian homes went to the front with vigor and decision.

They who were indifferent when the lives of women and children were involved hastened to the conference with the Turks in pursuit of the Chester oil concession and became a party to the infamy of the Lusitania treaty—a treaty which abandons our missionaries to the Turks and betrays Armenia into the hands of its assassins.

Show this administration an oil well and it will show you a foreign policy.

With a world dismayed by disorder and steeped in sorrow we have waited patiently for this giant nation to assume its commanding part. But no; their leaders, like snakes moved by fear, have turned and run away. Amid all this world's confusion, with its broken spirit and lost confidence, with wreck and ruin throughout Europe, this administration has complacently looked on and skulked away before in all its history has America turned a deaf ear to the appeal of humanity or the call of civilization. Foreign countries have sought our advice. They have pleaded for our counsel; but, lo, their

this great battle there will accompany us the invisible presence of the fathers of democracy. It would seem now we can hear the soft voice of sweet reasonableness coming to us from Monticello the voice of "Old Hickory" coming across the Blue Ridge to the Hermitage, and from that historic crypt at St. Albans we hear the mighty voice of Woodrow Wilson, wistfully calling to us: "To you, from failing hands, we throw the torch." "Hold it high." "Carry on, carry on; keep the faith, keep the faith."

Improvements Planned at Wayne Normal School

Wayne, Neb., June 24.—Extensive improvements are to be made on the Wayne state normal buildings this summer, according to plans announced by officers of the institution. The improvements will consist of the installation of a new fireproof stairway, changing the entrance of the main building from the south to the west, remodeling the rooms in the basement and on the two upper floors and providing more class rooms and private offices for the supervisors.

Four Counties Represented at Services in Hastings

Hastings, Neb., June 24.—A large assembly of Lutherans from Adams, Kearney, Phelps and Webster counties twice filled the spacious auditorium at the local Prospect park to overflowing in a morning and an afternoon service. Prof. W. H. T. Dau of Concordia seminary, St. Louis, addressed the assembly in both services. Prof. H. A. Koehnig of the Lutheran Teachers' seminary at Seward, Neb., preached in the afternoon. In the evening Rev. Mr. Dau spoke particularly to the young people. Both speakers declared that God is continuing the present world for the sole purpose of saving souls through the knowledge of Jesus Christ as the Savior of sinners.

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Good Health In Happy Old Age

The chief concern of elderly people is their health, and that is best assured by regular daily bowel movement. There is no truth, however, in the notion that because you are old you need a "strong physic." In fact, just because you are old a mild laxative is better for you. The trouble with purges and cathartics and physics is that they shock the system and weaken it and make the muscles of digestion flabby. Dr. G. H. Brown, V. S., of Franklin Wis., nearly wrecked his stomach with purgatives. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin restored his health, as it did Mrs. J. S. Etheridge's, of Milledgeville, Ga.

Does Not Grip

You can be sure of satisfactory evacuations every day if you will take a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin at night when you retire. You will not need to take it very long as a "strong physic" does, just because you are old. The bowels to act for themselves. The popularity of this wonderful family remedy has become so great that it is now the largest-selling liquid laxative in the world. Because of its mildness and freedom from griping it is especially ideal for the extremes of ages, for children and for elderly people.

Effective at Small Cost

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store. The formula is on the package, and the cost less than a cent a dose. Take it when you feel heavy, sleep poorly, have headache or night cramps, for these are also symptoms of constipation. Give it to the children when they are restless, feverish or have a cold. Syrup Pepsin will keep you and the family free from constipation a condition that lowers the vitality 25 per cent and raises the blood pressure 28 per cent. Freedom from constipation lessens the pain of kidney trouble, neuritis and rheumatism.

Send for a free trial bottle of Syrup Pepsin. Write to Dr. Caldwell, P.O. Box 100, Milledgeville, Ga.
