

Sleeping Sickness Is Fatal to Omaha Boy at West Point

Cadet Dies After Illness of Two Weeks—Won High Honors at U. S. Institution.

Harry C. Haynes, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Haynes, 2414 Crown Point avenue, who had just entered his fourth year at West Point Military academy, died there Wednesday morning after an illness of two weeks. Sleeping sickness is given as the cause of death.

Cadet Haynes was graduated from the Omaha High school in 1921 and went directly to West Point, where he had been appointed by Congressman Jeffers. He passed the entrance examination with great credit and was enrolled in the cadet corps. His career at the academy was notable. Almost at the start his talent for drawing attracted attention, and he was made art editor for the first-year class. Last winter he was made art editor of the student publication.

His academic record was equally good, for he took high rank as a student. Last December he suffered from a severe attack of pneumonia, but apparently had entirely recovered from that. After a short leave of absence during the midwinter term, he returned to his classes and soon made up the work he had lost through illness, and was going along well.

Cadet Haynes would have been 21 years old on August 2. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Haynes, 2414 Crown Point avenue. His mother was with him during his last illness. Mrs. Haynes, accompanied by Cadet Berge, will reach Omaha with the body Friday morning. No arrangements have been yet made for the funeral.

Snowballs Fly as Lions Stalk Streets of Omaha on Parade; Rooster, Missouri Mule and Union Jack in Line of Marchers

snow fell in Omaha Wednesday noon, although the temperature hovered around 70 degrees above zero. Most of it fell in the form of snowballs on marching delegates participating in the Lions' club parade.

The result was much dodging and dodging, as the top picture indicates. The roars denoted fright and not anger, however, for although many a white hat was struck by the snow balls the Lions weren't in the least dismayed. Colorado delegates had the snow shipped to Omaha from mountain tops, especially for the International convention of Lions.

Just below the snowball scene, to the left, proudly struts a Missouri rooster in the role of a Missouri delegate. A well-aimed snowball almost floored the young man in the chicken costume.

To the right of the hen is a snow drift, where Colorado delegates had their precious snow dumped by trucks. It was here, at Eighteenth and Farnam streets, that the major snowball engagement took place.

Blow these scenes are glimpses of a delegate astride a Missouri mule; of the Union Jack, carried by Canadian delegates; and of the Quincy (Illinois) banner.

BOY, 10, WINNER IN GARDEN CONTEST

Clarinda, Ia., June 25.—The first exhibit of the Clarinda Garden club this year brought entries from 122 gardeners, competing for the cash prizes. C. V. Holsinger of Ames judged the exhibits.

Max Masman, a 10-year-old boy, again won first prize for best garden over all, his fifth year of successful competition for first place. He had 19 entries in the recent exhibit.

Mr. Holsinger stated the vegetables, despite the raining season, were the best he had seen, and that Clarinda had other towns beaten on amount of available garden plots intensively cultivated.

Lafs Win Prizes If Good Enough

No Limit to Number One May Enter; Shoot Them in.

Where to see Local Lafs today:

Suburban theater..... Omaha
Lathrop theater..... Omaha
Lyric theater..... Omaha
Favorite theater..... Omaha
Gem theater..... Omaha
Crescent theater..... Holdrege, Neb.

If you don't succeed at first, try again.

Perhaps you have sent in several jokes to the Local Laf editor and have not seen your name on the screen. Don't get discouraged! It may be that your joke was just crowded out of the winning class by a narrow margin.

The "good one" you heard today may be slated for first prize. At any rate, take a chance and shoot it in. There is no limit to the number of jokes you may submit, and every week a new list of winners is announced.

Every joke you send in will receive consideration from the Local Laf editor. If you know any good, snappy jokes of 30 words or less send them in, even if you have sent others before. If they are "good enough" to get a rise out of the Local Laf editor they are sure to land in the winning class.

Work Begun on New Hospital at Clarinda

Clarinda, Ia., June 25.—Hydrotherapeutic hospital building will be erected at the Clarinda State hospital at a cost of $125,000. Excavation has begun, much of the material is on the ground and it is expected the building will be completed early in 1925. The general contract is held by George R. Alcorn of Omaha, and the heating and plumbing by Joe Hanson of Council Bluffs.

Cattle Shipments Heavy; Special Stock Trains Run

Albion, Neb., June 25.—A special stock train consisting of 19 cars of cattle was run from here Sunday to Omaha. As prospects for a corn crop are not of the best, feeders are encountering greater difficulty in getting corn to feed at prices comparable with the price of cattle and the result is considerable premature shipping to market.

Dry Weather Now Needed for Cultivation of Corn

Beatrice, Neb., June 25.—During the past week more than two inches of rain has fallen in this section of the state. Corn is very weedy and dry weather is needed so that the farmers can rid the fields of weeds. Wheat is ripening fast and with favorable weather will be ready to cut in about 10 days.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The babies that you are queer To some one may be very dear.

A Pair of Queer Babies

Bobby Coon was the only one in all the Green Forest who knew the secret of Mrs. Prickly Porky the Porcupine. He was the only one who knew that at the bottom of a snug hollow in the trunk of a certain big tree in the Green Forest Mrs. Porcky had babies. But though he knew that they were there, he didn't know how many there were, nor did he have any idea what they looked like. What is more, Bobby had no idea of trying to find out anything more about them. He was no longer interested in them. That he had the best idea whose babies they were he never, never would have thought of trying to get them for a dinner. As it was Bobby was thankful, oh, so thankful, that he had not succeeded in getting way down inside Mrs. Porcky's home before her return.

There were two of those babies, and in all the Green Forest you couldn't have found two queerer looking babies. Mrs. Porcky thought them the most beautiful babies in all the great world. They were not. They were just the opposite from beautiful. But Mrs. Porcky looked at them through the eyes of mother love, and this made them beautiful and wonderful to her.

They were only a couple of days old, but they were surprisingly big. Probably in all the Green Forest there were no other babies nearly as big for the size of their mother as these two fretful babies in the bottom of that hollow in the big tree. At the time they were born, they actually were as big as Buster Bear's twins when they were born. Yes, sir, that is a fact.

You know, of course, how Prickly Porky carries a thousand little spears hidden in his coat, and how for this reason all the other people of the Green Forest respect him and avoid him. It is the same way with Mrs. Porcky. But you wouldn't expect to find two-day-old babies protected in the same way, would you? But they were. Yes, sir, they were. Those two homely, funny little babies were born with little spears or quills hidden in their coats.

It was well for Bobby Coon that he hadn't succeeded in reaching those babies before the return of Mrs. Porcky. He would have received one of the most unpleasant surprises in his whole life. I suspect that right away he would have lost his appetite for fresh meat. Those babies were not quite so helpless as their whining and crying had led him to think.

And how proud Mrs. Porcky was of them! There was no prouder mother in all the Green Forest. She left them only long enough to go out for food, and of course she didn't have to go far for that. In this she was more fortunate than some of the other mothers of the Green Forest. As a matter of fact she had been only a couple of times away when Bobby Coon had climbed up to the entrance

HE TRAVELS and his Omaha Real Estate pays the bills!

Until four years ago, D. W. Dudgeon was a plumber, working hard, day and night, frequently seven days a week.

Nowadays he spends most of his time traveling. He and Mrs. Dudgeon will leave in a few days for Canada to spend the summer. They will go to the south for the winter, and probably will return to Omaha next spring for a month or two.

They've been taking it easy like this for the last four years.

Mr. Dudgeon's Omaha Real Estate pays all the bills—and in addition—leaves him some surplus at the end of each year.

Twenty years ago Mr. Dudgeon began to invest his surplus earnings in Omaha Real Estate, in a small way, adding a little to his equities each year.

Today he owns seven stores and seven houses; four of the stores are in Omaha, and three in South Omaha. Four of these stores now on a 99-year lease, pay Mr. Dudgeon $900 net every ninety days; these four stores originally cost him $14,500.

You can do what D. W. Dudgeon did. Omaha Real Estate, or mortgages on Nebraska and Iowa farms, will give you that kind of independence. You should buy a Home first, then business property or mortgages. Easy payments provided by Omaha Realtors will permit any man to buy Real Estate.
