Unique Children's Circus

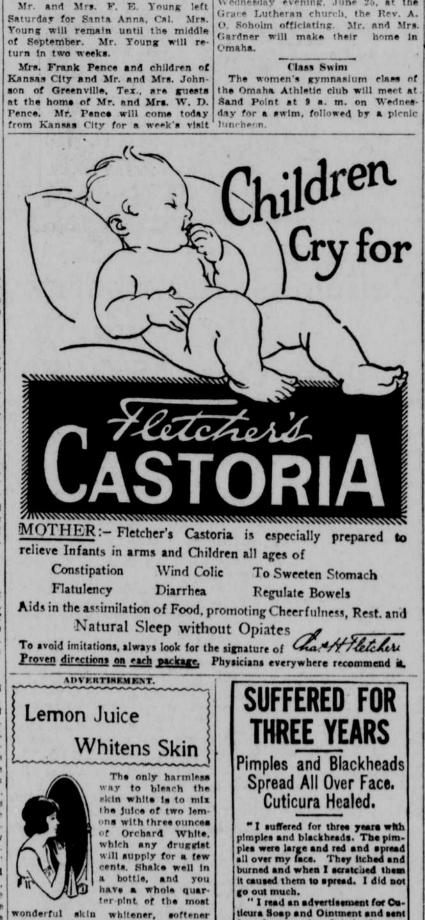

A unique children's circus, staged on the porch of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Watson, by Masters Richard and Walter Watson and Olin McGuire, attracted much neighborhood attention. The porch was partitioned off by can vas and Shetland ponies, dogs, cats and other pet animals featured in the menagarie. The boys were attired in clown costumes of red and yellow. Tall caps and highly painted faces gave a very realistic air to the whole affair. One cent was charged for admission to the menagarie, side show and main circus, also for red lemon ade, popcorn and rides on "Jockey," Shetland pony. Mrs. Donald Funk, as fortune teller and palmist, was the center of attraction in the side show tent. The mothers were very generous in their patronage. The Hot weather is here and with it comes the danger of blood poisoning and infections; all boys cut themselves---the knife slips; the broken bottle lurks in secluded spots for bare feet to tread on: automobile accidents are more numerous; fish hooks. Fourth of July crackers and other vacation pranks take their toll of limb and life.
