

Farmer Must Work Out Own Problems, Educator Declares

Balanced Production, Improved Methods of Marketing and Lower Working Cost Solution.

By C. W. PUGSLEY, President South Dakota State College.

The failure of the McNary-Haugen and other farm relief bills to pass congress points out the absolute necessity of the farmer taking the problem into his own hands and getting a strangle hold upon it as soon as possible.

Return to Farmer Unfair. I am forced to the conclusion that our present agricultural difficulties are to be traced more directly to the wide spread delusion of the low return to the farmer for his labor and the high return to capital and city labor.

Balance the system of marketing farm products and reduce the costs of production.

Balancing agriculture is essential if an oversupply is to be avoided. The balancing should be done before the oversupply occurs, instead of after the damage has been done.

Grow for Market. Balancing agriculture does not mean growing less. It means growing more of certain things and more of others.

Fattening Poultry on Farm Yields Adequate Return, Says State College

Lincoln, June 29.—Three dollars per hour of labor was the return received by John Glaum of Alexandria, Neb., in crate fattening his White Leghorn cockerels this spring.

With good conditions it is easily possible to get gains from 20 to 40 per cent over the original weight.

The logical place to finish surplus poultry is on the farm or poultry plant where it is produced, thinks the Agricultural college poultrymen in commenting upon results obtained by Glaum.

Business Methods Needed. Then, of course, the farmer will always succeed best who produces the cheapest, provided he is producing what the world is willing to take at a good price.

Eugitive Halted in Liberty Dash by Sleuth's Shots

"Dancing Dane" Makes Dash for Manawa; Misses Douglas Street Bridge; Held for Forgery.

John Spare Peterson, 28, was writing a check for a new suit which he had just purchased at the Wardrobe, 1411 Douglas street, early Saturday evening when Police Detectives Trapp and Munch spied him, stepped in and escorted him to the police station.

Most forgers pay for goods with checks of large size so that they get some cash in change.

Use It Dancing. Proprietors of the Fair, 1121 Farm street, Bond's, 1514 Farm street; Palace, Fourteenth and Douglas streets; D. & M. and other clothing stores were looking for the dapper young man.

Overpowered by Haze. The "Dancing Dane" dashed down Douglas street, it seemed to be heading straight for Manawa park. But he missed the bridge and Haze caught up with him underneath the structure after firing several shots in the air.

Peterson has been in this country about two years. On January 18, 1924, he was located by District Judge Goss. The charge against him then was also forgery.

County Meeting Endorses Entire Republican Ticket

Congressman W. R. Green Especially Commended in Resolutions of Pottawattamie G. O. P.

Pottawattamie county republicans, meeting Saturday in the court house at Council Bluffs adopted resolutions endorsing the candidacies of Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, as well as those of Clem F. Kimball of the Bluffs for lieutenant governor and William R. Green for congressman.

Kimball, Raymond A. Smith and E. P. Harrison made speeches in support of the republican candidates and platform and Charles E. Swanson was selected by the convention to succeed himself as chairman of the party in this county for the next two years.

W. A. Stone was named by the convention as republican candidate for the office of county treasurer, there being no nomination in the recent primary.

Without Hesitation. "We stand without hesitation or fear upon the record of the republican party from the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln. Its first president, down to the present hour, it has been a party of patriotism, a party of sound judgment and good purposes."

Andy Nielsen Is Found Safe. Andy Nielsen, Council Bluffs aviator, was "located" Saturday night by relatives in Woodbine, Ia., and expects eventually to fly back to Council Bluffs.

Mother of Richard Loeb Sobs as She Embraces Son in Jail

Chicago, June 29.—The heavy barred doors of the Cook county jail swung open Saturday to permit three figures to enter, a white-faced woman between two men, one elderly and the other young.

She was Mrs. Albert H. Loeb, mother of young Richard Loeb, who with Nathan Leopold, 19-year-old, was kidnaped and killed 13-year-old Robert Franks, a neighbor's son, for excitement, with her own son, her son, and her brother-in-law, Jacob M. Loeb.

Loeb's mother since he confessed and was indicted, her family fearing that the condition of her health would not withstand such an ordeal.
