Greatest Snow Blockade Ever Known in North-Western Kansas.

THE ST. FRANCIS BRANCH

For Forty-Three Miles Locked With Ice and Snow for Fourteen Days.

Special-Saturday, March 23, a blinding blizzard burst forth with awful fury and traversed the territory adjacent to the Orleans and St. Francis branch of the Burlington that spands Rawlins and Cheyenne counties in the extreme North-Western portion of Kansas.

Sheets of wet snow driven by a terrific north-wester obscured the landscape and darkened day into the dusk of evening. All day long with unabated fury indescribable, the white terror piled high filling the deep cuts of the Burlington and blanketing the vast plains with a carpet of fine hardened snow two to three feet on the level. When Monday's day broke the line of the Burlington for forty-three miles west of Atwood was under a drifts of the Blakeman hills and commenced Lord. a task so formidable that its equal is scarcely known in the annals of snow blockades These cuts were filled with hardened icy snow so compact that when struck by the snowplow huge blocks, half ton in weight, flew above the smoke-stack. The great force of two engines against a solid wall of drift wore on the head engine, and the snow-plow was demolished and engine derailed. Many hours of tedious labor, standing in slush and mud several feet in depth, were experienced before the locomotive was tracked again. Another snow-plow was secured and after a week of hardest labor with pick, shovel and snowplow the cuts of the Blakeman hills were tunneled and the plains of Beardsley reached. For six miles traversing many curves, the Burlington right-of-way winds its serpentine trail through the Blakeman hills. One cut, seventy feet deep, was filled from twenty to twenty-five feet for three-fourths of a mile. and many others packed with snow. The spectacle presents itself of a series of snow tunnels, scarcely wide enough for a train to Visits by others.... thread its way through.

From March 23rd to April 6th, St. Francis mail and rail. A fuel famine and shortage of provisions prevailed; stock in great numbers perished and general distress was experienced. April 2nd, the first train came into McDonald, Kansas, since March 23rd, coal, freight, and ten days mail on board. For several days the people of this famished town were burning loose railroad ties, fence posts, old lumber and living on limited rations.

When the snow-plow with Train Master Kenyon, Emerson and their tired gallant workers reached St. Francis, late in the afternoon of Friday, April 5th, the whole population of St. Francis and adjacent county met them with wild cheers and heart-felt demonstration. This beleaguered town having been for fourteen days shut out from the outside world; for two weeks imprisoned by the demon snow-clutched in the icy grasp of storm king; for a fortnight without letter or daily newspaper-locked in a vast plain of deep snow. The blockade crew consisting of Conductor Wm. Shinsel, Brakemen Childers and Meyers, Engineer Tony Clark and Fire- Mail Clerk Voorhees and Express Messenger Arnold, who had been snowed in since March 23rd, had orders to return to Oxford, Neb. With train ready they steamed out of station and never was a happier crew liberated from a forced and monotonous imprisonment. At the same time the west-bound train in charge of Conductor Caffrey with Lundbery and Will Turley, brakemen, Engineer J. Haskett, Fireman-

Mail Clerk Fairchild and Messenger was threading its way through the snow tunnels of the Blakeman hills and arrived on the plains of Beardsley.

The relief train had on board twelve days mail, express and freight for the beleaguered towns of St. Francis and Bird City, when with cyclonic fury a terrific blizzard burst forth, driving blinding sheets of fine snow. Onehalf mile east of McDonald, Kansas, train 171 stuck in a snow drift 600 feet long and five feet deep. The crew pulled part of train to McDonald and all efforts to succor the drifted train were in vain. This was about 8:30 p. m., Thursday, and the coaches lay there until about 8 a. m. Saturday, when a shrill whistle announced the rescuer in shape of a snowplow and big gang of men under charge of Master Mechanic Archibald. The train was soon dug out and side-tracked at McDonald. The blizzard caught the snow-plow that was on its way to succor train 171 in the Bird City cut, The snow-plow under Archibald, after relieving the west-bound train, hastened to rescue the buried snow-plow under Kenyon, that had been fast for twenty-four hours, with thirty-five men completely exhausted. In the afternoon, Saturday, April 6th, the snow-plow was relieved at St. Francis and a blockade that had lasted for fourteen days was ended. No army ever battled under greater difficulties against a more stubborn unyielding foe than did Kenyon and Emerson and their band of thirty odd workers in the walls of snow midst the deep cuts of the Blake-

The snow-plow crews were made up of Conductor H. A. Rouch, Brakemen George Bunting and H. J. Hines, and Engineers M.

A. Gates and Thad Shepherd, all of McCook.

On the east end for fourteen days the crews were running eighteen to twenty-two hours daily. Mail clerk on east end did double duty without relief and worked against three train crews and two express messengers, making round trip daily, working eighteen to twenty-two hours, having two to three days mail in car, three trips east and three trips west; with all the star routes blockaded, this mail was very heavy and the loss of sleep and long hours on duty during the twelve days of

A Wife's Repartee.

A party of young men were taking tried a man's soul and nerve to the severest dinner a few nights ago at a fashionable cafe, when one of them who is mail blockades. This blockade was widely somewhat of a jester called the waiter

"John, go and call Main - on the of Nebraska, known where 'ere the daily press 'phone. If a woman answers, it will be my wife. Tell her that I instructed you to say that I am in the police station for a few hours and will not be at home for dinner. Say to her that the possibilities are that I shall not be at home tonight. Understand me, sir?"

John winked a couple of times in a knowing way, bowed deferentially and suggested:

"Supposin"-

"Supposing nothing, sir! If she asks who is talking, tell her it is the turnkey at the Central station, and she'll never know who told her the lie."

The waiter shambled away and was presently seen to be having a good deal of fun with himself. The jester inferred that it might have something to do with his case and called him over.

"What's amusing you, John?" "Wouldn't like to tell you, sir; at least right here."

"I guess these fellows understand. Let 'er go!"

was a magnificent feat performed by a French regiment when they were fighting the Austrians. It happened a long time ago, but the incldent was marked by such superlative valor that it will never be forgotten.

The regiment, under Colonel Walhubert, was sent to take an intrenchment of the Austrians in the heights of the Simplon pass. Arriving at the point, they found the enemy solidly intrenched in what appeared to be an impregnable position. In front of their redoubts and quite separating them from the French force was a deep chasm through which ran a mountain torrent. How to get across was a problem seemingly impossible to solve. But the colonel was equal to it. He found a long, straight tree with a trunk almost to be cut down, and the trunk was actually thrust across the chasm under a galling fire. The colonel gave the word to pass over-one man at a time. The first was shot and pitched down to death in the chasm. The second and 39 third shared his fate, but presently a few succeeded in the desperate attempt. Then the colonel followed, formed the little party on the other side and charged. The enemy, dum-
