McCOOK, RED WILLOW COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 11, 1901.

NUMBER 22

Will Repair Building.

In due course of time, D. Kendall and wife will occupy their old home over on West Dennison street. A recent citizens' meeting determined that the money derived from the late benefit band concert be devoted to repairing their store and dwelling which was badly damaged a few months since by fire.

Mrs. L. J. Burtless, who has a mortgage for $150 on the place, agrees to leave the old folks in undisturbed possession during their lifetime and in case of destruction or damage during their lifetime to apply the insurance in renewing the building. Insurance and taxes will be looked after by Mrs. Burtless.

This provides the old folks with a home for the rest of their days and they express confidence that they will be able to take care of themselves after they are her sister, Mrs M. E. Wilson. again installed in their old home and place of business.

A. Barnett, C. H. Boyle and C. E. Eldred compose the committee having in charge the carrying out of the details.

A Correction.

DEAR SIR: A report is in circulation to the effect that in a lecture on Veracity last month at the University of Chicago I taught that under certain circumstances lying is justifiable This report is absolutely false and without foundation. Some careless reporter must have James McAdams. ascribed to me a view which I mentioned only to refute it In the lecture referred to I maintained with all logic and warmth at my command that lying is never justifiable under any circumstances or for any purpose whatever. No other idea of my meaning could have occurred to attentive listener.

Will you be good enough to publish this correction? Yours,

Unanimously for Merging.

At the special meeting of McCook lodge No. 1, Star of Jupiter, last Saturday night, it was unanimously decided by the members to transfer to themselves from the Star of Jupiter to the Bankers' Union Life Insurance of the World, whose supreme officers are located in Omaha.

The offer of the Bankers' Union covers all who are now members of No. 1 in good standing. Reexamination will be required and assessments will be required on present age. The Bankers' Union will protect the insurance of all who desire to continue their insurance on the basis of assessments on present age and reexamination, so that no one need lose his insurance. Blanks will be provided each member in due time, and the transfer will be completed as rapidly as applications are made and examinations
