THE LOAFER.

Tom Browne, the English Artist, and One of His Models.
Tom Browne, the English black and white artist, told the following story of one of his models: "I used to have a model a long, thin youth who was a golf caddy on Blackheath. I made a water color study of him and put in a street corner background. Before sending it to the frame maker's I wrote on the back in pencil a suggestion for a possible future title, 'A Loafer.' The frame maker after framing the sketch put it in his window until such time as he could send it up to me, with a card on the picture bearing the title, 'A Loafer—By Tom Browne.'
"One morning the caddy came to the side door and asked to speak to me.
"There's a picture of me in a shop window down in Greenwich."
"Really?"
"Yes, and all me pals 'ave seen it."
"With a sudden fury." "I ain't no loafer, I ain't. I'm a respectable caddy, I am, and you've got to take it out of the window."
I assured him that I knew nothing of the matter and was very sorry.
"That be blowed for a title," he retorted. "I'll miltie yer pye damages for this. I've been to my solicitor, and 'e sez 'e can milke yer."
In the end I fixed it up by a little tip, an old coat and a drop of something. Of course I had the picture taken out of the window. The caddy has not sat for me since.

THE NARCISSUS.

Old Legends About This Beautiful and Ancient Flower.
The beautiful narcissus is a very ancient flower, and poets of all times have sung about it. It bloomed even as long ago as when gods and goddesses were supposed to live on the earth. The old Grecian legends say it was the flower the maiden Proserpine was gathering when Pluto took her away to his dark home under the ground.
Another legend tells about a beautiful youth named Narcissus. His father was a river god named Cepheus and his mother a nymph called Liriope. The wonderful beauty of the youth caused many to love him, but he was cold and indifferent to all.
A poor little nymph called Echo loved him so dearly that she pined away and died because he would not care for her.
At last Nemesis, the goddess of retribution, decided to punish him for his hard heart.
She caused him to fall in love with his own image as he looked into a stream, and as he could never reach this beautiful reflection he gradually perished with hopeless love.
His body was changed into the beautiful flowers which have ever since borne his name.—Pearson's Weekly.

Laughing Disclosures.

Concerning the laughter of the Frenchman, it should be noted that our neighbors have worked out a system of character reading by the vowel in which one laughs. Laugh in A (our English "Ha, ha"), and, according to Larousse, you reveal yourself as frank, inconstant and fond of noise and movement. Laughter in E ("Heh, heh") would be the English rendering is for phlegmatic and melancholy. Children and simple persons laugh in a French I ("He, he!"), showing themselves devoted, but timid and irresolute, and it is observed that blonds laugh "He, he!" "Ho, ho, ho!" is not the laugh of an ogre, but of one who is generous in sentiment and bold in action, though of a woman who laughs like that one should beware. But both men and women who laugh in U should be shunned like the plague, since they have given fair warnings that they are misers, hypocrites or misanthropes.—London Chronicle.

To Rule a Husband.

To rule your husband, my dear lady, do exactly as you please, but always pretend that you do as he pleases. That is where your ability comes in. Men are ruled, as children are, by the prospect of a reward. The reward of your husband is your amiability, your sweetness, your devotion and your beauty, of which you should take a constant care. Love has to be fed constantly. Always let him suppose that it is for him that you wish to remain beautiful. The woman who believes that she is asserting her independence every time she puts on a hat particularly displeasing to her husband is as clever and as intelligent as the Irishman who buys a return ticket at a railroad office and on entering the car remarks to the passengers: "I have played a good joke on the company. I have bought a return ticket, but I don't mean to come back."—Max O'Rell in "Her Royal Highness, Woman."

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

List of the Awards Made in All the Departments at Last Saturday's Exhibit.

The Tribune takes conspicuous pleasure in recording the conspicuous success of the Farmers' Institute, the Boys' Corn and Potato Growing and the Girls' Cooking and Sewing Contests, and the Educational Exhibit of last Saturday.

The attendance was large and the interest of those present from all over Red Willow county was manifestly enthusiastic.

The afternoon session in Temple theatre was largely attended and the program greatly enjoyed.

There was a piano number by Miss Nina Tomlinson and a vocal solo by Miss Lenora Dougan.

State Supt E. C. Bishop spoke on "Industrial Education" as applied to the country schools.

Miss Lulu Wolford of Pawnee City and Mr. C. F. Chase of the University Farm gave a report and discussion of exhibits.

Mrs. E. O. Value and Mrs. W. B. Mills offered a violin and piano duet of their usual acceptable rendering.

Corn song by the school children and a short talk by Mr. A. E. Nelson of Ames college, Iowa, closed the afternoon session.

The evening session in the Temple theatre drew a crowd of five hundred or more people. The Pythian orchestra delighted the audience for the opening half hour with a choice concert.

State Supt Bishop completed his lecture on "Industrial Education," using the city school for application.

Mr. A. E. Nelson of Ames college completed the program with a short talk on the imperial, premier product of the farm—its boys and its girls. He is a live wire with just enough of the insulation worn off to give you gentle, stimulating shocks. Nelson is droll and spicy; his pedals don't track, out his mental wheels articulate O. K.

The awards made are as follows:

The exhibits in all of above lines were simply splendid and drew the attention and admiration of many who called and examined with interest and pleasure the exhibit made in the temple building.

In conclusion, The Tribune wants to congratulate Miss Hatcher, Steve Bolles and William Hiersekorn for their part in this affair. Next year we hope to add to the laurels already gathered. It is the biggest thing in sight in Red Willow county.

A handsome exhibit by courtesy of the board of directors of the temple has been allowed to remain in the front windows of the north store room of the temple building.

THE LOCAL CANDIDATES.
