Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison

THE action of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in sentencing recently Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor to twelve, nine and six months' imprisonment in jail respectively recalls the work and careers of these famous labor leaders.

With the exception of one year, Samuel Gompers has been at the head of the American Federation of Labor since 1882 and was one of the founders of the federation. He was born in England in 1850 and came to America at the age of thirteen, settling in New York city. A cigarmaker by trade, Mr. Gompers helped organize the Cigarmakers' International union when only fourteen years of age, which he served as president and vice president and worked at his trade until he was thirty-seven years of age.

Mr. Gompers resides in Washington, and his office is located on G street in a four story brownstone building that was erected by the local typographical union and is the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor. He is a fine orator, splendidly educated and has traveled all over the world.

John Mitchell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, has had a most interesting career and rose from mule boy in a mine to president of the United Mine Workers of America. At the age of thirteen Mr. Mitchell was thrown upon his own resources and entered the coal mines at his birthplace, Braidwood, Ill. Little did the miners think that the boy that drove the mule up and down throughout the devious roads of the mine, bringing them cars and hauling them away when filled, waiting on them in various ways, carrying his dinner to the mine in his bucket, cracking jokes, telling stories and having a generally good time, would when grown to manhood be one of the greatest labor leaders the world has ever known. His activity in the labor movement began in 1886.

Mr. Mitchell is also a splendid orator and a man who keeps his head on all occasions, as the following story will show. One evening he was a guest at a Philadelphia club, where it was the rule of the organization to call upon its guests to speak and then to confuse them with remarks. But Mr. Mitchell could not be confused. The only notice he took of the gibes was to say:

"I guess I could get along better with my speech if I were deaf. It is often a good thing to be deaf. There is a deaf old woman I know up in the coal regions. Once I went to see this woman, and she asked me to stay to tea. I thanked her and said I would, as I was not expected home before dark. She had been hearing pretty well up to this point, but now she got deaf all of a sudden. She had to ask her daughter what I had said."

"He said, mother," explained the daughter, "that he thanks you, but he can't stay, as he is expected home before dark."

"At this the old woman looked relieved, and I departed."

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, has held that office for a number of years and has long been one of the most energetic workers in the labor movement in this country. He is a native of Canada, where he was born in 1850 and is a graduate of the Lake Forest University Law school of Chicago.

Mr. Morrison learned the printer's trade in 1873. In 1896 he was elected as delegate to the annual convention of the International Typographical union at Colorado Springs, and this convention elected him as one of its delegates to the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, where he was the unanimous choice of that convention as secretary. Since then he has been re-elected at the annual meetings.

A NOVEL TOUR.

Two Adventurous Italians Who Are Rolling Around the World.

Some years ago, when people used to ride around the world on bicycles, columns were printed in the newspapers all over the land about the tours, and the cyclists were great attractions wherever they appeared.

When that mode of covering the globe became more common some venturesome pedestrians started to walk the distance, and intense interest was also taken in these journeys. Now we have an around the world journey that for novelty surpasses anything of the kind ever before undertaken. This is the tour of two Italians, who propose to cover the distance with a barrel, one rolling it until he gets tired, when the other takes his turn, and, as shown in the accompanying illustration, there is always an opportunity for one of the men to rest without delaying the journey.

The moving home is a novel affair and has been put together with no little ingenuity. In it are a bed and seat, which are mounted on axles so that as it rolls these remain in position. Here is a suggestion for the fresh air crank who wants all the windows in the train open when he travels and also for the parsimonious chap whose hotel bills spoil much of the pleasures of the trip.

A Devoted Couple.

One of the most devoted couples in this country is Thomas R. Marshall and his wife of Indiana. When President Taft's trip down the Mississippi was arranged recently many government workers were invited to make the journey with him, including Governor Marshall. Although fully realizing and appreciating the honor of accompanying the distinguished party, Mr. Marshall declined, frankly stating that he did not wish to be separated from his wife, even for so short a time.

The Marshalls have been most devoted since their marriage, and the closeness of their intimacy and their mutual reluctance to be separated were foreshadowed in the gubernatorial campaign of last year, when Mrs. Marshall was so frequently with her husband at places where he was billed to speak. She was not always at his meetings, but she was in the immediate neighborhood and was usually joined promptly by Mr. Marshall after the speaking and resulting handshaking were over.

THE CUNNING MOORS.

Dogs Used by Them to Draw the Spanish Fire.

We have heard a great deal in the past few years about dog police and dog detectives, but these clever canines must now make room in the limelight for some other fourfooted marvels. These are the dog soldiers that are being used with such good effect in the Spanish-Moroccan trouble.

Major Richardson of England, the bloodhound expert, who recently returned from Morocco, gives an interesting account of how the Moors use dogs to draw the Spanish fire. The animals, he says, are dressed in white turbans and gowns and sent in front of the Spanish soldiers, who soon begin firing at the supposed Moors. The Rifles, who meanwhile have taken cover, now have the enemy located and have no difficulty in wounding and killing a number of the Spaniards. This is only one of the many tricks used by the Moors in their affair with Spain, and they have shown themselves to be foes not easily conquered. The accompanying illustration gives one a pretty good idea of how they use the canines to fool the Spaniards.

GOOD NEWS.

Many McCook Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in McCook are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is had no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. People from every state in the Union are telling the good news of their experience with the old Quaker remedy. Here is an example worth reading.

H. G. Erret, living in Red Cloud, Neb., says: "My back ached and was very lame for a long time. On one occasion I was unable to do any work for over a month, during which time I deteriorated continually without finding relief. When I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills, I obtained a supply and after taking the contents of the first box was practically cured. I am now able to do any kind of work without having any trouble with my back and kidneys."

Plenty more proof like this from McCook people. Call at McConnell's drug store and ask what customers report.

With a Base Ball Bat

Some men should be beaten with a base ball bat instead of with a broom. If there is anything that will try a good woman's patience it is—bun coal. If you want coal that will please, let us sell you. If your wife does not say that she never had better coal for the money we will take the beating and remove the coal at no expense to you. All we ask is a trial order. You take no chances. We agree to deliver coal with all good qualities. Give us a trial order. Ask our customers.
