The Millinery Openings.

The millinery openings at H. C. Clapp's and Miss Allie J. Peck's, last Friday and Saturday, attracted a large crowd of ladies from city and many from out of town.

These openings with each season's return come with increased interest.

The showings this year were exceptionally fine and complete, reflecting up on the taste and skill of the stores and their artists.

Next Year's Lecture Course.

Notwithstanding this year's course was not a financial success, McCook cannot afford to pass by the advantages and opportunities of the lecture course. THE TRIBUNE hopes that the citizens of McCook will see this matter in its proper light and that arrangements will in due time be made to take on another course for next year.

After careful and due consideration, we believe they will.

Declamatory Contest.

The first annual High School Declamatory Contest will be held in the Temple theatre, on next Saturday evening, March 26. Two beautiful medals have been presented by A. Barnett for the winners. The judges will be out of town people. The young people are working hard. Judging from the interest shown there will be a big crowd present.

Surprised Their Instructor.

A large company of high school pupils surprised G. R. MacDonald, Wednesday night of last week, at his home on east 3rd street, before his departure for another field of work, presenting him with a handsome gold watch fob, engraved "M. H. S.", as a token of their friendship.

An Earnest Woman Speaks.

Those who had the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Frances Heald, state president of the W. C. T. U., in the Methodist church, Sunday night, had the pleasure and inspiration of being under the spell of an earnest and courageous woman. While she brought nothing especially new, she left a feeling of courage and encouragement with all.

She reported affairs in Lincoln very satisfactory and hopeful for a continuance of the capital city as dry territory, next year.

Mrs. Heald is a singer as well as a speaker of force, and favored her audience with several numbers of a simple character, which were effective.

Mrs. Heald carries with her an atmosphere of victory, and stimulates her hearing according. She has a righteous cause and is proud of it.

Here's more power to her and to her sister white ribboners.

EASTER NOVELTIES.

"ISLE OF SPICE."

When Allen Lowe and George E. Stoddard wrote the book and lyrics of the "Isle of Spice," which will appear at the Temple theatre, McCook, Wednesday, March 23rd, they laid the scene of their clever story on an island in the Japan sea, where all sorts of funny things are likely to happen. Very shortly after the opening of the piece they do. There is the funniest kind of a king with a desire to reform things, which to him means simply to change the existing laws. He has a beautiful ward, Teresa, who has received an American education and desires to have a young lieutenant of Uncle Sam's Marines thrown in for good measure.

The king, who accumulates wives, as the average American boy does marbles, desires to wed his ward, but there is a law which makes it necessary for his betrothed to first spend seven years of her life in the "tomb of silence."

While his Majesty is endeavoring to devise ways and means of keeping his ward from this ordeal, an Irishman and a Scotchman, who have deserted from the U. S. navy in a balloon, are precipitated into the midst of his cogitations, and he gives them the choice of taking her place in the tomb or being beheaded. They chose the former, but the scheming court treasurer, who wants Teresa out of the way, liberates them, and introduces the pair to the king as noted magician and astrologer.

After many mirth-creating impositions on the king and the court, they introduce the game of faro and they proceed to diminish the bulk of the funds of the state treasury and the royal wallet with great success. Then the young lieutenant, whom Teresa regards with more than ordinary favor, arrives in search of the two deserters who are from his ship. He discovers Teresa instead and eventually carries her off while the king has to content himself with Asbena, a lady of vintage of many moons past, whom the conspiring court treasurer had betrothed him to seven years previously. The story is set to music of that delightfully refreshing kind by Paul Schindler and Ben M. Jerome.

That clever, melodious, piquant musical mixture of wit, music, brilliancy in dialogue, gracefulness and picturesque spectacle, the "Isle of Spice" which comes to the Temple theatre, McCook, Wednesday, March 23, is promised in its entirety as presented during its successful runs in New York, Chicago and Boston. Apart from its claims to popularity from the musical and histrionic standpoint, it is said to be one of the most gorgeous spectacles presented. As the locale is laid amidst the oriental splendor of an island of the scenic painters' art, and the fairy like creations of electrical surprises which have been seized and developed to the utmost. Prices $1.50 to 25 cents.

Death of Little John Real.

Every heart goes out to Frank Real in the death of his eldest child and only son John, who passed away, early Monday morning, at the Catholic school at York. Mr. Real visited John about two weeks ago; the little fellow was not well then, but it was thought to be only a cold. The next day after the father returned home, pneumonia set in and the father returned to York and remained with the little sufferer to the end, which no skill could avert. The remains were brought home, Monday night, and on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, Requiem High Mass was held in St. Patrick's church, conducted by Rev. Wm. Patton and his assistants, after which interment followed in Calvary.

There were many beautiful flowers. John would have been nine years old in May.

Important A. O. U. W. Meeting.

There will be an important meeting of the A. O. W. lodge, next Monday evening.

The question of admitting Arizona and New Mexico to consolidate with the jurisdiction of Nebraska, will be up for consideration.

A good attendance is desired, as this is an important question to decide and should be of interest to every member. C. B. Gray, Recorder.

A Correction.

THE TRIBUNE was unintentionally and innocently in error, last week, in reporting a case of the federal court held, here, last Monday. We refer to the boot legging case against J. W. Barton of Bartley. His case was investigated by Assistant District Attorney Lane, who did not find evidence enough to convict, and dismissed the case. We freely make this correction in justice to Mr. Barton.
