Says Rent Long Past Due.

Ursula L. Walker, who is being sued for divorce by Chester L. Walker, has filed an answer in district court admitting she was married to plaintiff at McCook in June, 1899, and that she left their home in that city in February 1909, going with her three children to the home of her father, who also resides in McCook. She informs the court, however, that her reason for going to her father's house was that the one in which she and the plaintiff resided was rented by them; that the rent was fourteen months in arrears and that the landlord had threatened to evict them. It is charged that the plaintiff is a painter, capable of earning good wages, but that he failed to support his family, rendering it necessary for defendant to depend upon charity of relatives. She asks that she be granted the divorce and custody of the children and that plaintiff be required to pay her alimony and fund for the maintenance of the children.—Lincoln Journal.

Hurt in Fall from Moving Car.

A stranger seeking transportation on a west-bound through Burlington freight train was painfully hurt near the Denver avenue crossing Wednesday morning. The train was moving at a swift rate when the man attempted to clamber aboard.

Missing the hand hold on the box car, he was thrown violently to the ground. He was badly bruised on the cheek, hand and leg. "I'll never do that again," was his conclusion after Dr. Beghtol has eased his wounds.—Hastings Tribune.

R. R. Employes' Picnic Success

The 3rd annual Railroad Employes' picnic has passed into history. And it is written clearly and distinctly on the page a success, measured by every consideration involved. The day was perfect; the attendance large and jolly and orderly; the grounds left nothing to be desired, the sports and program kept something doing all the time.

Upon arriving at Cambridge, the picnic party of almost fifteen hundred from McCook alone was met by the citizens of Cambridge, and marshaled to McKinley park just adjoining the city limits, where the affairs of the day were each and all carried out.

The parade from the train to the park was witnessed by a large concourse of people and caused no end of merriment, as the procession of merry makers in costume, Happy Hooligans, the human caliope, the company of little girls dressed in national colors, the "Seeing Cambridge" party, Viersen's famous Shetland, cart and party in national costumes, etc., etc., passed by.

Arriving at the park, a selection by company M military band, the invocation by Rev. L. E. Lewis, the singing of "America" introduced Hon. C. M. Brown of Cambridge who delivered a hearty welcome to the railroad men. Agent G. S. Scott of Brush, Colorado, responded in characteristic manner.

An enjoyable concert by company M military band followed. Ex-Governor Shallenberger of Alma being delayed by auto troubles, awaiting his arrival, other speakers were introduced.

Jack Pennington, the well known conductor and head of the R. R. employes' organization, made a strong speech and a strong showing for the railroads, statistically, claiming that the present financial difficulties of the railroads of America are traceable to unfavorable sentiment among the people. He made a plea for better understanding between the people and the railroads, feeling assured that it would result in better conditions. He explained many misunderstandings between the people and the railroads, and argued that a true knowledge of affairs would bring them both closer together.

After a little more "jolly" from Mr. Scott, some music from the band, the ex-governor arrived. He caught his wind while relating some of his choice repertoire of stories. The ex-governor is a good story-teller as well as a politician of a high order and clever. He spoke briefly on what he regarded as the problem of this generation, Capital and Labor, and his plea was for an equal distribution of the wealth produced. He regarded Nebraska as being particularly happy in that here there is an uncommon equal distribution of wealth, as well as equality of opportunity. It was his idea that as the South could not settle its own greatest problem, slavery, that the perhaps greater problem of capital and labor could not be settled in the east, but would be worked out in the west, especially in the middle west. The ex-governor is brainy, clever and infectious.

A Few Junior Normal Notes.

Prof. Bengston's Lecture. Prof. Bengston's lecture, Wednesday evening, in the high school auditorium, was highly instructive and entertaining. By word and picture he showed the development and unfolding of life—animal, plant and human—in Nebraska. His lecture dealt with matters geological, zoological and historical—the evolution of animal types, such as the horse, hog, cattle. Pictures of dinosaurs and saurians, and of plant life from the period when Nebraska was covered by the sea, while the product of the imagination and restorations in a sense, yet real and scientific. It was indeed a long cry from the tropical swamp age in southwestern Nebraska to our present not excessive moist period. But the professor's efforts gave scope and wings to our imagination, and his pictures of some of our early settlers—in the ages long antedating human settlement—added to interest the involuntary smile. There was a high ethical tone in the professor's lecture that appealed to the thoughtful Nebraskan, and a call to appreciation and loyalty to her highest and best types of citizenship. It was a stimulating, elevating effort, and The Tribune would that more of our citizens had been present to hear it.

This has been an especially interesting week in Junior Normal work. The attendance has grown to 130 and most efficient and effective work has been accomplished—indeed the (continued on page 5.)

Green-Leineweber Wedding.

Beatrice, June 20. Floyd A. Green of Stanford, Mont., and Miss Rose A. Leineweber of near Adams, were united in marriage by Rev. J. E. AVOID VACATION ANNOYANCE

These broiling sizzling days suggest vacation. And vacation suggests the wherewithal to enjoy it. And past experience recalls the annoyance of trying to cash drafts and checks in a strange town.

Now, we have a panacea for all such worries in our TRAVELERS' CHECKS. They are accepted at par in any city of the United States as well as in foreign parts. Stores, hotels, railroads and steamship companies accept them in lieu of money. It's just like handing a greenback across the counter.

Come in and investigate before you go.
