The Explosives Lecture.
 Captain G. E. Carleton of the government's bureau of "The Safe Transportation of Explosives and Other Dangerous Articles" delivered an illustrated lecture, Saturday evening, in Masonic hall before railroad men and others interested. This is an important matter in transportation circles and railroad companies now require all engaged in this part of their service to pass examinations successfully in the rules of the Bureau of the Safe Transportation of Explosives and other Dangerous Articles. This fact made the illustrated lecture of more than common interest to this branch of the company's employees who were numerously present and keenly alive to the captain's lecture, made more clear and impressive by illustrations by the lantern.

Sup't Flynn was in charge of the meeting, which was attended by railroad men from various points on the McCook division, in addition to a large representation from local railroad circles.

The lecture was in line with the general trend of education as applied to all branches of the railroad service.
