Stillman—Young.

Surrounded by a small group of chosen relatives who have known and loved her for her personal charms, Miss Erna Stillman became the bride of Charles E. Young, by a wedding service, beautiful in its simplicity, in Wichita, Wednesday, October 18, at 4 o'clock p. m. After a luncheon where good wishes and congratulations were expressed, the bridal couple took their departure on a wedding trip among the noted cities of the south. Miss Stillman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stillman, and is of rare beauty and dignity of manner, and is the possessor of a loveable, amiable disposition, and is noted for her "sunny" ways, and is well trained in the home making art, being a capable house keeper, manager and musician. Mr. Young is the popular cashier of the bank here and numbers his friends by scores. His absolutely honest, upright, industrious habits have proven his sterling worth, and he merits all the success he is achieving in his chosen vocation in the business world. In harmony with the characteristic simplicity of the ceremony, there were no attendants at the wedding, and the youthful purity and daintiness of the bride were more appreciated. The bride's wedding gown was of cream silk, net gauze over silk, with collar and panel sash of old rose lace, with satin puffings. The traveling gown was of dark blue cloth, with black satin in-laid collar, which with fashionable poke bonnet of blue velvet, with over lace, and a huge yellow aggroo bird, formed an appropriate climax to a toilet that set off her golden hair and proved that "the perfection of art always enhances the perfection of nature." The groom wore the usual black, and looked handsome, as he always does. While this union has been anticipated for some time, yet it came as a surprise, as it was not expected before the holidays. The young people were the recipients of numerous gifts and substantial checks. For the present, they are "at home" at the city hotel where they have a suite of rooms of their own furnishing. — Garnett (Kas.) Journal.

Here is a woman who speaks from personal knowledge and long experience, viz., Mrs. P. H. Brogan, of Wilson, Pa., who says, "I know from experience that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is far superior to any other. For cough there is nothing that excels it." For sale by all dealers.

THE SEASON'S FAVORITE TYPE OF DRESS.

For many reasons trim, simple little frocks like this are fashion's favorite models for the street dress or the informal afternoon frock that is essential in every young girl's wardrobe. One reason for this popularity is, of course the smartness of the style, whose aim is to ingeniously combine many of the most effective new features without detracting from the youthful and graceful simplicity of line. In this model for instance, are seen the most up-to-date of sailor collars, the fashionable and chic revers set diagonally at one side, the new peasant sleeve that widens gradually toward the end, the deep cuff, and a feature peculiar to this design alone—the smart little tab extensions at the waistline, which is slightly higher than normal, just enough so to give added grace and slightness to the figure. Yet the general effect is one of extremely smart simplicity. Many of these dresses are made of serge in the serviceable street colors, brown or blue or black, while others are fashioned of cashmere, henrietta, poplin, chiffon, broadcloth, corduroy or velveteen.
