The Indianola Courier devotes two or three columns to blackguarding McCook and her citizens, but fails to mention the memorial exercises at the county-seat. But then, memorial day cuts no figure when Mr. Bishop's bile bag is loaded for McCook.

The members of the high line ditch surveying party, Joe Colver, Geo. LeHew and Ben Horner, are in camp at Palsade, from which point they will commence to work this way, Monday, when Mr. Kellogg, the chief of the party, returns from Denver.
Now that the summer vacation is on, Prof. C. M. Charles, who has been the efficient head of the Indianola public schools for a number of years, who is the "Co." in C. M. Loper & Co. of the McCook Business College, will be more closely associated with the institution in which he is interested. The Professor is an able and progressive educator of large experience.

The following gem of purest ray serene is taken from the Courier published at Indianola, this county. We give it in all its original simplicity and beauty. Here it is:
Moonlight scene on Methodist church steps Monday night—"Now, Bill, if you don't quit biting me, I'll bite you hard."

After giving birth to the above, Mr. Bishop should have taken a 30-day vacation, to give his gray matter an opportunity to recuperate. Another immediate draft on his mental resources might prove disastrous, and the office of the chief of the Ananiasess become vacant.
About three o'clock Tuesday morning, the musical notes of the water-works steam whistle announced the news of the existence of a fire somewhere in the city. The persistent and continuous screech of whistles and clamor of bells drew out the male population in scores, and the whereabouts of the "disastrous conflagration" was the general inquiry. Diligent search and interrogation failed to disclose the hiding-place of the "fire fiend," and the assembled multitudes reluctantly disbanded and wended their way homeward, severally and collectively pronouncing maledictions upon the false alarm fake. It appears, however, that the alarm was not without foundation, and that an incipient blaze in the water-works coal shed was the cause, the fire doubtless originated from sparks or sut from the smoke stack which had "burned out" at an early hour of the night. Being well provided for such emergencies, the night force at the pump house quickly had the fire under control; and the damage (save to public morals) was but nominal.

DECORATION DAY IN McCOOK

The Most General Observance of the Day in the City's History.
FLOWERS, EULOGY AND TEARS

For the Nation's Slumbering Patriots—General Suspension of Business and Decoration of Buildings.
McCook is as patriotic as enterprising, progressive and thrifty. The manner in which Memorial day was observed by her citizens is indicative of the fact that they appreciate the priceless services rendered by the heroes who are now "under the sod and the dew waiting the judgment day," by the willingness in which they put aside the affairs of daily life and unite in paying their tribute of flowers and panegyric to the the immortal dead, whose memories deserve to be kept fresh in every American heart.

Memorial day is preeminently THE DAY among the nation's holidays. About it cluster and cling more and tender memories and nobler sentiments than are associated with any of the occasions commemorated by the people of this land. It is meet and proper, therefore, that the exercises in McCook should be participated in by such a grand outpouring of the masses as signaled the late celebration. From factory and shop, farm and office came they, inasmuch that McCook has not seen a greater demonstration since the city has had a modest niche in history.

The programme as prepared by the G. A. R. post was carried out in all material points, in the opera hall, which unfortunately accommodated but a small portion of the people who quickly crowded the hall and filled the streets leading thereto. Addresses were delivered by Rev. D. L. McBride of the Baptist church, and by Mrs. Mary R. Morgan, president of the W. R. C., department of Nebraska. The reverend gentleman's remarks were well-timed indeed, and were received with marked evidences of approval and pleasure. Mrs. Morgan spoke at considerable length, and the patient, attentive hearing and warm applause given the talented lady are the best possible indications of the satisfaction and gratification drawn from her utterances by her large and enthusiastic audience. The vocal and instrumental music which "sandwiched" the respective parts of the programme was of a most excellent sort and effectively rendered.

THE LARGEST PROCESSION
ever seen in southwestern Nebraska then formed in the order announced and headed by the cornet band marched to Longview cemetery, where the graves of Comrades C. L. Nettleton, Chester Ward, George Walker, Charles Fox, Daniel Clement and Elias Concad were decorated in an appropriate manner by loving hands, thus closing one of the most interesting occasions ever participated in by the patriotic people of this section of the state.

Destroyed by Lightning.
During the rain, Sunday night, the dwelling of Henry Myer, near Osburn postoffice, was struck by lightning and (with almost its entire contents) destroyed. Mrs. Myer was stunned by the bolt and had to be carried from the burning house by her husband. Mr. Myer is an employe of Messrs. Pade & Son, the furniture men, but was spending Sunday on the farm with his family, or his loss (which is quite heavy) might have been terribly intensified. We understand that he carried $650 insurance.

Jay and Willard Simms, Comedians.
"The Jay and Willard Simms Co., at Whitney's, last night, made a big hit. There was not even standing room, and judging from the frequency and heartiness of the applause, there was no lack of interest. A more evenly balanced company is seldom seen."—Free Press, Detroit. At the Menard, Thursday evening, June 12th.

A Tissue of Lies.
"THE McCOOK TRIBUNE, fearing to tell the whole truth in regard to the county-seat matter, fills up its space with billingsgate and flatters itself that this will satisfy the farmers of the county."—Indianola Courier.
The above would perhaps be important, if true. Unfortunately for Mr. Bishop of the Courier it is a tissue of lies from beginning to end. THE TRIBUNE calls the Courier to the proof.

New Final Proof Blanks.
The general office has provided the local officers with new proof blanks, and instructed the officers to use no others. Clerks and judges will observe that the old forms are obsolete, and act accordingly. We have the new forms for sale at this office.

Strawberry Social.
Invitations are now out announcing a strawberry social by the members of McCook lodge, A. O. U. W., next Tuesday evening, in the Phillips-Meeker hall. A delightful time is in store for all who shall receive the compliments of this thriving and popular order.

Dime Social.
The ladies of the Geometrical society announce a dime social for next Friday evening, the 13th, at the residence of Dr. Z. L. Kay. Refreshments. Public cordially invited.

CUPID'S CAPERS.
EIKENBERRY-CLARKE.

Thursday of last week, the 29th ult., at bride's home, Mr. Daniel E. Eikenberry, of the well-known firm of Gray & Eikenberry of our city, and Miss Eva Clarke, an accomplished young lady of Adel, Iowa, were joined together in the holy state of wedlock. The young couple arrived in McCook Tuesday night, and are receiving the congratulations and well-wishes of their many friends in our city, among which number THE TRIBUNE desires to be enumerated.

Yesterday forenoon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Roush, occurred the marriage of Miss Eva L. Clarke to D. E. Eikenberry, of McCook, Neb., Elder H. A. Lemon officiating. This wedding, while not unexpected, was still a surprise, because it was all arranged so quietly. The happy pair will visit in the county for a week or so, going to Minburn on yesterday morning's passenger. They will then go to McCook and make that their home. Eva is a girl held in the highest esteem by all our people, and the best wishes of all will go with her.—Adel (Ia.) Democrat.

MCCOTTER-VOLBRECHT.
On Tuesday evening of the present week, the 3d inst., Father Cullen pronounced the words authorizing Mr. James McCotter of our city and Miss Augusta Volbrecht of Indianola, to assume the tender relation of man and wife. Jim and his bride are among "the salt of the earth" and deserve the congratulations that are being poured in upon them.

Demorest Silver Medal Contest.
There will be a contest for a "Demorest Silver Medal" at the M. E. church, Friday evening, June 20, at 8 o'clock, central time, to be participated in by Misses Ellington Wilson, Selma Noren, Elizabeth Kelsey, Bertha Boyle, Montie Stafford, Mamie Chapin, May Putnam, Olive Rittenhouse and Lena Coy. A committee consisting of Prof. Wm. Valentine, Miss Rache Berry and Mrs. Alice Dwyer will be in charge of the entertainment. M. A. NORTHROP, Supt.

Special Premiums.
President Coleman of the county agricultural society has taken quite an interest in the sugar beet matter. He has been distributing a large quantity of seed and besides has secured a number of special premiums for the best and largest display of beets. These special premiums are offered by our business men and will doubtless be an incentive to the farmers to produce superior beets. Sugar beets culture, however, is not a new thing in Red Willow County, as some of our German farmers have raised mammoth specimens in past years.

Strayed or Stolen.
From Curtis, Neb., on Wednesday, May 28, 1890, two work horses,—one, bay mare, 5 years, blind in right eye, and the other dark brown horse, 5 years old, with mark on right hind hock cut by wire. Halters on both. Information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded. Address,
C. W. BOYER, Herndon, Kas.

A. O. U. W.
McCook Lodge entertains its members, and friends, with strawberries and ice cream, next Tuesday evening, 10th inst. This lodge is growing rapidly, having received twenty-five applications in the past three months.

The unsightly sheds or board awnings in McCook are doomed. They are a permanent eye sore, keep out the light, are injurious to health, prevent the proper display of goods, after a few years become rotten and dangerous. There is, in fact, not a single argument in favor of their retention, but hundreds to have them removed. It is with pleasure we record the fact that they are being rapidly replaced with the neat, graceful, portable canvass affair, that in a moment can be switched out of sight, or made to serve the purpose of shading the buildings, the displays in the show windows from the glare of the sun. There are not many remaining, but we fear they are barnacles. The city fathers should prevent new ones from being erected and limit the life of the old ones, that seem ashamed if they are noticed. Out with the sheds; it's the last relics of a past age that cumber us.

The Indianola Courier grows violently rabid over the fact that his Honor, Judge Cochran of this district, enjoined Commissioners Crabtree and Bennett from "fixing up" the records in the county-seat removal matter, and froths all over two or three columns of his valuable space, this week, in his frantic and boorish snarlings and snappings at the Judge. The Indianola authorities should enforce the ordinance and muzzle Mr. Bishop, this warm weather.

"There are a few newspaper men in this broad state who 'don't have to' jump at anybody's bidding, and we are proud to say that Editor Warner of the Faber is one of them." Indianola Courier.
We regret, Mr. Bishop, that we cannot "lay the same flattering unction to your soul." The length of the string ($$$$) and the operator are too well known.

The county commissioners meet next Tuesday as a board of equalization and will probably be in session ten days.—Courier.
