WAGELABORER

WILL M. MAUPIN, EDITOR

Published Weekly at 137 No. 14th St., Lincoln, Neb. One Dollar a Year.

Entered as second-class matter April 21, 1904, at the postoffice at Lincoln, Neb., under the Act of Congress of March 3rd, 1879.

Printer's Ink, the recognized authority on advertising, after a thorough investigation on this subject, says: "A labor paper is a far better advertising medium than an ordinary newspaper in comparison with circulation. A labor paper, for example, having 2,000 subscribers is of more value to the business man who advertises in it than an ordinary paper with 12,000 subscribers."

MR. TAFT'S PLATFORM.

In a speech in New York city, Mr. Taft said that he really believed that in cases of contempt the party charged with contempt should have a jury trial, if the contempt alleged was committed outside the presence of the court.

Mr. Taft's platform does not say so. Mr. Taft, in that same speech, declared himself in favor of having an injunction hearing in a labor dispute heard by some other judge than the one issuing the original order.

Mr. Taft's platform does not say so. Mr. Taft declared himself in favor of publicity of campaign contributions.

Mr. Taft's platform does not say so. Mr. Taft's record on the bench, where he heard several labor disputes, is about the only thing his platform endorses. That record is one of open hostility to organized labor—and the platform is hostile. Those who say that Mr. Taft on the bench was merely construing the law as he found it can not point out the law which says that because a man carries a union card he can not refuse to work to the injury of his fellows.

Don't be an oyster.

All roads lead through Lincoln. O, how they love us these days.

Wade Ellis got in too deep on the last wade.

It is never too hot to demand the union label.

The full dinner pail cry will not serve again.

But after the election—What then?

Notice anything different about the Denver convention?

Come on into the union boys! The swimming's fine.

You can get union made printing at The Wageworker office.

Lincoln makes a fine large blotch on the map these days, thank you.

See, they are coming west for everything—presidents as well as money.

Government by injunction seems to have grown a bit in the last twelve years.

Organized labor should proceed to rebuke its enemies by standing up for its friends.

We are sorely afraid that Messrs. Post, Van Cleave, Parry et al will not like the Denver platform.

And just think of the retaining fees the American Federation of Labor has paid to Alton Brooks Parker.

Organized labor will serve an injunction—a legal one—upon Mr. Taft's ambition to sit in the White House.

We sometimes wonder if Mr. Taft was not a little foolish to throw up his fat secretaryship—especially with a record like his.

Everything comes to him who waits. Mr. Taft issued some injunctions and organized labor is waiting. November 3 will soon be here.

There are thirty reasons why you should demand the union label. Twenty-nine are that it is your union duty, the other one is that you ought to in pure self-respect.

Every union in Lincoln and vicinity should, at its next meeting, make preliminary arrangements for the proper observance of Labor Day. It ought to be a winner this year.

Send some union men to the legislature and thus help head off the proposed emasculation of the child labor law. The scheme to render that law ineffective is already hatched.

Aunt Carrie Nation is a lovable old woman who has a set of wheels in her head. This why she goes 'round so much. She knows the advertising game about as well as any of them.

The easiest thing in the world is to stand up on the floor of your union and spout your unionism. But it's a little harder to live like a union man. A lot of fellows ought to try it and find out by experience.

By the way, the Lincoln Traction company rather covered itself with glory by its service last week. The motormen and conductors should now cover themselves with glory by unionizing the outfit.

The huge street sign bearing the portrait of the "original injunction judge," may be all right, but we'll be got rammed if we can see anything bearing the slightest resemblance to a union label on it.

The chief objections made against organized labor are founded on a misapprehension of the real facts. All organized labor asks is a fair and unprejudiced investigation of its history, its objects and its aims.

Of course every Lancaster county politician who wants a nomination wants union men to help him. And the only way to get the facts before the union voters is to make announcement in The Wageworker.

The nomination of two or more good, honest, capable union men to the legislature—no matter what their politics—means that The Wageworker will boost for the union men. No others need apply this year.

A lot of democratic politicians, feeling that Bryan will carry Nebraska, expect him to lug the democratic state ticket through with him, and so they are seeking nominations. The democrat who beats George Lawrence Shelton will have to go some.

GRIFFITH RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF YANKEES

Quits Job Because of Long-Continued Slump of Team—Elberfeld Probable Successor.

As a result of the long continued slump in the New York Yankees Manager Clark Griffith has tendered his resignation to President Frank Farrell. It will be accepted by Farrell, who probably will put Norman Elberfeld in charge of the team, temporarily at least.

The Yankees started out like winners this season, but since leaving New York three weeks ago the team has won only four out of 18 games played, and seems hopelessly anchored to the second division.

It is probable that Elberfeld will continue as manager of the team for the remainder of the season at least. What arrangements Farrell may make to appoint a permanent successor to Griffith is a matter of speculation. There is a persistent rumor that Billy Murray, now manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, will take charge of the New York team next spring.

President Farrell declares that Griffith quit voluntarily, and Griffith himself denies that he was forced out. He has not been in good health for the last three seasons, and has often declared that he would have retired before if he could have given New York a pennant winner.

"In justice to Mr. Farrell and myself I think a change in management will give better results," said Griffith. "Whenever the team had a chance to win a pennant luck broke against us. We have had nothing but bad breaks for a month, and there seems no end to the slump. I want it distinctly understood that Mr. Farrell and myself are good friends. He has always treated me fine and has spared no expense to get a winner. He surely deserves something better than a second division team. I stand ready to help him in any way that I can."

Griffith began his league career with the Chicago Nationals in 1898, becoming famous as a pitcher under Captain Anson. He remained with the West Siders until the American league war, when he joined Comiskey's team and acted as manager in 1901 and 1902.

He won the flag for the White Sox the first year he managed the team, but when Johnson's league decided to invade New York and rival the Giants, he was sent by Comiskey as a sort of present to Farrell, and was appointed manager of the Highlanders.

He has been fairly successful as a manager in New York, for though the Hill Top gang has never won a pennant, several times they have come within a short distance of it. Griff was one of the wise heads among the pitchers, and while he was possessed of all the skill of an ordinary first-class pitcher, it was often rather quick work with his brain than his hands that won games for the Colts and earned him the name of "the Fox."

He owns a big ranch in Montana, and is said to have decided to pay most of his attention to it now that he has given up the game.

Gastronomy
—“The Science of Good Living.”
Gas Economy
—“Using Gas for Fuel.”

The good housewife who is broiled and toasted by working over a red-hot coal range in summer can not keep sweet tempered—and an ill-tempered cook—like too many of them—spoils the dinner. The good housewife, whose kitchen is fitted with modern utensils—like the workshop of her husband—feels like working and, therefore, turns out good work. A Gas Range is the fullest expression of modern labor saving machinery for the kitchen.

Labor Saving
—“Means Woman Saving.”

Time Saving
—“Means Home Comfort.”

A Gas Range in the kitchen saves the housewife many steps and much heavy labor. That means health saving—which makes for better wifehood, better womanhood and better homes. Time saving means pleasure that is barred by the toil increasing coal range. Buy a Gas Range and make home happier. We sell Gas Ranges of every description—cash or payments. Gas is cheaper than coal and we can prove it.
