KELLY'S PLUMBERS

TRADE UNION BANQUET.

Gompers Delivers a Characteristic Speech at Chicago Luncheon.

The American Federation of Labor chief, in his impromptu speech at the Chicago Labor Day trade union 500-banquet, rendered an eloquent tribute to the rights of wage earners. He said in part:

"If I believed that the movement we are engaged in was for the benefit of the organized workers alone, I could not give it the attention which I have done in my life work. It is a movement for the uplift of all our people and the trade union is but the instrument which we use. The very existence of that instrument is at stake. You have heard the expression of the two political parties. The democratic party has made a clear-cut expression in favor of equal rights before the law. The labor plank in the Republican platform is not a plank. Read the platforms. The declaration of the Republican is not, as many imagine, a plank on labor. It may be a whole lumber pile on labor. But it is not a plank. Perhaps it is a knot hole. If it is it's a mighty ragged one. Mr. Taft's declarations regarding the right to strike and the use of injunctions could have been no more explicit if he had mentioned the name of Mr. Van Cleave and the injunction suit which Mr. Van Cleave of the Buck Stove and Range company brought recently against me and some others. Mr. Taft's qualification in favor of injunctions is an affirmation of the justice of this suit that has been brought against us. Ask Mr. Taft or any of his supporters what they think of the suit and you will see their position."

"Next Wednesday John Mitchell, Frank Morrison and myself are summoned to appear in court to answer to a charge of violating that injunction which Taft justifies. We are to be tried to determine whether we shall be sent to jail for exercising the right of free speech and free press. "If I am guilty of libel or treason I am amenable to the laws of my state and my country, but so long as I say nothing treasonable I shall claim the right to express my honest convictions, and that is all I have done. "It is a matter of grave import to organized labor whether, under the Sherman anti-trust law, our organizations are illegal combinations in restraint of trade. If we are denied our natural function of organization, of what benefit is it to us to organize? To form a mutual admiration society? No. We must have the right to dispense the powers that be. I'm tired of having men appear in the position of apologizing for the right of free speech."

"If I am to be denied these rights, I'll simply say this: The whole world is a narrow cage to me if I cannot express my honest thoughts. "I am not a university graduate. I graduated from the college of hard knocks in the workshop, and I may not write as elegantly as some, but what I write is the expression of the discontent of the workmen of our country. Whether I agree with Mr. Bryan in everything is not for me to discuss here. I believe he is thoroughly in earnest and I will stake my life on his honesty. "I have no votes to deliver," he said in conclusion. "I owe allegiance to no political party. I am an American citizen and a wage-earner. I have but one vote. I turned and grasped Mr. Bryan's hand "and mine's cinched..."

SIoux CITY PRINTERS.

Line Up for Bryan and Contribute Money to Boost Him Along.

The Sioux City printers line up for Bryan. At its regular meeting, held last Sunday in Labor Temple, Sioux City Typographical Union No. 189, went on record in support of Bryan for president. The communication from the American Federation executive committee setting forth the reasons why it was supporting the democratic party in this campaign was read, and the discussion in favor of the endorsement of the action of President Samuel Gompers and the A. F. of L. executive committee was participated in by both Republican and Democratic members of No. 189, resulting in an almost unanimous endorsement of the action of the executive committee. The union also appropriated a neat sum of money to help defray the campaign expenses and the treasurer was instructed to forward same at once to Secretary Morrison. It was somewhat surprising to a few of us to see those old Republicans of No. 189 line up and vote in favor of the proposition, but they did, and came across in the true union way of No. 189, which organization always has been in front rank of progress. Sioux City, Lincoln and Omaha Typographical unions have given their indorsement and we would now like to hear from the other three Western baseball league cities—Denver, Pueblo and Des Moines. Come on boys, be constant, and give yourselves a square deal at the ballot box next November.—Sioux City Union Advocate.

THE PRINTER MEN.

Brief Bits of News About the Men of Machine and Case.

Ollie Mickel was in town recently. He visited a few days with old friends and then went to Verdon for the purpose of getting his brother Robert and taking him down into New Mexico and Arizona. "Bob" is suffering from tuberculosis, and it is believed that a change of climate will be beneficial. Billy and Garry Bustard are figuring on establishing a bakery, and if they do it will be one that can put the label on the product.

Erstine King is once more wearing a smile. Mrs. King and little Erstine have returned from a protracted visit at the old home in Missouri.

The New Century printery is now in possession of the label.

At the next Tuesday luncheon of the Lincoln Ad Club, Wells Compton will read a paper on "Advancing From the Composer's Standpoint." Compton knows the business thoroughly and his paper will be interesting and profitable to the members of the club.

Grant Hamilton, who is in charge of the labor bureau of the national Democratic committee, is an organizer of the American Federation of Labor and a member of the Typographical Union.

John Harding, organizer of No. 16, Chicago, presided at the Labor Day luncheon tendered Mr. Bryan by the Chicago Labor Day committee. Chicago Typographical Union No. 16 has just celebrated its fiftieth anniversary, with $40,000 in the treasury. It has been decided to use the money as a nucleus for the organization's pension fund.

The Union Printers' Bryan Club of Omaha now has 165 members, according to President Graham, and not all the members of the union have yet been approached. Three Socialists have agreed to stick to Bryan this trip. The Western Laborer says that so many Republicans have joined the club that it would be impossible to make any headway in an effort to get the club to stand for anything more than to vote for Bryan.

HARD LUCK

That's the Euphonious Designation of Omaha's Labor Day Stunt.

There is more "hard luck" in the Labor Day celebration management. Bob McKinnon, the treasurer, is said to have placed the refreshment tickets away in a corner carelessly and they were found by the moochers who appropriated from $50 to $250 worth. The refreshment counter did a whirlwind business after the tickets were distributed, but there was no money coming in at the cashier's desk. When a kid came along offering to sell a $5 coupon book for $2.50 the wise ones came out of it and concluded that the central body was stuck to hold the sack. Last year the program receipts were mislaid and now the terrible accident. Hard luck.—Omaha Western Laborer.

GOT A SHOCK.

Beatrice Lineman Rescued by Quick Wit of a Fellow Workman.

George Gamble, a Beatrice lineman, had a narrow escape from electrocution one day last week. If it had not been for the quick wit of a fellow workman, Burr Bell, Gamble would now be playing a harp instead of again climbing poles and stringing wires.

Gamble was up aloft repairing wires when he got mixed up with a wire carrying 110 volts—enough to burn a man to death in about two minutes, and render him utterly helpless while burning. Bell, who was down below, saw that something was wrong with Gamble and immediately broke a ground wire, thus cutting off the current for the moment. Then he climbed the pole and carried Gamble down. The injured man was taken home and a physician summoned, and just as the patient was about to go through the peatry gates the physician pulled him back and gave him a chance to make sure of staying inside when he really go there.

BILLY SUNDAY WAXES WROTH.

Goes After a "Rat" Printery and Puts It Off Watch.

Billy Sunday, the famous evangelist, is well known as a friend of organized labor. He never misses an opportunity to boost the union game, and being a member of the church militant he believes in practicing as well as preaching. The other day Billy performed an act that in about two minutes accomplished more than the union printers have been able to accomplish in years—he made the W. B. Conkey Printing Co., at Hammond, Indiana, be good in at least one respect.

Billy learned that a Decatur, Illinois, man had made stenographic reports of his sermons and was having them published in book form by the Conkey "rattery." Billy objected for two reasons—one was that he didn't want his sermons published, the other was that when they were published he wanted them published under fair conditions. The Decatur man stood on the fact that the sermons were not copyrighted. Billy stood on the fact that they were his sermons. But there was no agreement. So Billy waited until the plates for the book were all ready for the press, and then went to Hammond. He casually strolled into the Conkey shop and asked to be shown around. The manager didn't know him and consented to act as guide. When Billy saw the plates all nicely locked up and ready for the press he pulled a short-handled ax from under his coat and proceeded briskly to hammer dents in every plate, and before the astonished manager could interfere Billy had to put the whole job on the bum. Two or three "rats" sought to throw Billy out, but when the fracas was over Billy emerged smiling and calm, while the "rats" sought assistance in binding up their wounds.

PICKEL'S PRINTING.

Candidate for County Commissioner Preferred Work Without Label.

Robert Pickel, Republican candidate for county commissioner, evidently does not want the support of union men. With a full knowledge of all the facts he took his campaign printing to a "rat" printery.

This is only one more item in the indictment against Pickel, and already there were enough to keep him almighty busy explaining during this campaign.
