Such a man can be elected, and his majority would be so great that no counting out process would be attempted. A man combining all these qualifications, and many more equally essential, is found in the present chair nan of the state central committee, D. Clem Deaver.

Ever since the birth of the Populist party we have carried the state outside of Omaha. We can always do the same thing, but the question is how can we get enough votes in Douglas county to save the state ticket? The solution to man from Omaha who can carry that vote. I believe Mr. Deaver can do so. and that no other man in the Populist party can carry the strength in Douglas county that will rally to him.

Thinks Populists Should Elect Democrat.

RISING CITY, Neb., April 19, 1891 Editor WEALTH MAKERS:

I will write you a few lines and give you my views on fusion.

Now in the first place I will say I am an Independent from the top of my head to the sole of my feet, but want to see Bryan elected again. He is one Democrat that has many warm Independent friends in this place, and I believe it to be our duty to send him back to Washington to represent us for two more years. If we nominate a candidate against him what can we expect to gain? Another goldbug Republican Would not that be folly, and just what the goldbug clique want us to do?

Let us be liberal and stand by men that have the courage to stand up for right, men that Grover with all his patronage cannot control. Bryan does not stand in with Grover, but Jim North and Morton do. If Maxwell had received the nomination last fall I would have supported him. But no, he was too honest for the clique.

This is the lingering remnant of class they, who are all right now, and there's prejudice that has so long enabled the spoliators of the tollers to keep the sections of the industrial world at enmity, in a measure, with each other. Therefore the farmers say let a farmer be nominated for this, or that office, We pay three-fourths of the taxes, and people are giving their opinions and for this reason we are entitled to the position. This faulty logic is classrap. of the Independents would No class bave greater rights than others, it is not a question of taxes or Gadin of Colos, Saund occupation; if it were so, the very poor ra county, not simply because he man though most capable would be

In view of these general and generic truths let us lay aside this supreme folly of exalting one particular class, and berating others.

The class most berated is the legal fraternity, ank yet it is undeniably true, that no profession contributes solargely. and none are better workers, or more true, than is this class who espouse, and labor so earnestly for the success of our principles. What a sorry figure as regards ability, numbers and integrity, the Populists would cut if every member of the legal fraternity were to leave us! Another of our chronic follies is the cry of "Let the office seek the man, not the man the office." From this child's play we are liable to run to the other extreme of having a hundred mer looking after one office; for it is a truth that the congressional bee is buzzing in too many ears.

Again there is a spirit of chronic injustice existing amongst our people, though it is not so much the result of intention as thoughtlessness.

It is this, that those grand old timewho have labored and suffered reproach through the incipient stages of this economic reform who allowed their names to be used as candidates, when the positions entailed loss of money, time reputation and loss of labor or trade. Of course to be set up. was to be knocked down, and yet when through their efforts and sacrifices the time arpossible, and any of these true and tried were nominated, the old party curs would say, "look at your chronic office seekers!" and our folks would often take up the cry and crucify the reputation of these true reformers.
