Speech Which Angered Plutocracy

MR. ALLEN. Mr. President, I certainly hope the resolution of the Sens-Senate, not because I think it advisable Congress in person, not because I think it is advisable for them to do this, but because as American citizens they have would be unwise on the part of the Sento Washington, I suppose, at least I where he may live, or what his occupahe has a right to walk under the Dome of this Capitol if he sees fit and be as secure as any other citizen in the land. So if Mr. Coxey and his followers see fit to come here for a peaceful purpose. as they are coming-whether that purbody of the country of which they are coming? citizens; and they have a right to occupy these galleries, which are som : times eccupied by persons who are almost chronic in occupying them to the excinsion of citizens of other sections of the land. They have a right to come and be heard by a committee of this body, they have a right to pie sent their grievances in person; and no man has the moral or the legal right to deny them that privilege whether he be Seastor or citizen.

Disclaiming, then, any purpose whatever of approving or advising Mr. Coxey's movement, I must say that, so far as I am concerned, I believe he has a right to come here with his followers. and that he and they have a right to be treated with as much courtesy and kindness in doing so as the President of the United States, and any different reception of Mr. Coxey or his followers, or of any other American citizen, would be altogether un American, and would not be sustained by the common judgmant of the American people.

The conditions of the country are ripe to produce movements of this kind. These people have appealed to Congress from time to time by petitions and memorials without any attempt being made to redress their wrongs. They send their petitions to Congress, and they are received here simply because the Constitution makes it obligatory upon us to receive them; they are never read or published here so that the world can know what they contain; tor from Kansas will be adopted by the they are hurriedly read by title or a more brief statement is made of their for Mr. Coxey's army or any other reception, and they are speeded off ina my to some to Washington for the to the dark closets and caverns around purpose of presenting a petition to this Capitol, never to be resurrected or seen again. MR. HARRIS. I understood the Senator to deal with what he was pleased to characterize as a threat of the officer commanding the militia of the District rightful purpose as American citizens, of Columbia. MR. FAULKNER. I should like to ask the Senator a question.

MR. ALLEN. I yield with pleasure. MR. FAULKNER. Is not the Senator aware of the fact that no processions of any character or description can parade the streets of the city of Washington, or any other municipality of which I know, without permission from the city authorities, designating the route over which they are to pass, and the object and purpose of the procession?

MR. ALLEN. Mr. President, if that be true, it is a shame and a disgrace to this nation that it should be so.

MR. COCKRELL. It is so everywhere in every city of the United States.

MR. ALLEN. It is not so in every city of the United States.

MR. COCKRELL. It is true in every well-regulated city.

MR. ALLEN. It is an absolute shame and disgrace to this nation that peaceable citizens dare not get together and march in the streets unless they get permission from some person in charge of the municipality; and when the Senator from Missouri says it is so in every city in the United States, I say I know that it is not so in every city; that there are large cities in the United States where it is not required to get permis. sion to have a parade of any kind. If that be the law of the city of Washington, and honest and loyal citizens dare not get together upon the streets and marca with drums and fifes if they desire to do so, then it is high time for this Government to repeal such a law. There is no right in anyone to enforce a law of that kind unless there be an occasion for its enforcement by a violaand look in upon the highest legislative beaten into submission if they persist in tion of the peace or threatened injury to the people and to property.

> Mr. President, it is almost of weekly occurrence-I have seen it myself, and have seen it repeatedly-for military companies and parades of different kinds to march across the Capitol grounds, and yet I am told that it is in violation of the law for them to do so, and even the District Commissioners have no power to permit processions to invade the Capitol grounds. I saw last week, as I have seen almost every week since I have been in this city, military companies and societies of different kinds with banners, with fifes and drums, and with brass bands marching across the Capitol grounds without the slightest molestation or injury. There is not a man in this Capitol building today who has not seen the same thing; and yet we are told when Coxey, this mysterious and harmless Mr. Coxey, who is coming down the Chespeake and Ohio canal with two or three hundred harmless men reaches Washington, because he is not domictled in Washington and of say he will find no authority for any known high character, because he is not honored with a position in this end of the Capitel. or the other perhaps; because his fellow citizens have never called upon him to organizer, will hold from two to three represent them in any respect in Washington, that he and his followers are to be mot by police officers and a military force and kept off the Capitol grounds Why? Does he menace this Chamber or the Capitol? Not at all. He is harmless; his mission is harmless; the mission of those who follow him is harmless, and it is lawful, and in one sense laudable and respectable. The Capitol grounds-the great campus upon which this building is but when railroad lobbyists, tax lobbyists, bank lobbyists, and all other lobby ists who infest this city and these Capitol grounds, come here everything is thrown open to them; but when Mr. Coxey comes marching along with his the masses of his race, he is to be met and not permitted to enter the Capitol grounds, to say nothing of this sacred Senate Chamber.

The galleries are inhabited from day to day, from week to week, and from month to month by the same class of persons, so that American citizens from Maine to California and from Texas to Massachusetts are crowded out of them each co Massachusetts are crowded out of them each case, and notify the state secre-when they come here but once in a life-tary, Mrs. J. Gentlemen—I have been a victim of rheumatism for several years paat. I have suffered intensely at imee, and have gone to the Hot Springs of South Dakota, and the Hot Springs of Arkansas five ince, seeking rehef. I have also taken much nedicine under the directions of able physicians, about one month ago I suffered from one of the neat violent attacks of the disease, and at once becan taking hot salt water baths at your new and splendid bath house in this city. Under the care of our gentlemanity and efficient attendant, Mr. Henry thantte, I have, I think, entirely recovered.

From experience and my observation of the results of treatment of many patients at the Hot iprings above named and at your bath house, I amonvinced that better and quicker results can be obtained by a course of hot salt water baths at your ath house than at any other place in the country. I do not hesitate not only to recommend, but to urge every person suffering from rheumatism to try a course of baths at your bath house under the lirections of one of the physicians in charge.

I believe your new and magnificent bath house will prove a great blessing to the many victims of rheumatism in this vicinity, and I hope it will receive the liberal patronage it merits.

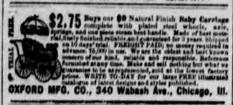

You have not requested of me any teatimonial, but I deem it proper that I should acknowledge the great relief I have received at your hands, and you may use what I have said in such manner as you way doem proper.

Very respectfully, J. B. Strook.
