

They Do Want to Vote. "Women do want to vote." What can be more exasperating to an intelligent woman than to hear men say: "Women would not vote if they had the ballot." Give us the ballot and you would find that there are many women of "many minds" as well as many men of "many minds."

cling to the party that Lincoln would scorn to own could he return to us? Will the ballots that shall be cast next November show to the world that there is not manhood enough left in these United States to protect our homes, our children and your wives from degradation and poverty?

A FARMER'S WIFE. The Duty of the Church. Rev. Dr. Chapin will address the Lincoln Nationalist Club Sunday at 3 p. m. on "The Duty of the Church Toward the Industrial Question."

An Open Letter to E. Rosewater. HONORED SIR:—You kindly forwarded to me a goodly number of copies of the Omaha Bee containing your speech in Fremont to be distributed to all intelligent and conscientious Republicans. I did as you requested. Now will you allow me in return to give you my individual opinion as a private citizen of your course in this matter.

The speech as a whole is a masterly arraignment of the Republican candidate for governor, and ought to convince every intelligent and honest voting Republican that he would be committing a suicidal act politically by recording his vote for Thomas Majors. But is this not a very weak and one-sided view to take of the matter? I fully believe that your position with regard to Majors political character is all that you portray it; but is it common sense for the honest rank and file of the Republican party to stop at Tom Majors? Are the other nominees on the Republican ticket one whit better than Tom Majors? Do they not endorse and ratify his nomination, are they not as guilty of conniving at the great wrongs which you say the Republican nominee is charged with, and is not their acceptance of his nomination a distinct pledge that their governor, Mr. Majors, is to them satisfactory?

Now let us look at your position in relation to Judge Holcomb. You say he has, as a man and politician, a clean record. Good. And you say he will carry out a healthy and pure policy as our chief executive. Again, I endorse your verdict. But why do you stop at Judge Holcomb? Why come into the Populist camp and select this able jurist as a fitting champion to fight the railroad corporations, and yet deny him his own associates who would assist him to carry out these self-same reforms? It is a law in nature, that birds of a kind flock together. And to ask Judge Holcomb to act as your executive, and work with men whose whole political career is against him, seems to me to savour of stupidity. Robert Ingersoll said in the March number of the North American Review for 1887, that he did not understand why the working men who were in the majority should vote against themselves; and most assuredly the majority of Nebraska voters would be voting against themselves by placing a Republican Attorney General in office, or in fact men of that party to any office that requested them to fight the railroad power. For it is by your own showing a fact that Majors is their tool; and most assuredly his associates on the Republican ticket endorse and would help him to carry out his aims. I say to you Edward Rosewater "Come out from among them."

Trusting you will see the common sense of my position and work to aid the Populist nominees, one and all. I remain, JOHN S. MAIBEN.

Palmer, Nebraska. A Word About Mr. Dunning. KEARNEY, Neb., Sept. 28, 1894. Editor WEALTH MAKERS: I observe in your last issue "a word from Mr. Dunning" in which he seeks to re-establish himself in the confidence of Nebraska people which he has so greatly abused in the past six months. To do this he promises to make "a complete refutation of the charges brought against him" after election. Now I have no doubt that those who brought the charges are as patriotic as Mr. Dunning, and will not press him for any answer until he gets "good and ready." But meanwhile I would warn all honest Populists to beware of accepting Mr. D's promises at par. If he ever does undertake to refute charges, he may find that "the half has never been told." The Populists of Nebraska have had experience enough with "wolves in sheep's clothing" to justify them in going slow. Yours for justice, S. EDWIN THORNTON.

Let clubs, legions and local committees take advantage of our Ten Cent offer for the campaign and order THE WEALTH MAKERS sent to prepared lists of voters.
