THE BIBLE AND ENGLISH PROSE STYLE, by Albert S. Cook.

This is one of the most suggestive and interesting little books we have read in a long time. It shows how profound an influence the English of the Bible has had upon our present prose style. All are familiar with the extent to which Milton and others are indebted to the Bible, not only for style, but for inspiration, thought, imagination; but few of us appreciate how much the modern prose style is dependent upon that mine of lit-erature. The book will be very helpful to teachers in High Schools and Colleges. Published by D. C. Heath & Co., Boston. Price 50 cents.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE SCIENCE OF EDUCA-TION BY WM. H. PAYNE, A. M.

These papers form a valuable discussion of the principles and doctrines of educa-tion. It must be kept in mind, however, that these are detached essays now brought together. They nevertheless form a united whole in thought and discussion. The author differs from Mr. Spencer in some of the great writer's generalizations, and justifies himself partly by a very pertinent observation. He says: "It is a notable fact that the men who, like Rosseau, Locke, and Spencer, have written the most absolutely on education, have been men of little or no experience in actual teaching."

SCHOOL SUPERVISION by Wm. H. Payne,

Superintendents and Principals schools have none too many books within reach that touch directly on their work and they need all that they can get. THE special features of the February Review of Reviews are articles on, "The Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta," "Canada's Prairie Commonwealth," sketches of the life and work of Robert Louis Stevenson, by C. BROMFIELD, Neb., Feb. 11, 1895. Editor WEALTH MAKERS:

The old saying that there is no loss without some gain, can be applied to this part of the country. The farmers out here have had but little manual labor this winter, consequently a good chance for mental improvement, which in the years to come will be applied to the civilization of man, through the science of government. There are many who have had their fallacious theories eradi cated by making diligent search for ancient and modern historical facts. So be of good cheer; the cloud of misfortune (or the lack of knowledge) is not without a silver lining.

There are millions of brave, patriotic Americans, who when well informed will establish a mental fort that will be impregnable, men who can with ability bid defiance to the plutocratic oligarchy.

I believe that if we ever rid ourselves of tyrannical oppression it will be by elevating mankind through scientific research to a knowledge of their natural rights and duties as individuals and citizens; for should we sacrifice on constitutional rights of free thought, free speech and a free press, we will have retrograded to the barbarous custom of exterminating wars. I think it would become us more to teach the children in our public schools the true science of government, and overthrow fallacious theories, than to have their minds burdened with military training which makes war possible by cultivating their animal passions instead of their intellectual propensities. That would have a tendency to establish a mental power instead of a minitary

B. F. McDANNEL. "Whatever Is Is Right"

I am an optimist. I have full confidence in the Creator, and his power to bring order out of chaos. "Order is Heaven's first law" and "Whatever is is right."

The last quotation is clearly illustrated in the present social condition, in the Frank Pope Humphrey, Alice Brown great crisis. The many are in the power of the few-a queer state of affairs in a republic, where the government represents the people. "Legislation controlled THE North American Review for Feb- by the money power!" Are the people and sold? When men barter the birthright of Liberty, when they forget God, when they ignore the two great commandments on which hang all the law and the prophets, and worship self through the medium of money, they get in exchange for that liberty, slavery. timely article on why we need a National The idol before whom they bow the knee University and Albert D. Vandon continvorites, along with all tributes paid. In its stead the mouster Poverty frowns on them and demands homage. Poverty and riches-idols erected in the minds of men, neither of divine origin, wholly antagonistic, all in harmony in God's plan, and while we follow in the wake of Fortune and worship at the temple of Mammon we may expect to see riches given to her favorites and poverty to the multitude.

We receive our due reward, we reap what we sow; but in the divine law of compensation, whatever is is right. If man will make himself a sheep he must expect to be devoured by wolves; it he make himself a hind he will be the prey of lions. As Cassius says of Cæsar, "I know he would not be a wolf, but that he sees the Romans are but sheep. He were no lion were not the Romans hinds." Those words speak volumes, hinds. and as I view the world they reveal to me in its true light what we call "human American Review made the statement greatness." It is measured by human weakness, by ignorance. An educated man among nucultured people becomes ant farmer nation in the world. Here is almost a god. He takes their mental a list of the tenant farmers in some of the measure, and gives them just such food as will please them-wine to make them drunk. The influence of intoxicating speeches, lectures and books, is becoming as great an evil as intox cating drinks. The effect is as delusive and the result as degrading.

Men at some time are the masters of their fates." Now is the time for the men of the United States to make themselves masters of their fates. They must do it whether they will or not; the "sometime" has come, and today they are masters of their fates. They alone are responsible whether for liberty or slavery. Let them decide and abide by the decision, for whatever is is right. MAUD DAWS.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course

The Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated on having secured Prof. Edward Daniels' services for three evenings of its lecture course. Prof. Daniels was formerly State Geologist of Wisconsin and is a man of almost encyclopædic information. He is also one of the most instructive and eloquent speakers it has ever been our good fortune to listen to. His lectures are illustrated with very fine stereopticon views, and the delightfully instructive entertainment he provides his audiences have won for him a great reputation. His lectures on Egypt and Mexico and on the Wonders of the Microscope are among his best. Everybody should improve the opportunity given to hear him.

Program of the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course is given below:

A Chat with Our Friends!

The publishers of THE WEALTH MAKERS have reason to be grateful for the financial support, and the very many kind words of appreciation and approval that have come to us during the past year and especially during the last six months. When it was known that the crops in Nebraska were a failure we felt some uueasiness for fear that we should have to cut the paper down to four pages; but so many of our subscribers who were owing us paid up that we have been able to continue the paper its usual size; and while it has not been all that we would like to have it, it has been the best we could make it with the limited means at our command.

But our hardest struggle is yet to come; we wish you friends to realize this fact fully, in order that you may feel keenly the weight of the responsibility that rests upon you. We are necessarily in your hands, in your
