JUDGE O'ROURKE of Indiana has just decided a case against organized labor in that state. It was a case brought under the law of 1893, making it a misdemeanor for employers to discharge men because they belong to labor organizations. Judge O'Rourke in his decision declared the law was defective and bungling and therefore inoperative. Between venal legislators and judges, protection is beyond the reach of the poor.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

THE CRUCIFIXION OF PHILIP STRONG by Charles M. Sheldon.

The above is a very vigorous, strong story. It produces a lasting impression and certainly reveals high qualities of fiction writing in the author. The story is evidently written with a purpose, and that purpose is certainly not to encourage that negative, soulless struggle that books like Robert Ellesmere and others portray. There is a buoyant strength and cheerful confidence in the character of Philip Strong that is very wholesome, and the weakness of the church and the need for social reform could not be more graphically brought out than in this book. It will be a source of strength and encouragement to those who have run up against the seemingly almost insuperable obstacles that Philip Strong met and who have been discouraged and overwhelmed by them. It will also open the eyes of those obtuse ones that "have eyes and see not," that think that everything is all right because, for sooth, their selfish interests are sale, and will not consider the wrongs of others.

The book is gotten up in an exceedingly neat and attractive fashion and we strongly commend it.

The School Review for March contains some excellent things. A portrait of Rt. Hon. Arthur Herbert Dyke Acland is added as a frontispiece and a brief sketch of his life and writings is given. The out-look notes are good, as is the Education of a Naturalist. There is a very important communication from Prof. Albert S. Cook, of Yale University, on the subject of college entrance requirements in English. We would recommend the School Review to all high school and other teachers in the state.

Macmilam & Co. have issued a large number of unusually excellent new books, among which are an expansive work on botany, by the German botanists, Strosburg, Noll, Schenck, and Schimper. It is a masterpiece. Then there is the new edition of elementary lessons in electricity and magnetism, by Prof. Silvanus Thompson, a valuable work; and a volume of essays and studies by J. Churton Collins, on Dryden, predecessors of Shakespeare, etc. Miss Yonge has another of her popular stories, a Long Vacation. It is interesting to notice that the call for Kidd's Social Evolution has been so great that Macmillan & Co. have issued a 25 cent edition in paper. A great book will be Louis Agassiz; His life, Letters, and Works, by Jules Marcon, soon to be

MOTIVES OF LIFE by David Swing.

There has been a good deal of interest recently among literary clubs and general renders both in the city and elsewhere in the character and writings of David Swing. And right y so, too, for no more unique and helpful characters have appeared in the American pulpit for a long time. Motives of L ie in the new and enlarged edition contains some of the choicest things of Dr. Swings. The style has that beauty, freshness and vigor very difficult to find. These sermons, like others of his, are wonderful in the number of proverb- wise sayings, that they furnish in a mere sentence. He could put a striking truth in very few words and hurl it at his hearers or readers so that it would strike like a cannon shot. That terseness and directness that cuts to the very heart is noticeable in this book. We can recommend no book more highly than this to those who wish to keep by them as an inspiration words of so great a leader of the people. The paper, binding and spirit are all that could be desired. Indeed the publishers of this book are noted not only for the excellence of their works in a literary way, but also for clothing that excellence in unusually attractive forms. Published by A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago. Price $1.00.

A subscriber writing from Hemingford says: "It is with the deepest regret that I have to answer yours without remitting to you $1 for the past year. I have taken the Alliance since its first issue and know that it is very important for it to reach every home in the state. The facts are, I have lost my home by Shylock, have been closed out of everything except team, wagon, and cow, by banks and loan companies. We raised no crop to amount to anything in this part of the state. The loan companies and specula-tors have done all they could to keep aid and goods from coming here. They say it will ruin the country, will keep out immigration."

USURY.

What is the Moral Meaning?-The Bible is the Only Moral Law Giver

In Leviticus, 25; 35, 36, 37, we read that "usury" is not to be taken from the poor, whether brother, stranger, or sojourner. And in Deuteronomy, 23; 20, it is allowed to be taken from strangers. To avoid a contradiction, this must mean a stranger that is not poor. The conclusion as to these two passages is: that he who must borrow is poor, and must not be charged anything by the loaner. And he that has things to loan is not poor. See Deut. 23; 19. The fact that men have things to loan, shows clearly that they have more than they need. And the fact that men must borrow, proves that they have not enough. Hence the command not to receive pay for the use of anything loaned to the poor. In the light of the moral law as given by God through Moses, "usury implies all or any pay for the use of anything loaned. And as the definition given to it in the rituals of the churches is in conflict with this moral law, the words "that is unlawful interest" should be stricken out and thus put the church rules fully in harmony with the Bible. A. M. C.

Collectivism, or Commun ism.

In conclusion I want to say a few words about the Christian Corporation of Lincoln which was organized last month, and has now a membership, counting men, women and children, of upwards of sixty souls. This is as far as I know the only society of the kind in our state, and its success as the pioneer of a new idea should be of the greatest interest to us; we cannot but be far more interested in a Nebraska socialistic enterprise than we would in a similar andertaking in another state. Here are the philosophy and purposes of this society:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men created have a right to live and to share equally the abundant natural provisions for a happy existence; that the earth is theirs by common in-heritance, for use only, and not for speculation; that because it is the inexhaustible source of values no equal value can be offered for it, or a part of it, and that therefore no just title of absolute ownership is acquired in it; that it must belong without possible alienation of title to all individuals of all generations. We hold that the individuals of the race are interdependent, each needing all and having the power to serve all; that each individual differs in his wants and capabilities from all others, differs not simply in degree, and that he is as much needed by the body politic, as is each member of the human body, to constitute a perfect whole; we hold that self-interest, the good of the individual, is so bound up with society interests, or the interests of all other individuals, that it cannot be preserved apart, that individuals cannot look out for their own interests only, as in the present business and political struggle, without insecurity and immense loss; we hold that there can be no clashing of interests between members of a healthful, naturally organized society and that in proportion to its numbers through organic unity, will be the measure of individual service, benefits and enjoyments. We hold that each member of society should be equally nourished, equally exercised according to his ability and receive equal honor for equal exertion.'

"Therefore, in order to open the door of opportunity to every individual, to provide employment and to secure to the laborer the full product of his toil, to banish the "fear of want", and provide a competency for old age, to establish the brotherhood of man and make possible full obedience to the Divine command, "love thy neighbor as thyself," this corporation is created.

"ART. 1.—SEC. 1. The objects of this association shall be to purchase land, erect buildings, institute agricultural, mining, mechanical, manufacturing, and merchandising industries, establish schools, libraries and institutions of art and science, and in short operate and maintain any enterprise achievable by united effort which may encourage and foster the highest forms of human welfare and personal freedom.

"ART. 2.-SEC, 2. This corporation is organized under article 40 of chapter 16, compiled statutes of Nebraska, 1893; with the intention of providing a social organ zation for socially, or in common, holding or owning all "means of production and distribution" possessed by its members, the purpose being to substitute the principle of collective or social ownership for that of private ownership in such "means of production and distribution," meaning by these terms all land, labor and capital, in whatsoever form, used by said corporation in the production and distribution of wealth. Its originators holding that only by such means, supplemented by the co-operative effort of all members and such substitution of the cooperative system with equal product sharing, for the competitive system, with its absorption of all product in interest. rent and net profits, can the great and noble ends set forth above be obtained."

The Christian Corporation does not, so far as I know, require its members to belong to any specified form of Christianity They do not compel him to wear any special form of dress, and the personal eff cts of members are not interfered with, thereby removing a great item of friction in all communes,-it is the little matters of life which trouble us most, The idea, as I understand it, is to put all real estate and other property of the members together, and so make a com-bined effort of labor and capital. The corporation will concentrate its agricultural energies this year on two fine farms which have been given it by some of its members. These farms will be improved to the greatest possible extent, and become the nucleus for still more extended efforts in the future. They are located in Butler and Lancaster counties. The corporation owns besides considerable other property in the way of scattered lots and ands. It is proposed to start a brickyard this spring, and also a store on the Rochdale plan in Lincoln, which will certainly prove a success, and thereby occupy the energies of the balance of the corporationists. As more come in to the society the field of its operation will be extended in all directions. The govern-ment and by-laws permit all members to have an equal voice in the management of the affairs of the corporation, and the initiative and referendum principle of legislation will be used—this, I believe, is the first time that this has been tried in the internal management of similar societies. This society believes that they can work out their own salvation, and by their example the salvation of many others right here and now, and that it will not be necessary to emigrate to South America or elsewhere to accomplish that result. The future history of the Christian Corporation will, I hope, show a prosperous career.

Yours of the 4th at hand and carefully noted. In regard to the trade system will say that we will furnish the coins at exact cost, namely $3.00 per hundred, and will order them by the thousand so they will come cheaper than otherwise, but we must have the money for them when we send them out. These coins can be used over and over again so that a few will be sufficient for each Alliance. I would recommend that every Alliance member in this county join in this arrangement. In this way you can control sufficient volume of trade so you can make it an object for the dealers to make contracts. This system is working very nicely where it has been introduced properly. The Alliauce members in Iowa are making the best success with it. I am satisfied that if your people will take hold of it in earnest and get sufficient members so you can command a good volume of trade, so that you can make good contracts with your dealers, it will help you out in every instance, provide means for your members to pay their dues and to carry a policy of insurance if they so desire. If further explanation of the matter is desired write us. We enclose circular explaining the system, also one of the coins.

Yours truly, S. D. Cooley.
