Japan's Demands May Be Rejected Entirely-The Conquered Nation Will Probably Make an Appeal to Rus-

Pekin, April 15.-Japan has presented her ultimatum, giving China one day in which to accept or refuse it. Japan has reduced the sum demanded for indemnity by 1,000,000 yen. #### LIMA A FIELD OF CARNAGE.

Twenty-five Hundred Men of Both Sides Killed in the Late Revolt.

New York, April 15 .- The Heraid's correspondent in Lima, Peru, under date of March 26, writes of the attack on the capital by the revolutionists, which resulted in the overthrow of the Cacerists and the flight of the president to Montevideo:

What a sight the streets presented! More than a thousand bodies of dead men and a large number of dead horses in the thoroughfares presented a most horrible and sickening sight, while fetid, pestilential atmosphere pervaded the whole city.

"Had Caceres not resigned and fled on board a man-of-war the revolutionary army would have advanced from its position, only two blocks .rom the palace and the principal fluare, fought its way with burning petroleum, and destroyed with dynamite every obstacle to its progress. The revolutionary forces were still some 4,000 strong, while by killed, wounded and deserted the Cacerist troops had dwindled to some 2,000 men, all completely demoralized.

"The total number of dead and wounded on both sides is more than 2,500, and the actual number buried exceeded 1,500. Among these latter were seventy-five women and about 150 private individuals.

"In various parts of the city men and women fought alongside the revolu-tionary soldiers or fired on the Cacerist troops from their houses. In other sections of the city women opened the doors and pulled the wounded inside, afterward passing their rifles and ammunition out to Pierola's soldiers."

At the opening the Standard Germany. Many arrests of persons options opened at $1.75 bid and the first sales were at $1.95, and advance of 26 cents over the closing quotation Thursday. From $1.95 It broke to $1.92 and at 10:30 o'clock $1.9514 was bid.

In the first five minutes of trading 19,000 barrels of May option were sold and there was some trading in cash oil at $1.91%. Although there is great interest in the upward trend of oil here there is little excitement, for the reason that nobody has the certificates on which to trade. The new Producers' association, as a competitor of the Standard in refining interests, is having a rather hard row to hoe at present, being obliged to buy crude oil at high prices and sell the refined product at low prices. A meeting of anti-Standard producers was held here yesterday and discussed the matter.

From 10:30 o'clock until 12:30, the closing hour, the market was strong and active, Just before the close 7,000 barrels of May options were sold at $2 and the prediction of many oil men was fulfilled. It then reacted to $1.981/2, but rallied and closed at $1.99 bid.

He did so, and then, covered by the revolvers, he saw three other men burst open the door leading into the postoffice, drill holes in the safe and burst it to pieces with powder. As soon as the contents of the safe were gathered up the party mounted horses, fired a volley into the air from their revolvers and rode out of town. American Protectorate Over Venezuela

Is Not Necessary. City of Mexico, April 15.—The sugges-tion that the United States acquire a protectorate over Venezuela by consent of the Venezuelan people in order the bette o resist British aggression there is not approved here or in ontral America. Statesmen in this country would regard such a move as unwise and unnecessary. As long as the United States maintains the Monroe doctrine, the United States is considered amply able under that doctrine, which is a part of the unwritte n law of this hemisphere, to keep England from taking territory from Venezuela or Nicaragua. Mexican public men think England's aim in her policy toward Nicaragua is to prevent the American government exercising exclusive dominion over the ship canal.

THE DENTAL WILLOW O' THE WISP.

DR. A. P. BURRUS, 1208 O STREET.

Toothache, and the Remedies

none are more difficult to endure than the toothache. The pain varies from a sore grumbling to the severest suffering that man is capable of enduring. More than one person has actually gone in-some from toothache, and a few have lost their lives in consequence of deceased

Child With the Strumous Diathesis. This child had paralysis on one side of the face and subsequently died in New York from the effects of a deceased tooth! Such children not only have soft teeth, but they have soft bones easily fractured, are quite liable to caries and disease of the joints. In such cases I usually prescribe bone tonics to harden the teeth and bones preventing future

I have known three cases of death in consequence of diseased teeth. One was a wagon-maker at Waterville, Wis., who had a diseased wisdom tooth. A dentist attempted to extract it and the patient went into convulsions. Although he had the best medical skill in Milwaukee the tooth was never extracted and the man died after dreadful suffering for several days.

The second case was Mr. M., a book mercuant at Janesville, Wis. He had a dead tooth corked tight by a dentist who left soon after. The tooth ulcerated at the root forming pent up pus which operated as blood poison, and symptoms of typhoid fever set in and he died in two weeks. The third case was a doctor at Stillwater, Minnesota, who had his finger bitten by the patient for whom he was attempting to extract a tooth! Blood poison set in and he died a few days

Cases are numerous where death has taken place frem heart failure, shock or anæthetics, while extracting teeth.

DEATH RESULTS FROM TOOTHACHE. FLEMINGRBURG, Ky., April 4.—Rev. Elijah Luman of Sanford, was suffering with a severe attack of toothache yesterday and the pain became so severe that he died of neuralgia of the heart. He was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church south and in his 82d year. But children are tender and sensative to pain and suffer far more than adults from disordered teeth. I was called out to see a very sick little boy of six years. I found him with his face fearfully swollen laying in his mother's lap, stupified with opium and worn out with suffering and loss of sleep. The whole family had been kept in a perfect state of turmoil for two or three days. On carefully opening the mouth two dead roots were found ulcerated. On removing the roots a large quantity of pus gushed out which gave immediate relief. People as a general rule labor under a great delusion in regard to children's teeth; supposing they have no roots.

It is only near the time to shed the first teeth that the roots have been absorbed away that children's teeth can be easily removed. I have an anatomical specimen obtained from Paris showing both first and second sets of teeth. People who have children are invited to call and examine this natural specimen and dispell the delusion in regard to their children's teeth.

The following illustrations will show the cases of toothache and point to the correct remedies:

The above cut shows a decayed tooth with a black seam in the crown, under the star, below the seam is a dark spot of softened dentine, below this is a white spot in process of decay partly softened so that the black seam does not indicate the extent of decay. Beneath this seam the decay varies from the size of a pinhead to a pea. Still the tooth does not ache until the decay reaches the pulp or

It frequently happens that the person is not aware that his teeth are decaying until the tooth breaks through and to his great surprise he finds a great cavity

Such teeth are found where the person is dyspeptic and the tongue is frequently coated towards the root with a brownish or ash colored coating and red at the tip. Sometimes headache over the eyes and dryness of the mouth at night or a claimmy taste in the morning. The value of the molars is without price and their to fall out, are mighty long and sore. preservation is of the utmost importance; preventing the checks from falling in and the premature appearance of old

If the molars are not preserved all the mastication is performed on the front teeth which soon give way or wear out from extra hard use. To lose a front tooth is like losing a letter from the English alphabet, imparing speech and music, or like knocking out the parlor window and defacing beauty. A person with half their front teeth gone and the other half black with decay looks much like Burns old hag riding on the Willow

Therefore it is of greatest importance to have them well filled at the first sight of decay. Teeth well filled will last an indefinite time depending on the quality of the teeth and general health of the patient. Soft teeth can be depended on from three to five years when some of them will need refilling. Those of medium quality last anywhere from five to thirty loose and drop out, vears or longer, while those with hard enamel will last a life time if well filled Among all the sufferings of mankind, with fine gold. If the tooth has a large cavity and much metal is put near the pulp or nerve it is sure to die sooner or later and give future trouble by ulcerating at the roots causing a swelled head and much suffering. If the tooth gets sore after filling at the root and appears longer the nerve should be removed immediately or the tooth will certainly ulcerate and share the fate of this molar.

ULCERATED TOOTH

Gone by default. A professor of Albion College assured me that he would freely give $3,000 if he could have the three molars which he had lost by default, re-stored as good as they were. This tooth education cost him much suffering which was only obtained too late from the Dental Bush Whacker!

No disease is more serious or fatal to the teeth than rheumatism. The poisonous acid in the system that causes rheu-matism turns the teeth black. We see in children of gouty and rheumatic parents dark or black rings around the necks of the teeth with red tongue. Later on the teeth have the enamel corroded and decay. Such teeth are sore and tender, sensative and it is advisable to give remedies to relieve the system of acid for three or four days, after this the teeth may be filled without pain. Such are advised to wear warm clothing and use moderation in cake, preserves, mince pie, warm or heavy bread, and the use of proper medicine occasionally will prevent future attacks of gout, rheumatism and long doctor bills!

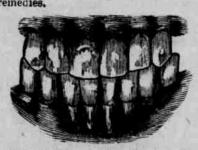

EROSION OF THE ENAMEL.

This is external caries most frequently associated with skin disease, exemia, acnæ, etc., with dark grooves around the neck. Filling the teeth and curing the skin disease is what we advise.

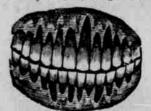

CALCULUS ON THE TEETH. In all places where there is hard lime stone water and malaria more or less calculus will be found on the front under teeth, most frequent on the back side under the tip of the tongue. As it slowly accumulates the gums get sore, bleed easily, and recede from the necks of the teeth until they finally get loose, sore, and drop out. The loss of the under front teeth are a great misfortune, un-known until lost. The mouth is crippled and deformed for life. The difficulty of biting off a piece of bread, or into an apple, or eating green corn, reminds the patient of second childhood, spoon vic-tuals and hotel has made of left-over taglocks, codfish balls, etc. The best remedies are to clean the teeth and then keep them clean with detersive tooth powder, Headache and frequent billious attacks are generally associated with this disease. Constipation is frequent. Soft water, attention to the liver, and medicine to prevent billious attacks in hot weather are advised. Lemons and ripe fruits are among the best common remedies.

This cut shows all the front teeth going rapidly. Four of the under teeth show the alveolus eaten away and ready

CARIES OF THE ALVEOLUS (Phage-dae-na.) (Pyorrhoea.)

At first the gums are a deep, cherry red in the form of red rings around the necks of the teeth; later on if the gum is pressed pus oozes out with an offensive odor. The breath is foul and the flies torment the patient in warm weather.

Under each point of red gum is a little pocket full of pus. The tendancy of the disease is to keep on until the bony structure that sustains the teeth is all ulcerated away and all the teeth get bates on this disease in the national conventions, part claiming it an incurable disease always fatal to the teeth The other part claims it to be curable. Both parties are correct. Part of the cases are curable, part are not.

If there is no specific vice in the system we have a fair chance of success, and generally cure the disease in a few days. On the other hand if there is secondary syphilis present, the teeth will be lost and the palate and bridge of the nose may received.

CASE IN PRACTICE.

Carious teeth disease extends to the inferior maxilary bones, one-third of the lett jaw removed and the patient finally recovers without deformity.

On July 2, 1894, Mr. A. C. Hamiltonabout 50 years of age—came into my office, supported by his wife on one side and father-in-law on the other. His face was enormously swollen on the left side; he was thin, sallow and very weak; could hardly speak or open his mouth more than half an inch! He said that he lived out west 75 miles, had come to Lincoln for treatment. The doctors out there could not tell what ailed him. Two physicians of Lincoln had advised him to consult me and he wanted to know if I could tell what ailed him. He had already picked out three molars and one bicuspid with his finger! I passed a probe down into two openings over an inch, and in the third opening where he picked out the wisdom tooth, clear to the lower posterior angle of the jaw, more than an inch and a-half. In a word he had Riggs disease, with extensive caries of the bone. Large quantities of fetid pus constantly discharged, and his friends appeared to be much alarmed.

I first made an incision over the dead hone nearly two inches long; syringed out the pus with antiseptcis; used medicine to dissolve the dead bone, then packed the opening with cotton dipped in Camphophenique. This treatment was repeated every morning for a week, and then every other day. On the tenth day I removed the other one-third of the jaw (Maxilera) bone, over two inches in length, and one and a fourth wide. The swelling went down and he was soon on the gain, but was suddenly attacked with diarrhea which ran him down fast. This was arrested with Bistmuth. The face began to swell again with considerable discharge of pus. Another piece of dead bone three-fourths of an inch long came out and the wound began to heal. About this time the disease commenced on the right side above and below around some old dead teeth. The teeth when encircled with rings of dark red gums around their necks, and getting loose. I extracted these dead teeth, and he made a rapid recovery. At the end of six weeks he was well without deformity. New bone had filled up the cavity left by the removal of dead bone.

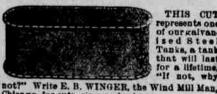

When people have been so unfortunate as to lose their teeth above and below, the jaws cannot be touched together, as an inch or more space is left between so the mouth is in a state of collapse, the chin coming forward and turning up toward the nose, giving the face the ap-pearance of a half moon. No one can ever realize how utterly helpless he is in mastification until he looses all his teeth.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH.

is the only remedy for the evil, and there are swarms of Dental Bushwhackers offering the best teeth for $5, promising what they have not got; neither can they make a set of teeth worth even $5. Satan offered Jesus Christ all the kingdoms of the earth if he would only fall down and worship him, when he did not own one single foot of ground!

Platinum and gold are cash articles and never at a discount. Platinum is the only metal that can be used in a firstclass set of teeth. If the pins are as long and heavy as needed for durable teeth, and teeth of the best material and shaped and colored so as to look like natural teeth, the materials alone out of which a good set of teeth are constructed will cost $5 or more. Any honest dentist will agree with me on the above facts. And yet Lincoln is flooded with Bush whacker teeth! Some look like old tombstones and rattle in the mouth like dead men's bones! Others look like cat's teeth. People who hunt for cheap things find the article purchased sometimes not worth half the price paid for it. Those who purchase Bushwhacker teeth in a short time will spend more for repairs than a first-class set costs. I keep cheap teeth, three or four grades, to accommodate those who want them.
