BLACKMAIL FROM PRISON

HOLMES' BOLD SCHEME TO SECURE NEEDED DEFENSE MONEY.
HIS LATEST DEEP SCHEME.

The Insurance Swindler and Alleged Murderer Seeking to Extort Cash From Those He Has Met by Threatening to Write Them Up in His Book—The Book Smuggled to Publishers.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—H. H. Holmes, who is charged with wholesale insurance swindling and with several murders, and is now awaiting trial for the killing of B. F. Pletzler, although deprived of writing material and in spite of every precaution taken to prevent his communication with anyone outside, has written what purports to be a sketch of his career on the margins of books in the solitude of his cell, and has succeeded in getting it smuggled outside and sent to printers. This is part of a deep-laid scheme of Holmes.

During his travels throughout the country he has had business and social relations with many persons of undoubted respectability. He has with unusual cunning kept a record of all these transactions. The major portion of these friendships were undoubtedly free from any suspicion of wrong-doing, but they are to be made the vehicle for securing sufficient funds for his defense.

The opening chapters of Holmes' book, published in one of the local papers, rehearse the earlier doings of a New Hampshire lad, whose subsequent career is not foreshadowed in any way. Innocent enough as the reminiscences may be, they are the groundwork of Holmes' bold stroke. These papers are to be mailed to all unfortunate enough to have been classed among Holmes' friends. These people will be informed that they are to be part and parcel of the book. Intimations will be given that it will be unpleasant to be known in connection with its author and that all mention of names will be omitted—for a money consideration.

One of the chapters is devoted to the Boston experiences of Holmes and Minnie Williams. The woman, under the guidance of Holmes, entrapped a wealthy man of family. For a time, being led to believe that he had deeply wronged the girl, he made such occasional financial reparations as he deemed proper, and the "conscience" fund found its way into Holmes' pocket. When Minnie Williams dropped out of sight the Boston man breathed freer, but proof sheets of Holmes' book are now being printed in a printing office near Sixth and Market streets to be forwarded to the Boston man and this proposition made: If he will purchase $1,000 copies of the book, accompanying the order with $1,000 in cash, his name will be omitted, as well as all matter that would in any way point to him. No doubt the Boston man—who can well afford it—will very promptly order the book and inclose remittance for the same.

POINTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

—The business end of the silver craze is stirring things up lively just now. It is the only end in sight and is likely to be for some time.
—October will soon be here and the obligation of the syndicate to maintain the reserve intact ceases. Then comes more withdrawals and more bonds.—Nonconformist.
—It is rumored that there is a movement on foot for the combination of all existing railroads in the United States under one control. If that is true, the one control should be the United States government. If not, the combine will be far more powerful than the government.—Progressive Farmer.
—Scheming to get the government to turn over the issuing and control of all money to bankers, are they? Yes, and it would be asking much less to want the government to turn over the post offices to private management. The people would not hear of that, will they permit the other?—Farmers' Tribune.
—There is more business done in one day in the United States between its citizens than in one whole year between us and foreign nations. Yet we must have money that is "good in Europe." Would it not look more sensible to fix our money for home trade and let Europe look out for itself?—Cleburne (Tex.) Herald.
—If the masses of the people ever get down to deep thought on the question of "a money of ultimate redemption" they will see how utterly senseless such talk is. With $115,000,000 of gold as a money of ultimate redemption and ten times the amount to be redeemed we still hear men cry about an honest financial basis.—Nonconformist.
—Let me say to some senators who are so frightened when you talk about fiat money and about making money by law, and who seem to think it indicates a low intelligence and lack of information upon these subjects, that the period at which Greece had iron money is the most glorious of all its history. For 350 years they made iron money by the will of the government.—Senator Teller.
—The money fight is not so much whether we shall have gold and silver money, as it is whether banking institutions shall furnish their notes as the currency of the country at an enormous profit, and as a means of sweeping the financial platter about every ten years. Currency reform is worth the name which does not include the abolition of all banks of issue, and the issue of all currency by the government itself.—Progressive Farmer.
—The ladies who wear bloomers, or whatever-you-call-'em, while riding bicycles, are now getting rapped by the pulpit and the crochety editor. It beats all how much some men know about what a woman should do. Some men will munch tobacco, and spit tobacco juice all over a township, but have no trouble in discerning that riding a bicycle, dressed in a divided skirt is improper and indecent.—Farmers' Voice.
—Senator Peffer is out in his interview denying a recent Associated press dispatch sent from New York representing him as saying that the silver movement was waning in the west. The senator says he never entertained any such idea, but thinks to the contrary. These press dispatches concerning populists must always be verified before they can be believed. One of the strong points of the money power and its allies is its inexhaustible ability for artistic lying.—Nonconformist.
—A dispatch from London, England, says that the local government board has given its approval to the colonization experiment promoted by the board of management of the poorhouse at Poplar, a district of the city. A farm has been secured in Essex, and upon this it is proposed to colonize 100 able-bodied men and 50 women with their wives. If the scheme is successful it will be adopted in many other parts of the country, and will relieve the poorhouses of many unfortunate men and women, who, although able-bodied, have been unable to obtain work and forced to declare themselves paupers.—National Advance.

Brother and Sister Drowned.
SHELBY, Neb., Aug. 27.—A son and daughter of Reuben J. Cook, aged respectively ten and twelve, were drowned in the Blue river south of here Sunday evening. They were bathing and the boy stepped into a hole. His sister attempted to help him and both were drowned. The bodies were recovered Monday half a mile below the place where the accident happened.

A Nebraska Man's Suicide.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—W. W. Kittell, an attaché of the war department in Washington, shot and killed himself in his room at the Hotel Willey in this city about 9 o'clock this morning. A note to the proprietor said that nobody would claim his remains. A dispatch from Washington says that Kittell was appointed clerk in the record and pension division of the war department from Nebraska in 1891.

Farmer Commits Suicide.
SCHRIENER, Neb., Aug. 27.—The news that Johannes Shultz had committed suicide, reached town to-day. Mr. Shultz has for some time been an industrious farmer, living four miles south of town. He became despondent over his inability to pay his rent and was found hanging in his barn. He leaves a wife and family.

Nebraska's First Merchant Dead.
OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 27.—Henry Pundt, the Omaha pioneer who went to Europe recently to consult eminent physicians as to his health, died to-day at Berlin. He was the first man to open a mercantile house in the territory of Nebraska, beginning in Omaha in July, 1850. He was very wealthy.

The 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall was lost in the sand hills of Frontier county for twenty-four hours. The little one was found nearly dead from heat and thirst, having wandered seven miles.

Man and Woman Drowned in the North Fork Near Norfolk.
NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 27.—A sad case of drowning occurred Sunday night in the North Fork, near the creamery, the persons losing their lives being a man named J. Cabler and Mrs. Ada Vanum. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cabler and the persons drowned went in boats to the camp meeting, starting back soon after 10 o'clock. The first couple on reaching the landing went to the Pacific hotel where all were stopping, leaving the others to follow. About 2 o'clock in the morning the boatkeeper instituted a search for the missing boat, and found it bottom side up, with a hat floating near it. Search was made and the bodies were recovered about 10 o'clock Monday. How the accident happened cannot be known. Cabler could not swim and was unskilled in boating. The Cabler brothers were itinerant vendors of magnetic belts, soaps, etc., and had been here several days. They hailed from Waco, Tex. The drowned man was twenty-eight years old. Mrs. Vanum had been here several weeks, pending her husband's efforts to secure employment in this section. She leaves a little boy of four here and a girl of six living with her parents, F. J. Fisher, at Blue Springs.

AGAIN UNDER TENTS.
The Grand Army Boys in Annual Reunion at Hastings.
HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 27.—"Marching Through Georgia" resounded in gathering darkness at 6 o'clock last night as the first formal exercises of Camp Sherman. A thousand people sat about the speaker's stand and in the amphitheatre unable to see the speaker clearly, as the electric lights failed. After prayer by Chaplain Beebe Commander Adams thanked Hastings
