BELLAMY'S DREAMS.

Almost Before We Know It Many of Them Will Have Become Actual Realities.

There is a talking newspaper published in Budapesth. It is now in its third year and has six thousand subscribers. The Vienna correspondent of the London Chronicle made the river journey of 130 miles from the Austrian to the Hungarian capital last month expressly to acquaint himself at first hand with this talking newspaper. Here is his account of his first experience:

While I was dressing the hotel servant knocked at my door and asked if I wanted the telephone paper. He then handed me two receivers about the size of a pocket watch, attached to long cords, which can be fastened to the bed or arm-chair to suit one's convenience. "The newspaper will begin to speak directly," remarked the servant, "and will go on speaking until late in the evening. We don't charge our visitors anything for it, as it only costs us a penny a day."

It was precisely 8:30 as I put the receivers to my ears, and the day's work commenced for the newspaper. It began by transmitting the telegrams received in the night from Europe and America in a clear, sonorous tone, quite free from the nasal twang of the ordinary telephone. This went on till a quarter to 9, after which followed the daily calendar with metropolitan news, and the list of strangers who had arrived at Budapesth up to the previous

How is it done? That's a rather long story; we will try to condense it. The newspaper that talks has its publication office, very much like the publication offices of other newspapers in some ways, but not at all like them in others. The principal editors are Bela Virag and Josef Horvath, journalists of experience and distinction.

Besides the musical and dramatic critics, there are about forty reporters, and the subscribers themselves now take pleasure in telephoning in (through the Budapesth central office) any interesting items of news that come to their knowledge.

The staff is on duty from 7:30 in the morning to 9:30 at night. Between these hours twenty-eight "editions" are sent out daily. After the manuscript of the critic or reporter has been revised and approved by the editor, copied and registered, it is passed along to the speaker at the telephone.

Ten men with strong voices and clear articulation act as "speakers," and take their turn in shifts of two at a time. One of these speaks a series of items, but for no longer than eight or ten minutes, and every new item is introduced by the word "new."

The 6,000 subscribers are served by one wire, measuring 168 miles in length, and running along the windows of the subscribers. Each subscriber forms a "station," and a separate line is connected with each station by means of a special apparatus.

The microphone plays a great part in the scheme, the voice of the speaker, before reaching the telephonic circuit, being first conducted into the microphone, thereby gaining considerable in volume.

Each subscriber has a programme for the day, and knows just when in the ordinary course of things the news in which he is particularly interested will be along. A short summary of the more important news is given at noon, and a supplementary summary in the evening. Important speeches in the reichstag are going out over the telephone while the men making them are still on their legs.

The Hirmondo establishment is connected by telephone with the opera house and several music halls. Toward evening, as the rush of news slackens, it serves music to its subscribers.

The first number of the Hirmondo was uttered February 15, 1893. A month later Puskas was in his coffin. -Fourth Estate.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies, Deafness is caused by an infamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tabe. When this tube gets infamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the nucous surfaces. NOTES OF THE DAY.

Out of the 150 Europeans in Lagos, West Africa, twenty-three died last year, a death rate of 154 in 1,000.

In Paris the demand for small dogs is met by rearing pups from an alcoholic diet, which retards their growth. "Going Out Whitewashing Done Inside" is the somewhat puzzling sign on a small shop in Skowhegan, Me.

Charles Theodore Taber of Bro lyn says that some palmetto trees along the Indian river, Florida, are from 300 to 500 years old.

"The Sleeping Cavalier," by Meissonier, which belonged to the late Mrs. Paran Stevens, has been sold for $3,500, a sum much below its supposed value. It may often be the means of saving life to remember the dictum, that "a man struck by electricity should be treated as if drowned." There are in the house of congress

115 baldheads and 120 gray heads. There are fifty-six members under 40 years of age and seventeen under 30. There are 990 retail liquor dealers in the state of Maine, according to internal revenue statistics just issued. And Maine is a prohibition state.

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine, but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.
