 ney pe e in its day g nation. teth in its work Wue season. It taketh time by the forelock. It also taketh everything else in sight.

The money power striveth to control nominations. It never taketh sides in a campaign in case it is allowed to name both tickets. This is a very safe and cheap plan.

When the day for convention is yet far off, the plutocrats take counsel together. One saith to another: "Behold Benjamin, the grandson of his grandfather. Is he not our true and faithful servant? We have tried him.
 We know he will stand by us. Let us nominate him on the republican ticket."

And another saith: "Behold Grover, whose surname is Cleveland. Is he not our own 'stuffed prophet'? Did he not stand between us and the silver lunatics for four years? Surely he is our man for president on the democratic ticket."

Then saith the plutocrats one to another, "Go to. Let us hustle around and set to work all our henchmen and all our army of tools great and small; and let us instruct them to 'fix things' for Grover and Bennie."

And it was done even so. And now the money power can devote its whole attention to crushing out the "calamity shriekers."

And the plutocrats laugh in their sleeves. And they say in the language of Shakespeare: "What fools these mortals be!" For we have set them to fighting amongst themselves as to which of our servants they will elect. And now while they fight we will go out amongst the 'alliance cranks' and sow the seeds of suspicion, and set them to quarreling among themselves. And we will corrupt some and deceive others, and will crush out their movement and thus perpetuate our dominion."

And behold it remaineth for time to reveal what the outcome shall be.

A GREAT DRY GOODS HOUSE.

A great many of the farmers of the west have been placing mail orders with the Montgomery Ward Co. of Chicago, the company which ejected Lester C.
 Hubbard from the editorship of the Farmers' Voice, because he was advocating the cause of the farmers. Thousands of these farmers are now transferring their trade to the Morse Dry Goods Co. of Omaha.

This company not only makes lower prices, but is in every way worthy of patronage. They can fill orders in short notice for almost any thing you want in the way of merchandise. They have a full page advertisement in this issue of the ALLIANCE-INDEPENDENT which should be read by all our readers. This house is reliable, prompt, and courteous in treatment of customers. Write for their catalogue, or send them a trial order.

The World-Herald says Chicago's reputation as a convention city is fading, but that Omaha will acquire an enviable reputation next week. We sincerely hope she will.

Some Nebraska man ought to be chosen for temporary chairman at the convention. Who shall it be?
 The Nebraska delegates decide on the best men and go to work for him.

The following article appeared in the New Nation just before the democratic convention was held:

The friends of the people's party have every reason to be satisfied with the re-nomination of Harrison. Mr. Blaine we should have been afraid of. He has always been extremely popular on the Pacific coast and in the mining states, where a large part of the new party's strength is found, and his nomination would have recalled to the republican standard an important element of discontented voters which otherwise would go to the third party.

Mr. Harrison, on the other hand, is, with the possible exception of John Sherman, perhaps the most unpopular candidate in those states where the people's party expects to get the bulk of its votes, who could have been nominated. He represents and champions the financial party against which the west and south is in revolt. In none of his acts or utterances has he even so much as recognized the existence of the industrial and economic distress with which the country is seething, or suggested a single measure of reform or indeed of progressive legislation in any direction whatever. He stands in all respects for things as they are against things as they ought to be, and while he may hold the vote of the disciplined rank and file of his party, will certainly fail to attract any man who ever got far enough to think of voting for a reform party.
 Yes, people's party men have every reason to be satisfied with the nomination of Mr. Harrison.

The platform is an excellent fit for the man. So far as concerns any recognition of the present state of the country or the needs of the hour, it might as well have been written ten years ago.
 Now, if the democrats will follow up the republicans by nominating Mr.
 Cleveland and putting him on one of the usual democratic platforms, the old parties will have done all that is in their power to make it easy for the people's party to poll a big vote this November.

The Sub-Treasury in France.

BORTRAU, France, Oct. 13, 1891—Mr. H. L. Loucks—Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of inquiry, will say that the Bank of France has almost since its establishment, early in the present century, loaned money on non-perishable products, such as wheat, corn, spirits, wine, metals, etc., provided such securities were deposited in reliable warehouses, or warehouses designated by the directors of the Bank of France. Receipts were of course taken for the same and these become negotiable just as our warehouse receipts in America. The amounts loaned upon products of this description were usually equal to about two-thirds of their appraised value and the rate of interest charged for the loan was 3 per cent. The same rate is applicable at the present time.

A Monument for Polk.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 25.—At a meeting here of the friends of the late L. L. Polk, president of the national farmers' alliance, the Polk memorial and relief association was organized, with a board of trustees, of which Marion Butler, president of the state alliance, is chairman. An executive committee was chosen and Hal W.
 Ayer, formerly Polk's secretary, was made secretary and treasurer. The trustees will collect funds with which to erect a monument over Polk's grave here and for the relief of the family as far as they think best.
