EVERY independent in the Sixth district should read Kem's record on the Pickler bill and pass it on to his neighbor.

THE record of the 'farmer legislature' was crowded over till next week or account of delay caused by an accident in our press room.

IT is too soon to predict just what effect the democratic nominations will have, but it is safe to say that they stand not a ghost of a show of being elected.

AND now the great political question is this: Will the railroads force Crouse to their terms or will they turn the republican vote over to Morton? Crouse must either say to the railroads, 'I'll do anything you want' or he must go down. The developments of the next two weeks will show which plan is to be followed.

PUT THEM TO THE TEST.

Every man who goes before the people asking their votes should tell them exactly what he proposes to do if elected. The candidate who refuses to do this is not fit to be elected: either he is too ignorant to know what he will do, or he is a knave who wants to hood-wink the people. When a candidate for the legislature comes before the people, they have a right to ask him where he stands and what he proposes to do for them. It is their privilege as well as their duty to do this.

There is one question in particular which the voters of Nebraska should put to every candidate for the state legislature, and demand a clear and unequivocal answer:

Will you vote for a maximum freight rate law which will reduce freight rates in Nebraska to a level with those in Iowa?

Let independents see to it first that their own candidates are solemnly pledged to vote for such a bill. Then let them put every old party candidate to the test. This matter is in the hands of the people. If they fail to do their duty they alone must bear the blame.

"NO POLITIOS."

Many people will remember that about one year ago the republican papers of this state raised a great howl over McKeighan's alleged attempt to talk politics at the Grand Island soldiers reunion. There was really not a particle of truth in the charge. McKeighan was in fact one of those who protested against talking politics at soldiers reunions.

The hypocritical nature of that republican howl is brought into special prominence by occurrences at the present district reunion at Superior.

On the evening of Tuesday, August 23d, Fighting Dan Brown of Kansas, made a speech at the reunion campfire. He referred to the independents of Kansas as "calamity rats," which "would all be dead after November 8." He also spoke of them as "black sheep" in the flock. Afterwards Mrs. Billings was introduced and spoke for nearly an hour, discussing tariff, force bill, free silver, free ballot, etc. The report, published in the World-Herald, continues as follows:

Assistant Comander Miller of Red Cloud stepped upon the platform and said that the speeches made here should be non-political; that there were as many independents here as republicans and he did not think best to have any more republican speeches. No sooner was this utterance made than a hideous howl came from the audience, and Mr. Miller had to leave the platform.

Now, what have the republican papers to say about this? Will they raise a howl about it?

HOW TO WIN.

Organize! Form a club in your precinct, ward or school district. Hold regular meetings. Discuss the issues. Have music and literary exercises. Challenge your political opponents to a joint discussion. Distribute literature. Get subscribers for reform papers. Talk to your neighbors. Turn out to reform meetings and rallies, and get your old party neighbors out. Give liberally to the campaign fund. Help get out the voters on election day. See that the votes are correctly counted and returned by the election officers.

That is "how to win." If you want to win, try the above rule at once and keep on trying it till election. It will bring the answer.

THE Kearney Hub remarks: "The republican campaign is on." We should say it was.

WHAT would the republicans charge us for another speech by H. C. Palmer?

DON'T vote for a man for a member of the legislature till you know where he stands on the railroad question.

REPUBLICAN papers of Kansas City admit that Kansas and Missouri are as likely to go to the populists as to either of the old parties.

THE name of our candidate for superintendent of public instruction is spelled Hiatt, and not Hyatt. State exchanges will please take notice.

THE southern half of California has gone over to the people's party, and there is fair ground for believing that in November the state will be for Weaver.

WHILE Rosewater and Majors, Seeley and Bushnell are discussing the abduction of Taylor, the people are concluding that neither of these crowds is worthy of confidence, and that it is high time the rotten old ship went down.

AFTER reviewing the financial situation, noting particularly the export of nearly two million dollars of gold during the past week, the Philadelphia Press says: "These are not favorable indications and no amount of argument can make them so." This is a smart rebuke to the "prosperity shriekers" who are continually prating about the revival of business and the glowing outlook.

IN South Dakota the democrats have endorsed the people's party ticket. Do our southern friends look upon that as a republican scheme to beat democracy? On the other hand in Louisiana, the populists and republicans have fused on congressmen and the Weaver electors get the republican votes. Will our northern friends call that a democratic scheme, and a democratic side show? The truth is beginning to dawn upon the people that the independent movement is the main show of the circus this fall and that republicanism and democracy are the side shows, like the very fat woman and the double-headed calf, along side of a state fair exhibit.

WHEN a man gets everlastingly whalloped he never speaks of the other fellow without explaining that he is so big a man that of course no ordinary person could expect to handle him. This reflection is called out by the fact that Judge Ike Lausing has been heard to remark one hundred and ninety-three times since the Carey Grove meeting last Saturday that that man Greene who speaks for the independents is a deuced fine orator.

In Cedar County.

HARTINGTON, Neb., Aug. 29, 1892.
Hon. Warner Starr, candidate for senator on the people's ticket, and Frank Mason, Esq., of Laurel addressed the citizens of Hartington and vicinity at Wonderhoof's Grove, one and one-half miles north of town on Saturday.
Hon. John I. Jones, candidate for elector on our ticket, presided at the meeting. There was a large and enthusiastic attendance. Both gentlemen acquitted themselves finely, and were frequently applauded.

WILBER F. BRYANT,

VAN WYCK AND CROUNSE.

They Will Meet in Joint Discussion in the Principal Cities of the State.

The following agreement for a joint political discussion between the Republican and Independent candidates for Governor is hereby entered into by the representatives of the respective committees of the two parties. There are to be eight meetings to be held at places and dates specified.

An Urgent Appeal.

IN THE FIELD, August 26, '92.
To the members of the People's Party, and friends of reform throughout the Union:

Our national committee is sorely in need of funds to meet the necessary demands of the campaign. The people are coming into our ranks daily by the thousands. Counties, districts and states are calling piteously for help. With your timely aid efficient men can be sent to the proper localities and the battle be won. Will you not respond at once by sending your contributions without a day's delay to M. C. Rankin, treasurer, Terre Haute, Ind. The situation is our justification for making this appeal to you. Fail not as you prize your liberties.

JAMES B. WEAVER,
JAS. G. FIELD.

Carl Brown Coming.

The great California vote maker, the buckskin orator, will be in Lincoln on Friday. He will begin a series of meetings on postoffice square. He expects to be here a week. Everybody will have a chance to hear him and to see his wonderful panorama.

A ROUSER.

Carl Brown of California With His Caroons a Success.

VALPARAISO, Aug. 30.—With only two days' notice every chair in the large city hall was filled and many stood during the entire time Carl Brown was delivering his novel speech, illustrating completely the political situation in so vivid a manner that the impression will never be forgotten. Everybody pleased and no man from either of the old parties, except the leaders, could take offence. Keep the ball rolling and success is ours.

PRESIDENT POWERS has been taking a well-earned rest since the state convention. He will be at alliance headquarters during fair week and then take a hand in securing the election of our state ticket. Dates will be announced later on, but he will be in the field until the polls close in November.
