

NEBRASKA STATE FAIR.

It Is Superior In Many Respects to Those Held In Former Years.

The indications for the state fair point conclusively to the most extensive and meritorious exhibition ever given in the state.

The exhibits are slower in arriving than usual and the visitors at the fair today have doubtless been disappointed in not finding everything in as good condition as they expected, but the displays for the fair are arriving today in train-loads and by tomorrow everything will be in order and the fair be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Today everything is bustle, and willing hands are hurrying the exhibits as they arrive into their proper places, and the scene is one of activity and energy.

In nearly all departments the calls for space are greater than the supply, and in all the large halls it is certain that every inch of available space will be utilized by exhibitors. In the agricultural hall the demand for space is good, and while it is not to be expected that the agricultural display of last year when Nebraska was favored with magnificent crops, will be exceeded, yet it is certain that the hall will be well filled.

The business men's association have a splendid display of grasses, grains and cereals, which will be sent east with the advertising train. The display in the horticultural hall is good, notwithstanding this is an "off year" for fruit in Nebraska. The hall is well.

The State Fisheries Exhibit is the finest and largest ever made. There are forty-eight different kinds of fish on exhibition. The specimens of fish are more numerous and larger than ever before.

The demand for space in the art hall is puzzling the managers of that department, and expedients of all kinds are resorted to in order to accommodate the exhibits. The display of paintings is very large and fine, and this department exceeds anything in former years.

The merchantile hall presents a handsome appearance this year. The merchants' displays are superior to last year, and here too the capacity of the hall is taxed to the utmost to contain the exhibits.

The display of agricultural implements and machinery of all kinds is up to anything ever seen in former years both in variety and extent.

The new dairy hall is fully utilized in providing space for the dairy products of which the exhibits are numerous in quantity and superior in quality. The same can also be said of the apiary exhibit, and the extent of the products in this department surpasses all former years. The hall is completely filled.

A visit to the live stock department will demonstrate the truth of the statement that the exhibits of horses, cattle, hogs and sheep are especially good this year and deserve to rank with the best the state has ever produced. The space for horses is well filled and the cattle stalls are filling up rapidly. The display of fat hogs is said by good judges to be away ahead of the recent Iowa State fair, and is first class in every respect.

The usual number of attractions are to be seen upon the grounds. Kendall & Smith have a herd of four buffalo, three large antelope, and a herd of eight red deer four of them young ones, the youngest being only four days old.

In all other respects the fair is first class. The racing will be fully up to the high standard of former years.

About 200 horses are in the stalls, and a turf program of superior excellence is assured.

To sum it all up the fair is certain to be a magnificent success, in each and every department.

LATER.

The above was written on Monday. On Tuesday there was a large crowd, and on Wednesday as we go to press there is an immense crowd on the fair ground. In Another Good Man Named.

WISNER, August, 29, 1892.

At the senatorial convention of the seventh district, comprising the counties of Burt and Cuming, which was held on August 27th, at Bancroft, the delegates present unanimously nominated Mr. John Emley of Beemer, Cuming county. Mr. Emley is a farmer, a man of sterling qualities and one who, if elected to that important office will prove true to the independent party and its principles.

The independents will rally to his support and the chances for his election are good.

Sincerely yours,
LOUIS DEWALD. ●
Sec of Sen. Convention.

Colonizing Voters.

A late Hutchinson, Kan., dispatch says: "There no longer exists the shadow of a doubt in the minds of the people's party state central committee that a systematic importation of colored voters is being secretly carried on by the republicans of Kansas. Enough has been gathered by local committees throughout the state and forwarded to Chairman Bridenthal to warrant the state central committee in adopting the most vigorous measures to prevent the polling of fraudulent votes. Chairman Bridenthal does not claim that any very considerable number of negroes has been brought to any one precinct, but his correspondents advise him that from three to twelve strange colored men have within the past month located in each voting precinct in the state. Reports indicate that the average number to a precinct is five, and as there are 3,500 precincts this would make a total of 17,500. To prevent the polling of this enormous fraudulent vote, the entire people's party machinery will be utilized."

The Greenwood Rally.

A heavy rain on Saturday morning cast a damper over the spirits of the enthusiastic independents who had charge of the rally. However it did not prevent a fair crowd from turning out. The picnic dinner had to be dispensed with. But at 2 o'clock nearly 500 people repaired to the park and despite the drizzling rain, listened for two hours to rousing campaign speeches from General Van Wyck and J. V. Wolfe. Professor W. A. Howard was present and sang "We Have the Tariff Yet," to the great amusement of all.

In the evening Hon. C. D. Shrader, and Hon. Jerome Champ spoke to a good crowd in the town hall.

The success of the meeting was in marked contrast to that of the meeting held by Congressman Bryan the day before. Although it was a fine day he had less than a hundred hearers.

THE corporations want to elect Majors lieutenant governor, because he is their tool. Hence they are making Mr. Shrader the object of their slander and ridicule. Independents should rally to Mr. Shrader's support all the stronger on that account. He is a strong, thoughtful, and incorruptible man.

AND now comes the telegram in the morning dispatches thus "Topeka Kan. Sept. 2.—James F. Legate a republican leader of Kansas, has joined the people's party." Even the associated press is coming to terms and facing the music.

An Aristocratic Tip.

The new companion (fresh from Girham college)—Yes, Lady Jane, I saw her with her habitual hypocrisy, holding out her hand to him as he was haranguing at his hotel. Lady Jane—Good gracious child, don't stick in your nose so carefully.
