

THE PEOPLE'S NOMINEES

GENERAL C. H. VAN WYCK.

It seems almost superfluous to write a sketch of the people's candidate for governor. His name is a household word throughout Nebraska. He is known and honored throughout the whole nation as a man who had the courage to stand up in the "American house of lords" and voice the claims of the people. For that, plutocracy marked him for defeat, and in spite of the people, retired him from politics. But though the politicians dropped him, the people did not, and by the might of their voice and votes he will be the next governor of Nebraska.

General Van Wyck was born in New York and is now sixty-five years of age. He served four terms in the lower house of congress from that state. His first term began in 1859, the second in 1861, the third in 1867, and the fourth in 1869.

In the latter part of 1861, he raised a regiment, and at its head as colonel, he entered the service of the union, and gave over four years of loyal service to his country, coming out of the war a brigadier general.

After removing to Nebraska he was elected to the state senate for the two terms beginning in 1879, and 1881. Here he fought for the people against the money sharks and corporations.

The legislature of 1881 elected him to the United States senate where he faithfully served the people for six years. In the senate he fought against the evil tendencies of his party. His most important work in the senate was on three lines as follows:

First. To protect the public lands from land thieves, and syndicates, and to secure the forfeiture of unearned land grants.

Second. To protect the people from the tyranny of the railroad corporations.

Third. To secure relief from unjust tariff taxation.

The great fight he made on these and other lines secured for him the bitter hostility of the corporations, the syndicates, the protected interests and the money power generally. In 1887 when his term expired the people voted by a majority of over 50,000 for his return, but the selfish interests arrayed against him were all powerful, the will of the people was ignored and he was defeated.

Gen Van Wyck was the first prominent man in the state in the spring of 1890 to advocate independent political action. This year the people have placed him at the head of their ticket as the fittest and ablest man in the state to lead them on to victory.

J. M. GUNNETT,

Is a man of reform ideas, and of courage to put those ideas into practice. The man who steals school land while he is commissioner of public land and buildings will have to get out in the early part of the day.

Mr. Gunnnett was born in Wisconsin in 1856, has been a farmer and school teacher, and is at present editor of the York county Independent.

Mr. Gunnnett was honored by the people of his county with a place in the last house of representatives, in which place he did his duty. He was a member of several important committees, and did much to push through good legislation. He is a very active, energetic man, and will be a credit to the state, in the office of commissioner.

J. M. EASTERLING,

Candidate for secretary of state, is an able and popular young man, a Virginian by birth, but a thorough Nebraskan by adoption. Kearney is his home and he is making his race for the state house at the famous "Kearney gait." It is hardly necessary to add that he will get there away ahead of all his competitors.

He is an attorney by profession, and a graduate of the Columbian University Washington, D. C. At present he is business manager of the Kearney Standard, a paper which is doing great work for the people's cause in that section.

He is well equipped for the office of secretary of state, and will administer it in the interests of the people.

PROF. H. H. HIATT,

Is a very successful educator, and it would be hard to find a man better equipped for the office of state superintendent of public instruction. He was born in Ohio, and is about 44 years old. He is a graduate of the Iowa University, also of the Iowa state Normal. He has been superintendent of schools at Broken Bow, Nebraska, for several years and is now serving his first term as county superintendent of Custer county.

Mr. Hiatt is a very genial gentleman an earnest thoughtful man, a success in his profession, and a man every way worthy to be trusted to fill the high office for which he is a candidate.

V. O. STRICKLER,

Candidate for Attorney General, is a self-made young man. His indefatigable industry, his ability, sterling worth, and fine social qualities have enabled him to rise to a very respectable place in his chosen profession. He was born in Old Virginia, but has been thoroughly westernized. He completed an academic course at the University of Virginia, and studied law for three years under Judge Stewart, one of the ablest jurists of old Dominion. There can be no question as to his fitness to fill the office of Attorney General.

He rendered very valuable assistance to the independents in the last legislature. He drafted the Australian ballot law, and the final copy of the Newberry bill.

He has been honored with the place of national committeeman for Nebraska, and is filling the place with much credit to himself and the state.

The office of Attorney General is a very important one, and should be filled by just such a competent and honorable man as V. O. Strickler.

C. D. SHRADER,

Was the leader of the last house, and it was according to "the eternal fitness of things," that he should be promoted to the presidency of the senate. Right here it is in order to remark that his initials "C. D." do not stand for "d---n the constitution." He never made such a remark, a great many political liars to the contrary notwithstanding. It is true however that he did make a remark, more emphatic than religious, about some fellows who were trying to violate the constitution.

Mr. Shrader was born in Wisconsin and is now forty-eight years old. Like all men who become great, he was brought up on a farm. He enlisted in Company A, 41st Wisconsin volunteers in 1864, being too young to enlist sooner. He has a good education, and is very well informed. He has lived in Nebraska eighteen years. His home is in Logan county where he has a fine farm.

In the last house he filled the place of chairman of the judiciary committee, the most important committee, and did more to shape the course of legislation than any other member. No harder worker, or more faithful man ever represented a Nebraska district.

Majors has refused to meet Shrader in joint debate on the ground that Shrader is an anarchist. In so doing Majors branded himself as a coward and a slanderer. He knows and so does every man who has the honor of Mr. Shrader's acquaintance, that he is a conservative and patriotic man, that he is the very opposite of an anarchist. Shrader is a gentleman, a scholar, and an able debater, and Majors was afraid to meet him.

The corporations want to defeat Shrader, and elect Majors, because they hope to control the state senate, and they want a tool to preside over that body. They know that Shrader would scorn to violate the sacred trust placed in him by disgraceful actions and rulings such as Majors was guilty of two years ago.

The people of Nebraska admire courage, and they love fair play. They are intelligent and patriotic. For these reasons the election of C. D. Shrader is assured.

LOGAN MCREYNOLDS,

Candidate for state auditor, will probably have a hard time getting the business of that office down to an honest basis, but he is just the man to undertake the job. He has both the will and the ability.

Mr. McReynolds is a "hoosier" by birth, a farmer by trade, and is forty-five years old. He has a good education, and is a well read man. His character is above reproach in every respect. He is a very careful, orderly and persistent worker, and hence specially adapted to the place of auditor.

Mr. McReynolds was honored by Clay county with a place in the last house of representatives, where he served them most ably and faithfully. He was chairman of the very important committee on railroads, and the author of several good bills, particularly our present school book law.

J. V. WOLFE,

Proposes to have the money counted when he goes into the state treasury. Then he proposes to obey every law, and turn every cent of interest on the public funds into the treasury. Certainly no man could promise better, and the people have just confidence enough in Mr. Wolfe to believe he'll do as he promises.

Mr. Wolfe was born in Indiana, and like all "hoosiers" he naturally "takes to politics." He filled several responsible positions in that state, and came to Nebraska in 1871. He is a graduate of the Indiana State University, and is thoroughly qualified to fill any position of trust. He is a practical farmer, and breeder of fine hogs.

No man in Nebraska has done more effective, and faithful work for the cause of reform than J. V. Wolfe, and no man is more deserving of confidence or of political honors. By giving him a rousing majority the people will rebuke the mal-administration of his predecessor and honor a worthy man.

Z. S. Branson the well known breeder of Poland China swine, located at Waverly, Neb., will have a public sale at Walnut Grove farm on Nov. 15th. 75 head of young stock from such noted sires as Van Dee, King Rival and others will be sold without reserve. This promises to be the largest sale of the season and you should go. Remember the date and place.

Summer Travel.

The extremely humid weather made the past summer on the Atlantic coast an exceedingly uncomfortable one for sufferers from rheumatism. A gentleman who had been completely laid up with it was asked by an acquaintance, on his reappearance on the street:

"Have you been traveling this summer?"

"Not exactly," said the other. "You see my rheumatism did all the traveling this time."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, one day it was in my neck, the next it was in my legs, then it went to my back, and thence around to my hip-joints. Oh, it took a regular excursion every day, I assure you!"

Coming to the Point.

There are some subjects which, the more they are explained, the more, in Tennyson's phrase, they are "darklier understood."

A lecturer on theosophy had concluded a long and careful address, and said to his attentive audience:

"If there is any question which any one of you would like to ask, I shall be pleased to answer it."

For a moment there was silence; then an earnest-looking gentleman rose and said:

"I should like to know, professor, whether anybody has ever discovered a reliable cure for warts."

Oregon, Washington and the North-Western Coast.

The constant demand of the traveling public to the far west for a comfortable and at the same time an economical mode of traveling, has led to the establishment of what is known as Pullman Colonist Sleepers.

These cars are built on the same general plan as the regular first-class Pullman Sleepers, the only difference being that they are not upholstered.

They are furnished complete with good comfortable hair mattresses, warm blankets, snow white linen curtains, plenty of towels, combs, brushes, etc., which secure to the occupant of a berth as much privacy as is to be had in first-class sleepers. There are also separate toilet rooms for ladies and gentlemen, and smoking is absolutely prohibited. For full information send for Pullman Colonist Sleeper Leaflet.
