

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE

The Republicans Fail to Capture Either House, and Hence Cannot Elect a United States Senator.

A FULL LIST OF THE MEMBERS.

Very Few Democrats Elected—Republicans Gain Some, and Independents Lose.

Summary of the Results.

The returns from the various counties in the state show that the next house will contain

The senate will stand:

Table with 2 columns: Party and Count. Independents: 14, Republicans: 14, Democrats: 5.

On joint ballot for the election of a United States senator the legislature will stand:

Table with 2 columns: Party and Count. Republicans: 62, Independents: 53, Democrats: 16.

If the independents and democrats pull together they will have a majority of seven on joint ballot.

THE RESULTS ANALYZED.

It is interesting to inquire into the nature and causes of the changes that have occurred since the election of 1890.

In the last senate the independents had eighteen including the traitors, Taylor and Collins.

Gage county sends a republican instead of Collins.

Two years ago in Burt and Coming the independents nominated Beck and the democrats endorsed, and the same was true of Turner of Saline.

In Adams the democrats helped elect Hill in 1890, but this year there was a three-cornered fight and the republicans won.

In York and Fillmore the republicans have gained a senator by main strength from the independents.

In the house the independents have gained from the republicans one member from Richardson, one in Sheridan, Dawes, Box Butte and Sioux, and one in Cherry and Keya Paha.

The plan of the corporations everywhere seems to have been to stand by the republican nominees.

In Hall county the democrats and independents stood together and elected parties on account of the greater interest in the state and congressional campaigns.

The republicans are as much surprised at the results as either the democrats or independents.

The independents would doubtless have won in many close districts if they had forced the fighting on state issues, and more fully shown up the republican rottenness at the state capitol.

A Fine Policy.

Four billions of dollars have been paid on the national debt, either as principal or interest since 1866, yet to-day, as a result of Republican legislation, it would take more bushels of wheat to pay the balance than it would have taken to pay the whole in 1866.
