

PUT ON THE ARMOR

And Begin the Battle Anew. Push the Work of Education. "Stand Up For Nebraska."

NOW IS THE ACCEPTED TIME

W. L. Greene Offers Words of Encouragement and Valuable Suggestions to the Independents of Nebraska.

Who Will Respond?

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 9, 1893. Editor ALLIANCE-INDEPENDENT: MY DEAR FRIEND: Permit me to drop a few words to the independents of Nebraska through your paper.

The opportunities offered us at this time are transcendently greater than ever presented before to redeem this state from the plunderers who have held it for years past.

In the election of William V. Allen to the United States senate we accomplished our first triumph, which can only result in an increased confidence among our people in their ability to finally gain control of the state.

Then, the good work, so nobly begun by the legislature, which we can hope will ripen into legislation, will give a prestige to the party not hitherto enjoyed, and we will not be confronted by another Taylor in the next campaign, but can present an unbroken column of true men, willing to sacrifice for the good of the state and the final achievement of the principles of our party.

With these men and increased opportunities we meet corresponding responsibilities, and will be envied by corresponding dangers, so that it behooves every one to put forth his best effort to patiently educate his neighbor in the new school of political economy.

When a man sits at his fireside, he thinks as he does not at the political gathering. When we are the farthest rest from a political struggle is the best time to mould the popular will.

Most all men in their calm moments, are honest and want to know the truth. It is in these times that we can do our best work.

This work of education cannot be carried on without some self denial. I would earnestly ask each independent in the state to see that at least one person is furnished with one good paper. This will cost but a trifle and its result will be beyond what you may think.

Sloux City's Great Show. Sloux City, "the Corn Palace City of the World," is arranging to hold another of its unique and peculiar festivals this year.

Tourists Trips. Round trips to the Pacific Coast. Short trips to the Mountain Resorts of Colorado.

The Alliance Seed House in western Kansas, although yet a young institution, has achieved a marvelous success in building up a large patronage in nearly every western state.

NOTES ON THE GREAT CONTEST.

Interesting Items and Sayings Concerning the Senatorial Contest, and the Man Elected.

It was a clear case of the office seeking the man, and not the man the office. Judge Allen came to Lincoln to help get the independents in line to elect another man.

The condition of a party is shown by the candidates it puts forward. The republican party never thought of going beyond a narrow circle of tried and true corporation tools.

As soon as Judge Allen had been declared elected, Senator Everett moved to adjourn. Church Howe sprang up and said he hoped for the good name of the republican party the senator would withdraw the motion.

Denver News (pop.) The response of Nebraska to the vote in the senate is a "corker." It approves senatorial action by promptly electing a simon pure free silver populist.

The Des Moines Leader, the republican state organ of Iowa, says: The election of W. V. Allen of Nebraska to the United States Senate is not entirely a bad job.

Kansas City Star (ind. dem.): The new senator for Nebraska was formerly a republican. But as he was driven out of the party of his choice because it precluded in advocating politics which he looked upon as being wrong and subversive to the public weal, he will doubtless enroll himself with the enemies of class legislation and monopoly in the upper house of congress.

Plattsmouth Journal (dem.): Judge Allen is universally recognized as a man of high character for ability and rectitude of character, who enjoys the confidence and respect of all men of all parties to an unusual extent.

The Kearney Hub (rep.): The republican force at Lincoln is ended. Nebraska falls into line with a populist senator, by the grace of the solid independent and democratic voters.

Judge Crawford of Cuming county says: Judge Allen is an able, honorable and conservative man. When ex-Governor Boyd and I were convinced that a democrat could not be elected we determined that we would do what we could to secure the election of Judge Allen.

Felton of Nuckolls is one of the great patriots who stood by the cause of the people. Saturday night he was called to his home in Nuckolls county where he found his wife dangerously ill.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat (rep.) The election of Allen to the Senatorship in Nebraska to succeed Paddock, republican, will give populists four members in the next senate.

Metcalf in the World Herald says: You men who have seen republicans exultant in their triumph should have seen them despondent in their defeat.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean (rep.): This was a logical outcome of the situation. The dem in courts wanted the republicans to govern them and help elect J. Sterling Morton, or some such dyed-in-the-wool bourgeois, and the publicans, on the other hand, tried to get the democrats to help them elect Mr. Thurston, but neither would have been justified in accepting such overtures. The senator-elect has a good record and promises to be a conservative.

CONGRESS AS IT IS.

A Body Thoroughly Corrupt and Shameless, Daily Thought and Sold.

Doubtless the most apparent paradox in American economics lies in the unexplained fact that the people have of their own chosen representatives in congress. To such an extent has this feeling of probable danger or possible disaster obtained that the assembling of congress acts like a storm signal upon all business or a red light to all industrial efforts.
