

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

President Cleveland Discusses the Current Issues of the Day.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—As soon as the thousands gathered about the stand had become quiet, President Cleveland, in measured tones which were heard distinctly by nearly all present, delivered his inaugural address as follows:

My Fellow Citizens: In obedience to the mandate of my countrymen, I am about to dedicate myself to their service under the sanction of a solemn oath. Deeply moved by the expression of confidence and personal attachment which has called me to this service, I am sure my gratitude can make no better return than the pledge I now give before God and the witnesses of unreserved and complete devotion to the interests and welfare of those who have honored me.

I deem it fitting on this occasion, while indicating the opinions I hold concerning public questions of present importance, to allude briefly to the award to those whose efficiency... to secure the fitness and competency of appointees to office and to remove from political action the demoralizing influence of spoils politics.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL RICHARD OLNEY OF MASSACHUSETTS.

every independent activity. Legitimate strife in business should not be superceded by an enforced concession to the demands of combination that have the power to destroy; nor should the people be served less the benefit of cheapness which usually results from wholesome competition.

Our relations with the Indians located within our borders imposes upon us responsibilities which we cannot evade. Humanity, and the duty which we owe to them with forbearance, and in our dealings with them to honesty and consideration regard their rights and interests.

It is a plain dictate of honesty and good government that public expenditures should be limited by public necessity, and that should be measured by the rule of economy.

Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of checking at its beginning any tendency in public or private station to regard frugality and economy as virtues which we may safely outgrow.

Farmer's Institute at Valley.

EDITOR ALLIANCE-INDEPENDENT: The Farmer's Institute at Valley Nebraska convened at the opera house, February 10th, at 10:00 a. m.

The morning work was opened by S. C. Bassett of Gibben, secretary of the Dairyman's Association. In the afternoon Dr. Geo. L. Miller of Omaha read a very able paper on the "Platte River Canal project."

In the evening Professor A. F. Woods of the State University read a very carefully prepared paper, which was illustrated by charts, on "The Fungus diseases of plants."

Mr. J. F. Weybright of Millard read a paper on "Sugar Beet Culture" which was followed by a very interesting and valuable discussion.

Col. E. P. Savage of South Omaha urged as the result of 40 years experience in farming, the advantage of mixed farming, urging the value of all kinds of live stock in a profitable system of husbandry.

Mr. S. C. Bassett presented in his usual manner the subject of Dairying and the importance of improved and better cows.

Mrs. A. M. Edwards of Fremont a prominent breeder of live stock read a very able and excellent paper on "A Woman's Effort" which described the difficulties trials and successes of work in stock raising.

The handsome horse cut which appeared on the fifth page of THE ALLIANCE-INDEPENDENT last week was that of Frank Iams' great five year old Percheron show stallion, Louis D'Or, (28635,) weight 2360 lbs.

This noted stallion is at the head of Iams' Percherons and the rich blue blood of winners flows through his veins.

Make it a Government Canal.

There must be an inter-oceanic canal and it must be taken in hand with energy. But the first thing requisite is reliable information as to the exact condition of both partially constructed passages.

Mr. Cleveland's administration and the new Congress may well consider whether it would not be far better to dispense entirely with private companies, and to construct this necessary waterway as a government enterprise.

Mr. S. C. Bassett presented in his usual manner the subject of Dairying and the importance of improved and better cows.

refer to the existence of certain conditions and tendencies among our people which seem to menace the integrity and usefulness of their government.

While every American citizen must contemplate with the utmost pride and enthusiasm the growth and expansion of our country, the sufficiency of our institutions to stand against the roughest shocks of violence, the wonderful thrift and enterprise of our people, and the demonstrated superiority of our free government.

Manifestly nothing is more vital to our supremacy as a nation and to the beneficent purposes of our government than a sound and stable currency.
