Flee for Their Lives in Their Stage Costumes-Only one Life Lost-A Fine Hotel Also Destroyed-Governor McKinley's Private Aparement Barely Saved-The Loss Will Be Over $1,000,000.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 27. -Fire broke out in the new Henrietta theater at 8:15 o'clock last night, and in less than an hour and a haif this e egant playhouse, the Chittenden hotel and Auditorium and Park theater were in ruins.

Felix Morris, in the "Paper Chase," orchestra had just finished the overture when the manager, Albert Ovens, appeared on the stage and informed the sudience that there was a small blaze in the rear of the theater, and suggested that they leave the theater.

As no flames were to be seen and the company were dressed for their parts and, as they were assured the theater was fireproof, made no effort to remove their wardrobes In a few moments the flames, which first appeared in the large auditorium adjoining the theater, and which was unfinished, broke out in the rear of the stage. Almost instantly the whole proscenium was ablaze. The members of the company fled in their stage clothes, losing all their street costumes.

A man who was recognized Arthur Armstrong, a stage band who worked about the scenery, appeared at the fourth story window of the theater and cried for help. He was told not to jump and he would be saved. He disappeared from the window and was not seen again.

At the Park theater, Gray & Stephens, with their trained dogs and audience went out slowly.

Governor McKinley lives at Chittenden, but both he and Mrs. Me Kinley are in the East now. The private property of value that the governor had in his apartments was saved by Captain H. O. S. Heistand of the regular army, who happened to be in the hotel.

The total loss is over $1,000,000; in surance unknown.

INJURED IN A RAILWAY WRECK.

The Missing Treasurer of the Knights o Honor of Kansas Unable to Remember Anything After He Left His Bome in Fort Scott to Attend the Grand Lodge Last September.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Nov. 27.—George Klockson, the Fort Scott merchant and grand treasurer of the Knights of Honor of Kansas, who mesteriously disappeared from home two months ago, was to-day identified in a hospital at San Francisco, Cal., by a member of the Odd Fellows order to which he also belonged. He had been injured in a raifroad wreck and was taken to score of 6 to 0 after a most exciting the hospital for treatment. How he got to California is still a mystery as his mind is apparently a blank.

Kiockson's family, when notified that he was found, expressed great joy. They, as ell as many of his frien is, believed that he was foully dealt with and robbed in Kansas City, where he was last seen.

When Klockson disappeared he had about 600 of the lodge's money and was ostensibly on his way to attend the meeting of the grand lodge at Leavenworth. He had large business interests here and his family is among the first in the city.

Klockson is not dangerously hurt and will be brought home as soon as possible. Large rewards for his iden-tification had been offered by both lodges.

The telegram received here said that Klockson was penniless and was unable to tell what became of the money he carried from here, Klockson left home one September afternoon to attend the annual meeting of the Knights of Honor grand lodge at Leavenworth. He met several friends on the train between Fort Scott and Kansas City, and asked one of them which would be the best road to take in traveling from Kansas City to Leavenworth. He arrived in Kansas City shortly ofter 5 o'clock and then strangely disappeared, no person who knew him having seen him until to-day. A thorough search was made for him in Kansas City, but no clue was found.

His car line to go to the hotel, last object is to work them up and get the night, when as she passed an allev a tali, stout, weil-dressed and smooth faced man stepped in front of her. blocking the way, and, raising his hat, revealing a face of more than ordinary intelligence, said: "Beg your pardon, miss. for stopping you on such a bitter cold night too, but I must have your watch and purse. Please give them to me without compelling me to resort to violence.'

Miss McDermott replied: "I have no watch, and I won't give you my purse.

"Then I shall take it," re orted the man, and he seized one arm with one hand and with the other he attempted to wrench the purse | rom her grasp. Miss McDermott caught him by the throat with her disengaged hand and they struggled from the middle of the sidewalk to the curb.

The footpad suddenly struck the young we man several times on the proprietor. why do you think someface and head. Dazed by the blows, her strength began to fail and the man took the purse from her hand. partly tearing the glove. Seeing a diamond ring on the girl's finger, he attempted to remove it. She clinched her fingers tightly and for the first time screamed for help.

The man, plarmed, ran down the alley. Miss McDermott, stopping the flow of blood from the wounds on her face, returned to her home. She soon recovered from the nervous shock and later went to her place at the hotel office, although somewhat disfigured.

GOLD LI NED TOWERS.

Wealth in the Old Chimneys Where the Bonnaga Ores Were Refined.

For nearly a quarter of a century two tall towers have stood at the foot of Hyde street, near Leavenworth, almost on the edge of the beach, says the San Francisco Examiner. One rises to a height of 110 feet and the other reaches more than fifty feet in the air. They are both very broad and thick and they have brick enough in them to construct several buildings. They are relies of the flush old days of the Comstock mining era, when Flood, O'Brien, Fair and others banded together and erected the famous Selby smelting and refining works. There, from the bonanza days of 1868 to as late as 1885, the great chimneys belched forth fire and smoke. They never stopped. Wreaths of flame and volumes of soot circled in the air over the domes at night time, while hundreds of men toiled in and about the works, carting and shoveling ore and slag, molding bars of bullion and refining it to pure silver, gold, lead and copper.

In 1885 Selby county concluded to move its works. It was known that the old underground flue that connected the furnaces with the chimneys as well as considerable of the ground all about, was permeated with gold and silver settings and solid metal. On the advice of a European expert the company dug up the ruins, as well as a large amount of soil, to the depth of five or six feet and transferred it by tons to the new works at Port Costa. There the stuff was run through the works, and, it is said, realized not less than #500,000.

Selby & Co. did not dream that in the towers which were left standing and in the million tons of slag and mineral-permeated soil much wealth remained. They accordingly abandoned the place. The ground was sold and nothing was thought about it for a long time,

Some time ago W. B. Cluff, the well-known merchant and politician of this city, acquired the ground on which the old works and the present slag pile and chimneys remain. It consists of five fifty-vara lots, or two and a quarter acres. Meantime be had several experts make examinations of the brick towers and the surroundings. They reported that the metal and black dust of the towers was a veritable mine of wealth and that the grimy matter that filled the interstices and in one form or another permeated the brick reeked with valuable minerals. Also that the gray the blazing furnaces in primitive days price list. Live Foxes wasted. slag which had been carted away from contained large quantities of gold and silver and should be worked over. Promptly thereupon Mr. Cluff secured the silver and gold lined towers and the debris. He is said to have paid

FATE IN THE SOUP. A Countryman Who Objected to the

A phobet in That Form. A visitor from the rural districts went into a popular restaurant in this city and ordered dinner, says the Detroit Free Press. The first course was soup. He began sipping it with evident relish, when suddenly he dropped his spoon and his jaw fell, and he got up hastily from the table.

.What's the ma ter. sah?" inquired the waiter. "Anything wrong with your dinner?" .I-l-dunno. Where's the telly-

"Perhaps I can assist you," said the thing has gone wrong?" "Saw it in my soup."

"Your soup, man? Saw what?" ·Yes. Read my wife's name in that bowl of soup as plain as the nose on your face. S. A. L. That's my wife Sai. It's a warnin'. Let me go and telly-"

But the landlord was bent double ho! ho! That's alphabet soup-see?" "No. I don't see," said the man crossly, 'an I ain't such a ignoramus to have to take my A B C's inside when I learned them the right way first. I'll be hanged if I've come to Detroit to swallow the alphabet!"

And he walked off on his dignity, unappeased by the landlord's excuses.

The Case Was Dropped.

Ben Butler formerly owned a large mastiff, who became famous for continued depredations on various butcher-carts as they passed through the streets of Lowell on their morning rounds. The dog was so ferocious that none dared to attack it; so, for a time, be was quite master of the situation. Finally, one victim decided to approach the general on the subject; so, one morning, accosting him on the street, he said: "General Butler, if a man's dog steals meat from my butcher-cart what would you do?" "Why," said the lawyer, "I should make him pay for it " Very well." continued the butcher, your dog has stolen two dollars and a half worth of meat from my cart and I want you to pay for it." Certainly," said General Butler," but I shall have to charge you five dollars for professional advice." It is said the case was not
