Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 19, 1893.

Gentlemen—I have been a victim of rheumatism for several years past, I have suffered intensely at times, and have gone to the Hot Springs of 1893, Dakota, and the Hot Springs of Arkansas five times, seeking relief. I have also taken much medicine under the directions of able physicians. About one month ago I suffered from one of the most violent attacks of the disease, and at once began taking hot salt water baths at your new and splendid bath house in this city. Under the care of your gentlemanly and efficient attendant, Mr. Henry Schmittler, I have, I think, entirely recovered.

Pro experience and my observation of the results of a treatment of many patients at the Hot Springs have caused me to recommend, but to urge every person suffering from rheumatism to try a course of baths at your bath house under the directions of one of the physicians in charge.

I do not hesitate to not only to recommend, but to sign every person suffering from rheumatism to try a course of baths at your bath house under the directions of one of the physicians in charge.

I believe your new and magnificent bath house will prove a great blessing in the many victims of rheumatism in this vicinity, and I hope it will receive the liberal patronage it merits.

You have not requested of me any testimonial, and I deem it proper that I should acknowledge the great relief I have received at your hands, and you may use what I have said in such manner as you may deem proper.

Very respectfully,
J. B. STROUS.

The above from Judge Strous is but a sample of the many similar testimonials we have received without solicitation and which will appear from time to time in these columns.

MEDALS, HEIRLOOMS, ETC.

Dr. Alexander Lambert has imported from Europe a collection of watches of great value. The collection contains upwards of seventy-five time-pieces, and dates from the time of Louis XIV.

The design for the exposition medal submitted by Aug. St. Gaudens to the secretary of the treasury will be of bronze. On the obverse side is a relief figure of Columbus and on the reverse the figure representing youth.

The sheriff of Tacoma, Wash., issued cards for a recent execution in the jail yard at that place printed in gilded letters on heavy black cardboard, cabinet size, with a vignette photograph of the "host" on the upper left hand corner.

Major M. M. Clothier of Wheaton, Ore., has a hickory cane cut at Plymouth Rock, Mass., in 1631, by Nathaniel Pierce, who came over in the Mayflower. The cane has been passed down to the eldest son or daughter for many generations.

The first carriage to cross the new stone bridge over Otter creek at Middlebury, Vt., which was traversed by vehicles for the first time last week, was the one in which President Monroe made a trip through Vermont in 1817. The carriage is exhibited in the museum at Middlebury.

After several years' toil a Warsaw mechanic has devised and completed a wonderful clock—a miniature railway station, where the customary activity of whistling engines and departing trains, with perplexed women passengers, forms an interesting panorama at the striking of the hours.

Several thousands of pounds were paid for the wooden leg provided by the sultan of Turkey for one of the first favorites of his harem. Having lost her leg in an accident, the sultan had an artificial one of wood made for her, and by his directions it was set with rare and costly jewels to the value of many thousands of pounds. When released from his position each night, this jeweled limb is guarded with great care, and restored to its fair owner when she rises in the morning.

MEANT FOR MERRIMENT.

Well—Miss Passe hasn't a very beautiful form, has she? Belle—No, but she makes up for it.

"How about that last scheme of Blinks? Did it work out all right?" Blanks—Oh no. It only played out.

Chief of Police, examining applicant for position as detective—Do you know what is meant by a felony? Applicant—Yes, sir. A felony is a man with a sore thumb.

Little Mabel—Ethel must think you're lots better than any of her other beaux. Mr. Spoonaway, gratified and blushing—Why, dear. Little Mabel—Because she lets me stay in the room when you call and she don't when the others call.

"As I grow older," said a man of moderate means, "I find that I have much to be grateful for. Wealth went past my door and stopped at my neighbors'; but then, so did death; while health stopped at mine, and has kept us jolly ever since."

Inquisitive Tommy—Sunday is the first day of the week, isn't it, pa? His Pa—Yes, my son. Inquisitive Tommy—And Saturday is the last day, isn't it? His Pa—Yes. Inquisitive Tommy—Then how is it that Saturday comes before Sunday?

Teacher—Tommy, have you found out the difference between a republic and a monarchy yet? Tommy—I asked paw about it, and he said that in a monarchy the people obey their rulers because they respect them, and in a republic they obey the bosses cause they can't help it.

"I stole a woman's new $25 bonnet once," said the retired burglar, "but you can bet your life if I ever go into the business again I won't steal another one." "Did the woman run you down and get you sent up?" "Naw. But I took the thing home and give it to me wife, and she never let up on me till I gets her a $200 dress to go with the bonnet. See?"

NOVELTIES IN PLANT LIFE.

The British scientific expedition to the Philippine islands is said to have discovered 3,500 feet above sea level, on the sides of the extinct volcano Apo, a flower five feet and a half in diameter.

According to Edward Eggleston it was the cookery of the Middle Ages that led to the discovery of America. "The rage at that time for spices for flavoring purposes," said the doctor in a lecture in Baltimore the other day, sent the Portuguese south to their discoveries in Africa and sent Columbus in quest of India.

The so-called Russian thistle, which has become such a pest in the North-western states, is not properly a thistle at all, but an annual, nearly allied to the saltworts. It has done more than $2,000,000 damage to the crops last year. It was accidentally introduced seventeen years ago, in some flaxseed imported from Russia by a man in Scotland, S. D. It is estimated that it will cost fully $2,000,000 to eradicate it, and the department of agriculture has been appealed to take the matter in hand.

The sunflower, which so many persons want installed as the national flower, has some very interesting characteristics. It follows always in the wake of civilization, a fact of which Western travelers had abundant evidence. There is a legend to the effect that the Normans originally sent abroad the seeds of the sunflower as they journeyed toward the setting sun. However that may be, the flower is found in the greatest profusion at present on the west of the Rockies, but invariably in sections where some attempt has been made at cultivation.

HOW TO MAKE A SCRAPBOOK.

Nothing Will Do Unless It Be Good For at Least a Year.

For a book in which to paste the cuttings almost any bound volume will do, especially if its pages show a wide margin and the print can be readily covered by two widths of ordinary newspaper clippings. The margin may be used for notes, including dates and a few explanatory memoranda. The clippings should be kept for a week or so before they are pasted down, because a second judgment may rule them out. It is quite safe to advise collectors that no cutting will do unless it bids fair to be fresh and intelligible a year after it has been honored with a place in the scrapbook. If the pages become too thick for the cover, cut out two or three leaves after each page filled with the clippings.

When there is the slightest possibility that a scrapbook may be used for publishing purposes, or that any of its entries may be cut out for other uses, cover one page only. But on the page used the clippings should be pasted closely together. If possible, each clipping should retain the "rule" which marks the end of a printed paragraph or poem. The column lines need not be retained. In fact it is best to cut newspapers always along these lines. Ragged edges of course should be avoided, and the mullage with which the clippings are pasted down should be used sparingly, lest it ooze through the paper or exude from under the edges. Flour paste is better than mullage, and what is known as photographer's paste is excellent.

How to Account For the Story of "Jack and Jill."

The term "Jack and Jill" evidently took its name from two liquid measures bearing the same name and commonly in use in former days. "Jack" was a waxed leather pitcher, and a "gill," or "jill," was, as now, a metal measure of capacity. These words in time became representatives of the two sexes, and some think it is a humorous personification of the two vessels which had been accidentally upset.

How Trees Affect the Climate of a Country.

A wooded country is almost invariably wet. An average amount of trees or vegetation brings an average supply of rain, and by the same rule is the sun's heat distributed. As sandy surfaces are bad conductors, the climate by day is very hot, and as the cooling effect of the earth's radiation is greatest over sand the heat passes off at night, and it is comparatively cold. As vegetable growth receives the rays of the sun and none of them falls on the soil, the temperature of the soil does not rise so high as that of land with no vegetable covering. Hence this marked difference. The heat of the day is more equally distributed over the 24 hours where there is vegetation, and it is less intense by day and not so cool by night.

How to Make Chestnut Soup.

Peel and scrape the nuts; boil them in water with salt till quite soft; strain them from their moisture and press them through a sieve; put this pure into a saucepan containing a chopped onion already fried. Add the necessary quantity of water to prevent the mixture from being too thick. Serve with fried toast cut in dice.

How to Treat Children's Catarrh.

A prominent physician advises cool sponge baths twice a week in winter and oftener in summer. These should be given in a warm room, and be followed by friction by rubbing to produce a glow, and if not followed by a chill or headache the reaction has been prompt and beneficial. Begin the baths with warm water for the first one, changing gradually to cold in following baths. It is best to begin this treatment in spring or as long before winter as convenient, as they will stimulate the circulation, prevent colds and act upon the nasal membrane and promote the healthy action of all the functions of the body.

How to Use Kerosene as a Cleaner.

Kerosene will remove iron rust and fruit stains from almost every kind of goods without injuring the fabric. Wash the soiled spots in kerosene as you would in water. The spots must be washed in kerosene before they have been put into soap and water, or it will do no good.

How to Make Orange Float.

Put a pint of water in a double boiler, add the yellow rind of a large lemon tied in a bit of thin muslin, cover closely and bring to a boil. Remove the bag, squeeze the same dry, add half a teaspoonful of sugar and the juice of lemon. When it boils, stir in 2 tablespoonfuls of corn-starch wet in cold water and boil five minutes, stirring constantly. Peel and slice 6 oranges, removing all seeds. Place them in a glass dish, pour over the custard, and when very cold serve with whipped cream spread over the top.

How to Make a Gloss For Shirt Fronts.

To give shirt bosoms, collars and cuffs a glossy appearance, an ounce of white wax and 2 of spermaceti are melted together, and a little of a thick solution of gum arabic is used in the starch, a tablespoonful being enough for a pint of starch.

How the Word "Bumper" Came Into Use.

A "bumper" means a full glass. This term is used when the surface of the wine bumps up in the middle, so that the center is higher than the brim. When the wine is concave, it is called a brimmer. The word is supposed to be a corruption of au bon pere, meaning the pope, and refers to the bumpers taken by the monks to that toast. This is incorrect, as the toast would be au saint pere and not "bon." Pere is applied to any friar in priest's orders and bon pere to the head of the monastery.

How to Cure or Help Sore Throat.

When the first symptom appears, usually a raw, smarting sensation, prepare a cup of strong black tea. Add a teaspoonful of pure glycerin, being sure to stir it well in, and use the mixture as a gargle as hot as it can be borne.

What He Said.

In an English court a man was on trial who could speak nothing but Irish, and an interpreter was called and duly sworn. The prisoner at once asked him some question, and he replied. The judge interposed sharply.

"What does the prisoner say?" demanded the judge.

"Nothing, my lord," answered the interpreter.

"How dare you say that when we all heard him? What was it?"

"My lord," said the interpreter, beginning to tremble, "it had nothing to do with the case."

"If you don't answer, I'll commit you. What did he say?"

"Well, my lord, you'll excuse me, but he said, 'Who's that old woman with the red bed curtain round her sitting up there?'"

The court roared.

"And what did you say?" asked the judge, looking a little uncomfortable.

"I said, 'Whist, ye spalpeen! That's the old boy that's going to hang yes.'"

YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Forbidden Fruit.

"Bossy, do you think she'd let me hold that doll for a minute if I was to ask her?"

—LIFE.

Very Disappointing.

"Now look at that letter," said young Summers as he threw a scented square envelope across the cafe table. "What would you think to find that in your letterbox when you came into the club?"

"Why," said the visitor, picking it up and noticing the delicate handwriting, "I should think that some fair young woman was going to invite me to drink tea with her tomorrow afternoon."

"Do you know, that's just what I thought when I saw it, and that's why I am disgusted. The other night at the horse show I was introduced to an awfully pretty girl who lives up the avenue. The next night I met her again at the Van Hartman's, and we had quite a chat. She promised to send me her card. I thought this was it. It's a shame."

"Oh, but she may send it yet. I wouldn't despair so soon."

"It isn't that. It's the idea of getting such a letter as that instead of the one I expected. Don't you see what it is?"

"Do you want me to read it?"

"You may if you care for such things. There is nothing private about things that gain your confidence under false pretenses of perfumed and sealed envelopes and feminine hands. It's getting outrageous that one should at every turn have his heart beaten with visions of pretty notes, only to find printed slips telling you of the virtues of the latest clothes cleaning establishment and the low priced menu of the new restaurant on the corner. That note informs me that I can have my trousers pressed regularly once a week for 25 cents, and the wagon will call to get them. Isn't that a romantic message to crave respectful attention in polite and insinuating guise?"

—New York Tribune.

Getting Even.

A prominent Englishman, Lord D., a proverbial hater of America and Americans, was dining lately in Paris with the British minister, and next to him at the table was a noted Newport belle, Miss X. The conversation had drifted to a discussion of things American. It is needless to say that Lord D. made some pretty disagreeable remarks about some Americans he had met and some Yankee customs he abhorred.

"Why, d'y'e know," he continued, with an almost un pardonable want of tact, "that at some of the places I dined in America I saw people eat with their knives and spill their soup on the tablecloth."

Miss X. was thoroughly provoked by this time, but she replied with an apparent unconcern:

"What poor letters of introduction you must have had, my lord!"

There was no more unpleasant talk about America that evening.—Harper's Bazar.

Unsafe Gifts.

A Chicago bride once displayed cheeks among her wedding presents. I am not sure that this is not often done. It is one of the most disgusting bits of brag on social record. No self-respecting, decent member of society ought to flaunt money about, for every sake. The remedy has come at last in the shape of real danger. It is no longer safe to talk about or show money, for there are desperate people at every hand waiting to seize every available coin. If we have got to have burglars and thieves always with us, and if we are obliged to supply means for their support and amusement, let us by all means try to give them as much employment as we can for our (or is it their?) money. I sympathize with timid ladies who lay their plate outside their door, on the rug, with a polite appeal to burglars not to disturb them, since most of us, ladies or otherwise, would give all the plate we have in the world to escape a horrid midnight shock or shot, but to call the attention of inattentive burglars to the whereabouts of hitherto unsuspected "valuables seems superfluous.

—Chicago Post.

Bees' or on Heredity.

It seems hard that when a man does wrong his children should be put under an almost irresistible inclination to do wrong; it seems hard that when a man drinks spirituous liquors his children and his children's children should find themselves urged by a burning thirst, which they can scarcely withstand, toward indulgence in intoxicating drinks; it seems hard that diseases should be transmitted, and that because a man has violated the laws of health his children should be sickly and short-lived—these things seem hard so long as we look at them only on one side, but what a power of restraint this economy has when every man feels, "I stand not for myself alone, but for the whole line of my posterity to the third and fourth generation!"—Mr. Beecher's Unprinted Words? in Ladies' Home Journal.

Don't Realize Their Rudeness.

There seem to be lots of well-to-do persons in this city whose breeding is not the most h to make them see the vulgarity of conversing so loudly in the street cars that their talk is forced upon the attention of fellow passengers, who would rather be thinking of their own affairs.

—New York Herald.
