Emmet School Notes

(Alvin Cadman)
Intermediate Room

Mrs. Wilson visited school Friday.

The Fifth and Sixth grades gave the play they had been preparing for the Primary room. It was enjoyed greatly by all.

The Civics class finished reviewing the executive department, and are now starting on the judicial department.

Our Singing class sang Irish songs this week, because the Fifth and Sixth grades are studying Ireland.

High School Room

Olive Beckwith was absent from school Tuesday, Jan. 15.

The Ninth grade English class is studying some formal English this six weeks, instead of a classic. The Tenth grade English class has begun the study of Scott's "Ivanhoe."

We started the study of Business Arithmetic this semester, instead of Agriculture. Some have found they don't even know how to add.

The results of the semester tests were given out Monday. Everyone was glad to hear that there were only two failures.

Due to the fine snow on a hill near our school house, sleigh riding was even enjoyed by two of the teachers.

Most of our room received F in deportment the past six weeks. This was caused by a spill of paper wad shooting. Things have improved greatly since the punishment.

Report cards were given out Tuesday. Nearly everyone of the pupils seemed satisfied with the grades but the teacher wasn't.

Because of snow on the ice, no one has played hooky from school lately.

Since the thaw Saturday the snow has packed so hard on main street that the children have been using it as a place to skate.

INMAN NEWS

Dr. Schmelley, of Norfolk, was here Monday on business.

Payment of Bonus No More Extravagant Than The Building Of Dams

By Joel Parker

I have been carefully following bouns legislation in the past and see little hope of our senators, Burke and Norris, favoring any veterans benefits. My reason for this statement comes mostly from a letter received from U. S. Senator Thompson's office in Washington, dated Aug. 13, 1934, that his office received the following information from the Legion headquarters there. That on March 12, 1934 the House voted on the Patman bill providing for payment of the bonus and that the Nebraska members voted as follows:

Burke, against; Carpenter, Howard, Morehead and Shallenberger, "For."

As the above mentioned letter reads, the senators office states that the Legion further advised that Senators Norris and Thompson voted against the Long and Shipstead amendments, which were substantially the same as the provisions of the Patman bill. Since this letter was received, Burke was elected U. S. Senator, defeating Robert G. Simmons.

Now the veterans have senators Burke and Norris to represent them from this state, when, or if, the bonus bill comes to a vote in the senate. As we understand the bill now is with the Ways and Means committee. No doubt, it will be there for some time, probably plenty of time for "lobbyists" to work on legislators for it's defeat. Senator Norris, probably is busy looking for creeks and streams to build more dams in, for power and light purposes thruout the country. These vast expenditures make a large hole in the U. S. Treasury, where most all veterans have an interest.

If they want to build dams all over the nation for lights, power etc., and charge it to the U. S. Treasury, when the national budget is not balanced, it looks rather foolish. If such persons would come to northern Holt county, get a permit, they could gather up enough beaver, skilled in the trade, to build just as good a dam and no doubt amount to just as much as any dam now being built, and the expense would be very little.

We have private power and light companies thruout the nation giving the best of service and paying good salaries. To get a job with one of these companies you, probably, do not have to chase after some congressman, go thru Civil Service and then when you think you are in line for the job, your congressman writes you, there are powers above him in Washington, "I cannot do any more for you."

Why have congressmen if they cannot function in their own office and affairs?

Burke, no doubt, is strong for the New Deal, whatever that means. So far I think there are no benefits there for veterans. Some time ago big slashes were made in veteran's benefits, $450,000,000 being taken away from one disabled class, Federal employees were reduced and we are of the opinion that these cuts were made in order to protect the credit of the U. S. and a balanced budget. If Federal employees have been granted their full pay or nearly so, why not have the disability allowance pension restored, which award was given deserving veterans during sensible legislation.

Why have a preferred class?

Last November five new congressmen were elected, representing all such offices in this state, they are Charles McLaughlin, Karl Stefan, C. C. Binderup, Harry B. Coffey and Henry C. Luckey.

We will endeavor to get the information on how the Nebraska members, both senate and house, vote on the bonus bill when it comes before them. In the senate there are 13 newly elected, five of them World War veterans. It should be of vital interest to every veteran who needs his money for services rendered back in '17 and '18 to know how these five new members, who are World War veterans, represent them.

Never before would the payment of these Adjusted Compensation Certificates do the veteran as much good as now, due to the fact that the Disability Allowance pension was cancelled. This leaves many disabled veterans in great distress, and no doubt, if the certificates were paid during the past few years the depression would have cleaned it up, but now the veteran can realize going thru this depression, that he must go cautiously and carefully, and the great need of this long past due obligation for his existence.

What about the farmer, who went over-seas, Could he take his farming equipment with him or did he dispose of it at a great sacrifice? If he wanted to start farming again after discharge, and a lapse of nearly three years time, he would have a difficult task to salvage another supply of equipment with what little funds he had left.

The Circus

'Twas the night after Christmas When Tommy was widest awake, And Father told the doctor— "My son has the Tommy-ache."

Long before Mrs. John Kersenbrock married she wanted to come to O'Neill. The papers were full of it, people had the O'Neill complex, there was fascination, charm in the word and frequent blasts of some news writer added to the yearning. Then when the Kersenbrock wedding was solemnized Mrs. Kersenbrock expressed anew her desire to see O'Neill. Not long after the wedding day the Kersenbrocks arrived. A few days ago Mrs. Kersenbrock said she found both town and people just as she had dreamt them to be. And now she is the wife of the mayor of O'Neill.
