SOUTHWEST BREEZES

Bill Arnholt was over from Amelia Thursday and got a truck load of cotton wood slabs at John Baker's.

The Misses Maria and Mildred Saunders departed Friday, returning to Washington, D. C. They were accompanied to Lincoln by their father and brother, Ned.

H. L. and Lloyd James departed Sunday for Detroit to return with a new Dodge car. H. L. has disposed of his present car to Pat Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Young returned the first of the week after a fortnight with friends at their former home in northwestern Kansas.

Farm rentals are becoming prohibitory in the heavy agricultural sections of Iowa and Nebraska. Tenants of these places are casting about thru this section for places to rent, of which there are not many.

Pat Kennedy has sold all of his cattle but a few cows, the consignment making some nine truck loads which were recently hauled to market.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Roblyer, their nephew, Lee Smith, and Mrs. Hitchcock were out Saturday from Atkinson to spend the day with friends.

An excited brother with a decided aptisane ego up in old Grattan wrote me a letter the other day to which he did not sign his name. It reminded me of the story told of Horace Greeley. At one time opening his mail on April 1 he found an envelope containing a sheet upon which was written "April Fool." Mr. Greeley said that was the first letter he had ever received to which the writer signed his name but forgot to write the letter.

A considerable slice of Nebraska's good corn ground was abandoned to weeds this season. Greeley, Howard, Hall Hamilton, Adams, Lancaster and others had a very good growth of fodder, but little or no corn. The Platte at Grand Island is as dry as the roads. Irrigation farther up the river is absorbing the water, leaving the middle and lower Platte valley without the natural advantage it formerly had with a full volume of water in the river bed, which must eventually impoverish that section. Hastings is in high whoops over the tri-county project to construct a reservoir for storage of winter and spring flood supply of water which is to be used to irrigate, leaving the lower Platte valley still less water. A general aspect of neglect and deprecating buildings and property on the farms in these counties is apparent. The North Loup carries a good volume of water and along its meandering course is a rather better picture. R. S.

PLEASANT DALE

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Janzing and son, Bernard, left Thursday for South Dakota to visit Mrs. Nick Bogner and family. Mrs. Bogner is Mr. Janzing's sister. They expect to be gone a week.

THE NEBRASKA SCENE

(Continued from page 1.) thru an extra tax on gasoline, as there was nothing in the supreme court decision to prevent the use of that form of tax if properly levied and appropriated.

Meanwhile, there are plenty of willing hands ready to take the fund, nearly $1,000,000 piled up by the overthrown one-cent levy. A group of gasoline dealers as well as a group of truckers signified their willingness in this respect, and even have gone so far as to press their claims by taking them into court.

2. Changes in the Cone public official bonding monopoly bill which is being assailed in the courts.

3. Making a specific appropriation of gas tax funds on fuel used in aircraft for use of the state aeronautics commission. State Auditor Ayres has ruled that funds for this purpose were not properly appropriated by the legislature.

4. Clarification of $45,000 appropriation for defense of North Platte water rights which has become a court issue.

5. Action on request from the railway commission for authority for the commission to collect fees to pay cost of licensing commercial trucks and enforcing proposed rules and regulations.

6. Appropriation to the national guard which spent nearly $40,000 after the last legislature adjourned, in connection with the Omaha strike, the Republican river flood, and the Mitchell irrigation district water war.

7. Passage of laws enabling Omaha and Douglas county to participate in the WPA program by use of the county's share of the regular 4-cent gasoline tax and its share of the automobile registration fees.

8. Clarification of the law passed by the last session setting up a real estate bureau, for which funds were not legally appropriated, it was found last week. Secretary of State Swanson already has named the state real estate commission, but the state auditor says he cannot legally draw warrants on the fee fund (derived from a fee to be paid by real estate agents and brokers.)

9. Possible amendments to the O'Brien old age pension law of Nebraska (1935 session). Incidentally Pension Commissioner B. F. Perry and his four office helpers have had their pay cut off as the result of the court decision over-throwing the state assistance acts, which, in turn, was the result of the legislature's neglect to make a specific appropriation in the biennial budget bill.

10. Possible hiking of salaries for heads of state departments, following upon the supreme court decision late last week, throwing out the 1933 salary reduction act which affected constitutional officers of the state. There has been some talk that Nebraska does not have a legislature to call into special session, since the unicameral legislature laws went into effect in August. Attorney General William Wright says, however, that the state's law-making body still is the bi-cameral legislature and will continue to be until January 1, 1937, when the unicameral assembly takes office.

According to radio announcements the Italian invasion of Ethiopia was started this afternoon and several hundred killed by bombs.
