THE NEBRASKA SCENE

Neurnberger, Wakefield.

The pari-mutuel horse race betting system inaugurated at the state fair this year paid the state $6,430 which is clear profit after $965 operating expense has been subtracted. The fair balance for the entire exposition was $13,098, which does not include $12,896 of grandstand receipts that are kept in a separate account and used to pay interest on grandstand bonds.

TO THE ORIENT WITH CONGRESS

Well, we are now on our way to the Philippine Islands as a member of the insular committee of the United States house of representatives. We drove down to Columbus to catch the Union Pacific Portland Rose and met a lot of friends who came to say Bon Voyage.

Trains are crowded. Three sections of the Union Pacific train going to the west coast. People must have some money because it costs to travel and we notice that most of the passengers are buying Pullman tickets. Columbus gas man tells us business is mighty good around Columbus with very few vacant houses to rent. The PWA power project around Columbus is attracting unusual attention. Gas man says too, that business generally must be better. Says he never saw so many brand new cars—automobiles in his life.

All kinds of folks traveling. Lady from Norfolk got on the train going to western Nebraska to look over her land which she says is all clear of encumbrance and will bring her good money if the corn crop is any good.

Albion lady and her mother on one section of west bound train going on vacation.
A mother superior of a western convent is on the train. A beautiful character who has been visiting relatives in north Nebraska. It was the first time she has seen her own mother for seventeen years. The parting took place in Columbus.

The Portland Rose is a beautiful train. The club car is entirely modern and complete. You can get a shave or haircut—any newspaper or magazine or any kind of mixed drink—if you have the money.

It was because of the importance of the inauguration of the new Commonwealth and because the Insular affairs committee had begun working on the problems of trade from the Orient that the Philippine Government invited members of our committee to go to the Philippines to officially attend the inauguration on Nov. 15 and see for ourselves the conditions as they exist in these Islands. The Filipinos pay the traveling expenses of the members of the Insular Affairs Committees from both the House and Senate. There is to be a good will stop in Japan and China and a stop in Hawaii. There will be stops in the Alutian Islands, in Yokohama, Tokio, Kobe, etc. Then to China with stops at Shanghai and Hongkong and then down to Manila. There will be ten days of inspection of the Islands and on the afternoon of Nov. 15 the inauguration of the new Commonwealth. For ten years under the eyes of a United States high commissioner and with their own Governor General or President, the Filipino people will go thru a transition period. The stars and stripes will continue flying over the islands and the people there (14,000,000 of them) will continue owing their allegiance to the United States. When the period of ten years has elapsed—under the present plans—the Filipino people will get their absolute independence.

What the reason is for the reference to the glimpse of the Alutian Islands can only be guessed at. You know we held naval maneuvers there not so long ago. The Japanese did not like that. There is much talk about fortifying those islands.

There are thousands of graves of Americans in the Philippine Islands. There are hundreds of graves of unsung heroes, graves of boys of yesterday who counted the days of their enlistment for the time when they would come back—boys who never came back. We know of lonely graves which we are going to visit, of boys of long ago—graves in misty swamps of the Orient, who wanted to come back home. And we are going to pause and lift a prayer to the memory of these who we knew there.

A United States senator is sitting alone across from the Nebraska congressman. He don't recognize the Nebraskan who met him in Washington. After a while they will get better acquainted. The senator is watching the thousands of hay stacks west of Columbus. Wonder what this senator is really thinking about? We know what the Nebraska congressman is thinking about—it's about the folks at home and hoping that with them—everything is all right.

By the way we notice on the menu on this train that a beef steak dinner costs $1.75—but they say it's a big beef steak.

KARL STEFAN.

BICYCLES!

Oh—What fun to go to school with a brand new Bike—Balloon Tires, Double Spring Saddle, Coaster Brake and other features, $24.95—Boys or girl, at Gamble's. New Streamline Trikes, $4.25—Coaster Wagon, $12.41.—Adv.

More Work for the Telephone every 60 seconds

A fire breaks out every minute in the United States. Nine out of 10 times, the telephone carries the call for help.

Not only in emergencies but in social and business affairs Americans depend upon the telephone. They have more than half the world's telephones. In proportion to population, they use the telephone nine times as much as Europeans.

Such great use of telephone service is the natural result of having the best and cheapest telephone service in the world.

The telephone needs of our customers are met better and at less cost because of the Bell System organization which includes the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Bell Telephone Laboratories, the Western Electric Company, and 24 associated operating companies of which this Company is one.

As a part of the Bell System, this Company receives from the American Company expert advice and assistance regarding every phase of the telephone business, including research work, the design and manufacture of equipment and the right to use more than 15,000 patents. For all this, it pays only 1 1/2 cents out of each dollar received from the sale of its service.

The advice, assistance and services obtained from the American Company by this Company and the other Bell operating companies, at a nominal cost, are the principal factors in producing in America the world's best and cheapest telephone service.

It is largely through this advice, assistance and services that this Company is able to make constant improvements in telephone service and at the same time keep down its cost to telephone users.
