TO THE ORIENT WITH CONGRESS

(Continued from page 1.) second—whom he married in 1913 comes from Batangas province and helps him entertain. Neither Aguinaldo nor his wife speak English. Together they talk Tagalog. Otherwise they speak Spanish.

Aguinaldo lives on a pension and "gifts" from "friends." The pension is paid by the Philippine government and is said to amount to around $10,000 per annum. Is Manuel Quezon, the new Philippine president and his followers afraid of Aguinaldo? That is a question which has been asked many times during the visit of this congressional party. Here are some facts: When Quezon was entertaining members of congress some nights ago we wandered thru his spacious gardens and found Constabulary men armed to the teeth in every nook and corner. There was at least a full company of these soldiers on guard. It was obvious that the leader was well guarded against something.

The Nebraska congressman rode back from Quezon's home in Quezon's car. It was not steel armored and there was no bodyguard.

But—here is an unconfirmed story which has been told to nearly every member of the party: The night the party was being entertained at Quezon's home there was a mass meeting at Aguinaldo's home in Cavite province. This story was to the effect that several volunteers had promised to assassinate Quezon; that secret service men attended the meeting and had confirmed reports to Quezon who in turn took the matter up with Governor General Murphy, requesting Murphy to stop Aguinaldo. Murphy called Aguinaldo to his office. He asked Aguinaldo if he planned to stop the inauguration ceremonies. Aguinaldo after calling Quezon many unkind names replied that the inauguration would be stopped and that he had 60,000 men to help him stop it. He claimed Quezon had stolen the election. After much conferring it is reported Aguinaldo promised not to interfere.

All members of the party agree that Quezon is going to have a hard time keeping the leaders of various political factions satisfied. Many of them want good political jobs. Five of them demand to be made commissioners to the United States. Half a dozen of them have started various "movements" to get mass support; two are starting a "youth's movement." College professors say they want nothing to do with politics. They tell members of this party that "politics in the Orient is a profession." Members of the party are agreed that Philippine independence depends on what happens in the next ten years. If the Filipinos can make good at their practicing how to run a republic they get their independence. So far as Uncle Sam is concerned he has given much authority and assumed grave responsibility. One member says: "Uncle Sam has a wildcat by the tail out here and he can't let loose."

Notes From China Chinese newspapers never print news as Americans like to read it. It is really not correct news but it is colored for home consumption. Talking to a Chinese merchant about the Chinese flag—he tells us that the average Chinese does not care what flag flies over him so long as he and his clan can go unoppressed.

Why can't Americans leave China alone and go home? The answer here is: "Americans have about three hundred million dollars invested in China. The missionary investment is about 80 millions."

There are no peasants or merchants in China not preyed upon either by armies or bandits and 90 per cent are preyed upon by both. Take away foreign soldiers, warships and there will be massacres and looting. Missionaries have been here for years. Some suggest that these missionaries go home and turn over to the Chinese they have educated their property and programs. Those here for years know what would happen.

There is as much slavery in China today as there was in the United States before the civil war.

A prohibited parade of fanatics is met in one village. These are "paid" and "professional" fanatics who drive spikes thru the fleshy part of their arms onto which are tied carved statuettes and emblems which help drive away the devil.

Hard to get good American food in China. Members of the party usually order ham and eggs. By the way, there is no such food as Chop Suey or Chow Mein in China. Not like you get in America. Chinese tell us these are American dishes and not Chinese dishes. Chinese don't eat Chop Suey or Chow Mein as we know it.

Seattle. The congressional party is back home. That is the greatest thing that seems to have come into the life of every man and woman abroad the congressional boat. There is a great scramble to get the baggage checked by the customs house men and railroad tickets are bought and nearly every member will be on a train tonight or tomorrow morning bound for home. Senator Gibson of Vermont, has the longest distance to go. He says he's stopping no place until he gets home to eat Christmas dinner with his own people. There is no place like home and thank God for the United States of America. KARL STEFAN.

THE NEBRASKA SCENE

(Continued from page 1.) of public funds or property are still working under bonds furnished by private companies or signed by individual guarantors.

Nebraska's political pot is expected to start boiling a bit more lively with the turn of the year. Filings of candidates for office are expected to increase, though only a few aspirants for state offices on party tickets are formally entered thus far for the April primaries. There still remains a period of ten weeks for getting nomination papers into the secretary of state's office.

Seventy-seven Nebraskans, including two women, have already filed for state positions to be open in 1937, a check-up here revealed, but there are 97 offices open for the primary election on April 14. Fifty-one candidates paid their $10 fees to seek a place in the first unicameral legislature of 43 members. There are no filings, however, from 14 of the 43 districts. Eleven have filed for district court judgeships. Thirty-five district judges will be elected.

Among the early entrants were Stanley Wright, republican, of Alliance. O. S. Spillman, republican, of Norfolk, and Roland Rodman, republican of Kimball, all for governor. Spillman and Rodman have not accepted, nor indicated whether they would accept, petitions filed for them. Henry C. Luckey, democrat, of Lincoln, incumbent from the First district in Congress, has filed for re-nomination.

A ten-point change in the political status of Nebraska is shown in a recent survey of the states according to whether they are definitely democratic. In 1932, the poll, published in the Lincoln newspaper, showed that Nebraska was 64 per cent democratic of the majority party vote. Today, however, this has dropped, the poll says, to 54 per cent or a change of ten points. Nebraska has seven electoral votes. Twenty-seven states are listed in the table of states definitely democratic.

Taxes levied in 1935 for municipal and school purposes, and the combined tax rate for all purposes, in each of the 525 incorporated cities and villages of Nebraska, are listed in a pamphlet compiled by State Tax Commissioner Smith. The towns of each county are grouped together in this publication, the first of its kind ever issued by the commissioner's office.

Gering, the county seat of Scottsbluff county, again receives the distinction of having the highest rate of total taxation in Nebraska. Its combined levies for 1935 are 73.3 mills, estimated to produce $67,486 of revenue. The population of Gering by the 1930 census was 2,531, making the average tax about $27 for each man, woman and child. The city of Scottsbluff, in the same county, has a total tax rate of 65.8 mills.

That public records are open to challenge was the claim made recently by attorneys for the defendants in the Bass bond premium suit before the Supreme court. The brief supports the appeal from a Lancaster county district court judgment of $56,338 awarded the state board of educational lands and funds against former State Treasurer T. W. Bass, his bond clerk, W. C. Oelkers, their sureties, the Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland and the Columbia Casualty Co. and the Wachob, Bender & Co., Omaha bond house. The judgment runs ultimately against the bond house. Joe Crumrine, of Gering, plumber and city councilman, has filed for the legislature from Scottsbluff county. He is a democrat.

BRIEFLY STATED

Girls, this is leap year and there are several eligible bachelors in the city, who are susceptible if properly approached.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Holz and family visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wayman Thursday night last.

The year 1935 came to a close last Tuesday with a variety of weather for one day. It snowed a little in the morning for about an hour, then cleared away and in a short while it was raining and it misted most of the balance of the day and since then we have had balmy weather.

HELLO!

We're back in O'Neill and glad of it! We're back in the gas business and glad of that too, even though we know we are the traditionally unwanted fourteenth child. Tradition also said the fourteenth was either the brightest or dumbest of the bunch. We're accepting the latter but it's fun to be dumb when you don't know any better.

A few months ago when we found ourselves again in possession of our bulk gas plant we began scouting around to find an adequate outlet for our products. But finally decided like "Farmer Jones," if you want a job done, do it yourself. So, we are here.

We have looked over the field of independent refineries and feel the Globe Products are most outstanding. Not only because they are one of the largest independents, but because their plant—recently installed at McPherson, Kans.—has all the latest improvements in equipment, including multi-coil cracking plant, vapor recovery and stabilizer unit, and a Lockman treating unit, the first to be installed in the mid-continent field. All bespeak for the Globe people a fine uniform product we are proud to offer for your approval.

So, if you should wander away, clear out on the west side, find yourself out of gas and lost, we'll be tickled to death to take care of your needs and show you the way back home.
