

Frontier Sending Out Two Thousand Extra Copies of The Paper

This week The Frontier goes to 2,000 people in the county who are not subscribers but who are invited to join our large family of readers. The Frontier is the official paper of the City of O'Neill and the county of Holt and publishes more county news than any other newspaper in the county. Remember you can get this paper, if you are not now a subscriber, for the year 1936 for $1.00. If you are a reader and paid up for 1936 you can have your subscription extended for one year on the payment of $1.00. If you are in arrears pay up your arrearage at the regular rate and you can have your subscription advanced one year upon the payment of $1.00, or two years upon the payment of $2.00.

Now is the time to take advantage of this, the greatest reading value ever offered the people of Holt county. Offer good only until February 8, 1936.

Buyers Warned Against Seed Peddling Truckers

Any trucker who is not a common carrier and who hauls misbranded seed from one state to peddle it in another state violates the Federal Seed Act, the U. S. department of Agriculture warns. Transporting misbranded seed from one state to another is forbidden by law, but common carriers are exempt. Selling the misbranded seed in interstate commerce is also an offense, and the peddling trucker could be punished for either or both of these acts.

Complaints received from state officials by the Division of Seed Investigations, which administers the act, indicate that much of the seed sold by truckers from other states has been sold at unusually low prices. But this cheap seed is also of unusually low quality—or otherwise unsuitable. Truckers should be able to handle seed that is correctly labeled and is of high quality. Past experience, indicates however, that it is poor business to buy seed from a stranger or person whose reputation is not known. Buying cheap seed has resulted in injury to many farmers who have not realized the importance of buying seed that is clean and free of noxious weed seeds, seed that germinates well, and seed of a variety adapted to the buyer's locality.

An investigation made by department officials in one case revealed that a truck owner was buying screenings from a large seed house and selling it across the state line as good seed. Of course he was forced to misbrand the seed to get buyers. If the seed had been truthfully labeled, farmers would have known better than to buy it.

Unless he keeps a record in black and white, a farmer has no recourse against the person who sold him the seed. There have been extreme cases where the seed was not labeled, where the buyer did not even know the name of the trucker or his address, and did not even make a record of the state and number on the license plates. It is impossible for seed law officials to be of any assistance in a case of this kind.

The Department of Agriculture officials think it is unwise to buy seed unless it is completely labeled and unless the buyer gets a written record of the transaction. Any questionable transactions should be reported to the state seed official who may report on the case to the Federal authorities if it appears the Federal Seed Act has been violated.

SEED CORN TESTING PLANNED FOR CORN FOR SEED PURPOSES

Location of Suitable Seed Corn For Spring Planting Principal Reason For Work.

Plans for testing seed corn to determine germination for spring planting will be carried on in an organized manner in Holt county. Farm and town youths between the ages of 15 and 25 will be given part time employment in the project under the National Youth Administration.

Agricultural Agent F. M. Reece was notified this week of the state wide seed corn testing plan. M. K. Young, former Lancaster county farmer, has been placed in charge of the testing work to be conducted by funds from the NYA. The Nebraska agricultural college extension service is to cooperate.

Location of suitable seed corn for spring planting and running germination tests are the chief purposes of the work which will probably start immediately. It is felt Holt county will have sufficient corn for its own use as germination tests on some cribs have indicated the 1935 corn to have reasonably good germination. However this only impresses the fact that all corn intended for planting purposes should be tested. Farmers are urged to bring in samples of seed to the Agricultural office in O'Neill for testing. All will be done free of charge. Boys and girls whose families are on relief will be allowed to put in a maximum of 46 hours per month on the project. All testing will be done by use of rag doll testers.

That the seed corn situation is alarming in some sections was indicated last week by the Nebraska Crop Growers' Association when that organization passed a resolution asking the college of agriculture to inform farmers accurately about the problem. D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the college of agriculture who helped work out plans for the testing project, termed the seed situation as very serious and approximately that of 1917. P. H. Stewart and Dr. F. D. Keim both of the college, expressed similar opinions recently.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

SOMEWHAT more favorable consumer prices are noticeable in forequarter cuts of lamb, fresh pork, eggs and butter. Vegetables in general are fairly plentiful and moderate in price, the outstanding exception being string beans.

Greens including spinach are perhaps cheapest. Green peas and lima beans are moderate in price and cauliflower is again fairly plentiful. Iceberg lettuce continues to be an outstanding bargain. Tomatoes are cheaper.

Strawberries are becoming more plentiful but the outstanding fruits continue to be the citrus varieties, apples and bananas.

Here are three menus at different budget levels for Sunday dinner.

It is noted that Attorney Bill Hammond is one of the most thorough at cleaning the snow from his walks to be found in his part of the city.

Nebraska has been pretty well covered with snow the past week, providing considerable moisture when it thaws up, and just now furnishing the boys with a lot of fun with their sleds.

WHY IT'S HARD TO RECOVER

A WPA worker on a road in Evanston, Ill., was hauled into court for punching his foreman in the nose. The judge asked: "Why did you hit the foreman?"

"I wanted to quit work at three and he said I couldn't knock off until four-thirty, the regular time," answered the prisoner.

"Why did you want to quit at 3?" "Because I had to run into Chicago and get my relief money before the office closed."

"You mean to say you are getting a salary from the government and collecting relief too?"

"Yes."

"Have you a family?"

"Only a twenty-six year old son."

"What does he do?"

"He's a relief investigator."

THE PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

A great deal of debate is still going on concerning the possibility of a new constitutional amendment to give Congress and the Executive powers which the Supreme Court, in the NRA and similar cases, has decided they do not now possess.

A short time ago Walter Lippman, the well-known publicist, challenged an editor who has often written in favor of the amendment, to put it into words—that is, to prepare the text of such an amendment in the clear and legal form in which it must be submitted to the people. It was Mr. Lippman's expressed belief that no one could do it—and his belief was partially proved when the editor replied that the job was beyond him.

The actual preparation of such an amendment would seem a task almost beyond human power. How could we further centralize and augment powers of the Federal government—and at the same time preserve the rights of states, which are at present guaranteed by the Constitution? How could we give to the government at Washington absolute and dictatorial powers over commercial and industrial life—which is what the sponsors of the amendment want—and at the same time keep operative the existing Constitutional guarantees that protect the lawful activities of individual initiative and enterprise? How could we give into the hands of politicians sweeping authority over our basic social and economic institutions—and at the same time make sure that such fundamental principles of democratic government as freedom of press, speech and action were not infringed?

The Constitution has existed for more than 150 years. It has made possible our growth from a handful of relatively unimportant colonies to the greatest industrial power in the modern world. It has preserved, in the face of a hundred onslaughts, the human rights and liberties for which men have fought since the dawn of time—liberties which have been entirely destroyed in other nations. It has given us the highest standard of living for the masses, in the world. Perhaps those who would emasculate and change this document are less wise, less foresighted, less in tune with the forces that make for freedom and progress, than were those great men who wrote it.
