

Household Questions

When an apple pie is two-thirds baked, sprinkle grated cheese over the top. It adds much to the flavor of the pie.

Sugar, used wisely, is an important source of energy to the body.

If apples are pricked with a fork before putting into the oven to bake, skins will not crack open in baking.

Sprinkle the buds and leaves of tulips, hyacinths, etc., grown in the house. It prevents their shriveling.

Place a turkey or chicken with breast down in pan for the first half hour of roasting. Juices will then flow into the breast and meat will be much more tender.

A soft cloth moistened with kerosene instead of water will clean windows quickly and well in freezing weather.

The color and flavor of roast beef gravy is improved when a tablespoonful of brown or white sugar is added to it.

Give house plants a little fresh air every day. They require air as well as water and sunshine.

To prevent fruit settling on bottom of gelatin desserts, whip until gelatin is of the consistency of whipped cream.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

GARFIELD TEA

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL

By Carter Field

Washington.—Lurking in the minds of a group of very prominent conservative Democrats, men who secretly agree with the views of John W. Davis and other Liberty League directors, but who have not and will not come out into the open, is a contingency with respect to the Republican party which has received little, if any, attention.

What they are afraid of is that the Republican party will nominate no one now prominently mentioned for the place, but some radical figure such as Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota. One such Democrat, who has been one of the heaviest contributors to Democratic campaign funds for a generation, told the writer that Nye was his chief fear.

"If the Republicans nominate any fairly conservative candidate, not too objectionable," he said, "I will preserve my party regularity. I will even contribute, say, $1,000 to the campaign fund. But down in my heart I will hope the Republican wins. But if the Republicans nominate a man like Nye, every ounce of force I can bring to bear will be put behind the re-election of Roosevelt, little as I agree with his policies."

This particular Democrat was enthusiastically for the Roosevelt and Garner ticket in 1932—after the convention. He particularly approved the Democratic platform as adopted at Chicago. But economically he agrees with Davis and Al Smith, with Glass of Virginia and Tydings of Maryland.

Now the importance of all this is not this man's views, nor the effect of his active support or contributions. Actually the Democrats will not have any real trouble getting all the money they want. The assured success of the Jackson day dinners, to be held all over the country, is a sufficient demonstration of this. And there are always plenty of rich men eager to ingratiate themselves with the President of the United States—or for that matter with a man who has a good chance of becoming President. There is not only the possibility of appointments in the diplomatic service, so glitteringly attractive to many rich men's wives, but the mere prestige of being invited to an occasional White House dinner is worth a lot to a great many rich families.

Calvin Coolidge understood this well. On one occasion, on one of the famous week-end trips on the Mayflower, which rarely extended more than the six miles down the Potomac river to Alexandria, he spoke to a guest just before retiring.

"Thought you might want to write to some of your friends," he said, handing his guest a handful of envelopes and writing paper embossed with the name "U. S. Mayflower" and the Presidential seal. That sort of reflected glory is worth a mint to more people than one might hurriedly suppose.

The really interesting thing about this fear felt by some rich and conservative Democrats is that they are usually pretty well informed. They keep their eyes on the situation, and their ears close to the ground.

Silverites Disappointed

None of the groups and blocs in house and senate feel so cheated as they return to Washington as the silver advocates, particularly those among them who were more interested in the inflation aspect of the "cause" than the expected benefits to the silver miners.

The answer to the last is quite simple. In the first place, there are practically no silver miners, as such. Practically all the silver produced in the United States is a by-product of lead, zinc, copper or some other metal. Further, the Treasury department has been and still is paying a high price for newly mined silver. Right at the moment it is around 50 per cent more than the world price, which means that the treasury is losing nearly 25 cents an ounce on every ounce it buys. It could buy the white metal just that much cheaper on the world market.

But the silver men in congress feel cheated two ways. In the first place, they are tremendously disappointed at the net results of the silver policy as worked out by President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. In the second place, they feel that Morgenthau purposely "let them down"—that he did not want the policy written into law, and that he has gotten around actually carrying it out.

One very shrewd speculator, very close to most of the silver senators, has advised some of them that, in his opinion, if the secretary of the treasury, even at this late date, should simply take all the silver offered in the world markets for a brief time, he would absorb all the "floating supply."

This speculator believes that the floating supply is not more than sixty million ounces at the outside. But the way to it, if he desire to put the price up, is real, he insists.

is simply to stand there and take all that is offered as long as it is around the present price. Which, incidentally, is just under the price at which the government commanded—50 cents an ounce. This speculator thinks such a stand would have the effect of reconverting the world that this country was going to do something about silver, which belief was what put the price up above 70 cents, while the collapse of that belief was what dropped it back to below 50 cents.

But the real, starry-eyed silver boys are those who think in terms of bimetalism, and $1.29 an ounce, or more than $2 if you figure gold devaluation and the 16 to 1 ratio.

A fight will be made for bimetalism at this session of congress. There is no doubt about that. But it is highly doubtful if the fight gets very far. For one thing, the silverites will not have so much co-operation from the inflationary group as they did when they forced Roosevelt and Morgenthau to accept the silver law. For it was only because it was the only way to avoid having a straight-out printing press money measure jammed down its throat that the administration accepted the silver bill in the first place.

The considerable improvement in business has taken some of the steam out of the inflationists. Others who believe implicitly in inflation have come to believe that there is no use fighting for it right now, because it is on the way anyhow! They figure that the national debt will go on mounting, further devaluation of the dollar will be the only way out for the government after a few years, and then inflation will be here. So they think it is easier to wait until the train comes along than to run toward it. So the silverites do not know what to do, but they are mighty unhappy.

Utilities Watch Court

If the United States Supreme court should declare unconstitutional the public utility holding company law forced through by President Roosevelt at the last session of congress, there is a very fair chance indeed that the new law, to take its place, might follow the lines of the compromise suggested by Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

If the Supreme court upholds the present law, there is not the proverbial Chinaman's chance that congress will repeal the present statute, and substitute anything so mild. To put it another way, if congress were about to write the public utility bill, with the President unchanged in his attitude, it would undoubtedly be a milder bill—much milder—than the present one. But that is a very different thing from putting through a repeal measure and modifying the existing law.

The answer to this somewhat paradoxical appearing situation is found in the difficulty of putting through any new legislation to which the President is opposed. If the law were not on the books, the President would try whip and spur to get it there. He would then be forced to take considerably less than he got last year.

But to hope, as some utility officials do, that congress will substitute a more "reasonable" measure at this session show abysmal ignorance of how the wheels go round in Washington. It would require not only the tremendous push necessary to get the measure through both house and senate, but the mustering, after the President's certain veto, of a two-thirds majority in each house. Which is just about unthinkable.

Notwithstanding which, the Willkie compromise is very appealing to a great number of senators and representatives. Their usual comment, of course, is: "Why didn't the utilities come before congress with this sort of proposition long ago, instead of pretending they didn't need any regulation?" The answer to that, of course, is very human. Nobody goes looking for trouble. No one openly admits he needs to be curbed. Human minds don't function that way.

When the blow finally fell, and when the utilities, last year, realized that a law was going through, they made their drive against the death sentence, thinking that if the evil day could be delayed, the law might be changed later. But they lost.

The Willkie compromise would end governmental competition with the utilities. It would give the securities and exchange commission authority to supervise the issuance of holding company securities. It would subject all utilities companies to the securities exchange act. It would accept imposition of uniform accounting systems for all utility companies, leaving the final word as to how accounts should be kept to the securities commission.

Striking at one of the most complained of abuses by holding companies, it would regulate charges made against operating companies for management and services by holding companies, thus eliminating the milking of operating companies and maintenance of high rates to consumers because of unnecessarily high fees to the parent companies. Further, it would set up interstate power boards, and would permit the fixing of rates on interstate business by these boards whenever a state utility commission should so request.

AAA Is No More Who Will Pay Now? Only 11 Can Run Fast The State of the Union

Arthur Brisbane

The Supreme court decision rejecting AAA, the "agricultural adjustment act," affects every American directly. Issued just as the President announced his program to balance the national budget within one thousand million dollars, the decision upsets that administration program.

Men with large incomes, of whom few survive, may worry, for the decision takes from the government seven hundred million a year of processing taxes that will have to be made good elsewhere. The manufacturers', or processing, tax, handed along to the little people, was, in reality, a sales tax on life's necessities—cotton cloth, flour and meat.

The question is, Who will provide cash promised the farmers, since the Supreme court will not sanction the sales tax, disguised as a "gross" tax? When will come the hundreds of millions the government owes to farmers under its AAA promises and has not yet paid? The farmers did their part, the government could hardly fail to do its part by paying.

International News Service sports department shows that out of about 1,800,000,000 human beings on earth only 11 are known that can run a mile at really high speed. Of these not more than four have any chance of beating an individual named Glenn Cunningham of Kansas.

You would think that the billion unknown uncouneted among the so-called "backward races," many with native energy, free of civilization's handicaps, could easily be trained to beat the 11 fast ones, but it is not probable.

The President's address "on the state of the Union" was, like nearly all Presidential speeches, an address on the state of the administration. Discussing danger of war, if it is true that '85 or 90 per cent of all the people in the world are content with the territorial limits of their respective nations," that would leave only 10 or 15 per cent of the aggressive type.

Lloyd George, playing a little politics with his friend Prime Minister Baldwin, exults in the noble moral uprising of the British, rejecting the terrible, immoral plan to divide Ethiopia and placate Italy. Something "without precedent," Lloyd George calls it.

Where England is concerned, "dividing up" is, indeed, almost without precedent. England's custom as a rule is to swallow things whole, as she did with the Transvaal, India, and other territories that have kept her old fighting flag always in the sunshine.

The Methodist Episcopal church is proud to announce in Nashville, Tenn., that it begins 1936 with 2,783,260 regularly enrolled members, an increase over the preceding year of 31,298, with 21,361 baptized infants not included. This is the reply of the Methodist Episcopalians to the "high church" Episcopalians of the English church that suggests giving up Protestantism altogether as a failure.

Children will learn with pleasure that it is not necessary to eat spinach unless you like it. Other vegetables take the place of spinach with a menacing person called "Pop-Eye."

The government, through WPA, will print a book on what to eat and how to eat it. One well known New York physician ventures the opinion that spinach contains an objectionable amount of "vegetable uric acid."

A twenty-year-old Poughkeepsie girl "from the other side of the track," working for $6 a week, was invited by a young man to get into his automobile. "Want to go somewhere for a drink, baby?" was the invitation formula. In the morning the unfortunate girl was found in the man's car in a garage, dead, horribly mistreated and beaten to death. The excuse for mentioning so dreadful a crime is that it ought to warn all girls foolish enough to accept invitations from unknown men.

New Jersey says the execution of Hauptmann, close at hand, will be no theatrical show. No woman reporter will be allowed to witness Hauptmann's death, an excellent idea, although some young ladies will not think so. Female reporters, let us hope, will have babies later on. Watching a miserable creature writhing in the electric chair would not be good for the babies.

Skeletons in Armor Suits Are Found on Battle Site

Skeletons fully arrayed in medieval armor have been found in excavations in the vicinity of Venice, all in a perfect state of preservation. Workers engaged on excavations for the new great canal which is under construction in the picturesque district surrounding Stra, came across what undoubtedly must have been the scene of a great battle in the days of the ancient Venetian republic.

One of the many skeletons in armor was found to have a sword still between the ribs. Presumably the man fell in battle and has lain undisturbed all these centuries. Quantities of ancient weapons and armor also were found, together with beautifully modeled vases which, when the centuries old dirt had been washed away, were found to be painted by hand with designs and figures, the colors being perfectly preserved.

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without griping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

LONDON NAVAL CONCEPTION

By NORMAN H. DAVIS
ON BEHALF of my government I declare emphatically that the United States will not take the initiative in naval competition. We want no naval increase. We want limitation and reduction. Our present building program, which is essentially one of replacement, is consistent with this desire. For ten years we ceased naval construction. Under our present plans, the strengths allotted to us by the London treaty as of the end of 1936 will not be attained until 1942. We have no wish to exceed those treaty limits. I may say also that the United States, which is now definitely on the way to recovery from the severe depression through which it has been going, and from which no nation has escaped, is most anxious to devote its energies and material resources to the upbuilding of the country.

BALANCING AGRICULTURE BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

WE SEEK to balance agriculture and we have made great strides. But in balancing agriculture we know that it must be in balance not alone with itself but with industry and business as well—that the producing public must give consideration to the consuming public. Year by year as we go on, many details, many problems, will need to be analyzed and solved. Agriculture and industry and business are in overwhelming majorities co-operating for a common justice as never before. In these present days we have seen and are seeing, not a rebirth of material prosperity alone; of greater significance to our national future is that spiritual reawakening, that deeper understanding that has come to our land.

OUT OF IT AND NEUTRAL

Commenting Upon the Ethiopian Complication.

THANK God we are out of it! Only a few days ago a distinguished visitor from England advised us of the high purposes of the league and told us how unfortunate it was that the United States was not a member. If this proposal goes through, the league will become a subservient instrument of imperialism. It is fortunate, indeed, that we have taken the position of a neutral in this affair. We ought to adhere strictly to the doctrine of neutrality.
