THE NEBRASKA SCENE

by James R. Lowell
 Apparently it will be news to many Nebraska voters to see that a state-wide primary election will be held Tuesday, April 14th. Indicative of the general apathy of the electorate is the experience of a leading candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination.
 While visiting a good-sized town last week for political purposes the prominent candidate met an old friend, a successful business man, whom the candidate had not seen for several months. "You should have gotten into the race this year, old man," the business man heartily assured the candidate. "I believe you would have made it this time."

At any rate, 94 Nebraska editors representing every section of the state have co-operated with the Lowell Newspaper service of Lincoln, by picking the candidates they believe will be successful in the primary. The consensus follows:
 For Governor: R. L. Cochran, incumbent, unanimous to win the democratic nomination. Dwight Griswold the big favorite to win the republican nomination. He was picked by 82 editors, while 7 chose Spillman, and 2 took Madgett.
 For U. S. Senator: James C. Quigley of Valentine gets the nod on the democratic side. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff places second, while Emil E. Placek of Wahoo and George E. Hall of Lincoln are neck-and-neck for third place. On the republican side Robert G. Simmons of Lincoln is the unanimous selection.

For Lieutenant Governor: A horse race between Edgar Howard of Columbus and Walter H. Jurgensen, incumbent, of Lincoln, for the democratic nomination, but Howard is given a slight edge. George A. Williams of Fairmont away in the lead for republican honors. Fifty-one editors pick him, 12 pick C. A. Green of Lincoln, 10 for A. T. Howard of Scottsbluff, and 3 for Jess P. Palmer of Omaha.
 Railway Commission: Warren R. Pool of Lincoln is the choice from a field of eight candidates. Buehler Metcalfe of Omaha is placed second, F. A. Good of Lincoln is third, George L. Good of Bridgeport fourth, John B. Sullivan of Omaha fifth and B. E. Farley of Cedar Rapids sixth. Hugh Henderson Drake of Kearney, present (Continued on page 7, column 1.)

E. H. Kendall, Oakley, Kan., businessman, interested in suggestions made in this column that one way the new dealers can aid the farmers is by stopping the importation of foreign agricultural products, tells of an experiment he made in his home town. "Noticing the Argentine Republic Inspection stamp on some canned corned beef on my own shelves," he writes, "I made a canvass of all the stores handling groceries in Oakley and purchased a can of corned beef from each store. I have five different brands bearing major packing company names but every single can also bearing the stamp of Uruguay, Argentina or Brazil. In this, a cattle country, even our local stockmen are compelled to buy imported corned beef. I have had others try the experiment in other towns with the same result. I am almost convinced it is impossible to purchase domestic canned beef in Kansas."—Denver Post.

 Congressman Robison of Kentucky told the house last week: "While we were paying farmers not to produce corn in this country, the imports of corn from foreign countries in 1935 increased 2,500 per cent over 1934. While we were paying people to destroy millions of pigs and hogs in this country, the imports of pork products increased 3,200 per cent in 1935 over 1934. While we were destroying our cattle and paying farmers to do so, the imports of beef products increased 6,000 per cent in 1935 over 1934. There was also brought into our country in 1935, 267,324,000 pounds of hides, 256,525,000 pounds of tallow, 158,758,000 pounds of carpet wool and 69,762,000 pounds of canned meat. I confess I cannot understand this strange policy." And neither can anybody else understand it.—Denver Post.

Scientists say that physically man is about 90 per cent water. It is our experience that some politicians are about 98 per cent hot air.
 Those ill-armed Ethiopians who go up against Italian machine guns and armored tanks now know how a bachelor feels after he has married a widow.

The reason a lot of politicians are so concerned over the "human rights" of the fellow on relief is that one of those rights is the right to vote.

Voters Attention!

I am a candidate for Member of the Unicameral Legislature, 28th District. I have every reason to believe that my experience qualifies me to represent this district, the leading industries of which are agriculture and livestock. I am old enough to have good judgment; young enough to actively conduct the affairs of the office. I believe in Government for the People, By the People, Legislation for the benefit of the masses rather than for the special interests of a few. I would be able to devote my undivided attention to the affairs of the office and would work for legislation that would be of benefit to this district and the state as a whole. It is my contention that a member of the legislature is merely a servant of, and a spokesman for, the constituents of his district, and if elected I invite both advice and criticism.

A PLEDGE

As a candidate for Member of the Legislature, I pledge myself to fairness above all. Fairness to the fortunate and the unfortunate alike. I will not favor one community or county at the expense of others. Nor will I seek to slip over something or have anything slipped over to add to our already too heavy tax burden. I shall try to adjust the tax burden according to the ability to pay. But first and last of all, I shall work for economy and a reduction of expenses. I don't believe in Nepotism. You will not find me or any relative of mine on the state payroll except as legislator as long as I hold that office.
