

THE NEBRASKA SCENE

ing Superintendent Saunders declares, with the weak banks weeded out and only the strong ones left. Governor Cochran announced last week that there is a deal on to clean up the existing bank receiverships thru their sale to the RFC, and the use of the money to pay off depositors immediately. This would benefit depositors doubly, the governor said, by giving them their money at once, and eliminating much of the expense that would have to be paid to administer the receiverships, thus giving the depositors a large return out of the assets.

Despite the frigid weather which paralyzed business in February and Government bonds to the amount of $1,200,000 purchased in 1931 by

T. W. Bass, then state treasurer, now have a market value far in excess of what the state paid, and there has been earned for the state approximately $150,000 in interest in excess of a possible premium upon the bonds themselves. Dr. Bass, now a candidate for nomination as state treasurer on the republican ticket, points to this one service alone as being many times in excess of the actual cost of operating the state treasury. The state normal board reports it now has 52 buildings and land totaling $3,358,260 in value. The Chadron institution is worth $750,000; Wayne, $1,018,310; Peru, $1,030,000; and Kearney $559,950. The bugs in the ointment of the board during the past year were termites which made it necessary to do considerable repair work to buildings at Kearney and Peru.
