A large number of neon signs have been placed on business places on Douglas street during the past year and more are being added. The latest to join the ranks, and one of the niftiest signs on the street, was that erected Monday by McMillan & Markey for their bakery and cafe. These signs give the street a metropolitan appearance and add much to the fine appearance of the town.
 Word has been received here from the president of the Hastings business college, that Lester Shoemaker, a graduate of St. Mary's academy, O'Neill, in the class of '35, and a student at the Hastings school, has completed a full business course and has accepted a position as private secretary to the manager of the Equity Co-operative creamery at Orleans, Nebr.
