Do You Make 9 Telephone Calls a Day?

The average O'Neill family with a telephone uses the telephone more than 9 times a day, about 270 a month. Americans make more telephone calls than the rest of the people in the world, although we have only 6 per cent of the world's population.

Through their everyday use of the telephone, our customers show their need for swift, reliable and economical telephone service. It is the job of this company to see that they get it.
