Mayor Hoctor Amazed at Alton's Wish to Buy New Patrol.

Speaking to his motion, Mr. Alton commented briefly upon the recent purchase of fire hose some two weeks ago at a cost of bility for the matter and mentioned that he had been informed that the same stuff could be purchased for less money than was paid for it. He spoke slightingly of any policy of economy that would skimp in the maxter of a police patrol after paying $1.30 a foot for fire hose. Councilman Williams inquired as to the state of the funds available for the purchase of the wagon and Mayor Hoctor tronically remarked that perhaps the chairman of the committee might be able to tell about

Alton Wanted Style. The chairman did tell. Alton said that a police patrol was needed in South Omaha. He said South Omaha ought to have a good first class patrol. From the fervor of his remarks the president of the council felt deeply the importance of the resolution. Not any old patrol wagon would do. Not a mere conveyance on four wheels, not a second hand affair used for eight months by the Omaha depertment and now as good as new except for one tire that is bad. Mr. Alton wanted a good patrol twagon-a first class one-something, it appeared, that might be rated among city's permanent assets.

From what Alton said the inference might be drawn that if there was one thing that South Omaha could afford to Polow itself to," it was a new first class police patrol-aomeghing that would be as ornamental as necessary to South Omaha-a thing of beauty to delight the eyes of a patriotic council and a joy to all future prisoners and coppers. Riches all future prisoners and coppers. Riches try, geography. English literature, civics, seconded the motion. Then there was american literature. English grammar, silence for exactly one-half second. slience for exactly one-half second.

Chance for Bargain. When the curtain went up for the sec end act it disclosed Mayor Hector with glazed eye, horrified expression and in a fine freuzy over the idea of spending $790 for a patrol wagon from Kansas City when a parrol wagon with one bad tire and only used for eight months could be bought from Omaha at a cost of only $250-bargain rates given only to South Omaha by a friendly administration in Omaha. His honor spoke. He said many things that would give one to understand he approved of the Omaha purchase as strongly as he disapproved of the purchase of a new wagon at $790. He said the purchase of the Omaha wagon would mean a saving of $1,000 to the people of South Omaha. He explained that the wagon was as good as new and needed only one new tire to make it perfect.

Ther he concluded with this epic: "If this council tries to purchase a wagon at this cost I will write a veto so hot that it will take asbestos to carry it. Deep silence! Clerk Wheeler calling for a vote! Everybody with the mayor except Alton and Riches, who had moved and seconded the motion, respectively. Constitutionalists routed!

One Veto Follows. Hoctor then completed the slaughter by vetoing the ordinance to compel Armour & Co. to install a sidewalk in front of the plant. He gave reasons and the council sustained his veto. The rest of the evening was tame. Offerman & Co. got the contract for installing a sewer culver, at Monroe street between Twentythird and the county road. Councilman John Cavanaugh introduced a motion raising the license fee of pawnbrokers to a higher figure. He said the figure would probably be in the neighborhood of $500. He also moved a resolution com
