

CEMENT USERS IN SESSION

Open Convention and Are Welcomed by City Representatives.

CHARGES OF DISCRIMINATION

Say that Nebraska Jobbers of Sand and Stone Give Better Prices to Dealers in Building Material.

Charges that Nebraska jobbers of sand and stone are discriminating against cement users and in favor of building material dealers, stirred the opening session of the ninth annual convention of the Nebraska Cement Users' association at Hotel Rome Monday morning.

The charge was made by C. E. Lowe, a concrete contractor of St. Edward, Neb., who asserted that he had positive proof to substantiate his assertion. He urged that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter and try to secure satisfactory adjustment.

A large attendance followed the aisles of the Midwest cement show at the Auditorium long before noon and was greatly augmented by the cement users at noon.

A special reel of motion pictures of the Panama canal was received by express at noon and will be shown during the remainder of the show.

Convention Opens

With over 100 Nebraska cement users in attendance, the opening session of the convention was called to order by President Peter Palmer of Oakland.

Mayor James C. Dahlgren was scheduled to make the address of welcome, but was unable to be present on account of the city commission being in session at the time.

Alfred E. Johnson, editor of the Cement World of Chicago, presented an illustrated lecture on "Fundamental Material on Which the Concrete Industry is Based."

T. G. Northwell of Omaha outlined the history of the cement block industry in this city and told how it had grown from one small plant to five large factories during the course of twelve years.

A technical discussion of concrete foundations for street paving, by George L. Campen, an Omaha civil engineer and paving expert, closed the day's program.

These committees were appointed at the business session by President Palmer: Nominations—Swan Larson of South Omaha.

Resolutions—C. R. Judkins of Upland, Charles Lehmann of Lincoln, G. F. Lillis of Fremont.

TWO RECEPTIONS AT THE Y. W. C. A. BUILDING

GRAND JURY IS IN SESSION

Judge English Instructs it to Investigate Statute Violations.

SUGGESTS SOME OFFENSES

Jurist Lays Particular Emphasis on Scrutiny of Transgressions of Gambling, Liquor and the Rascally Horse Laws.

The first grand jury to sit in the new court house is now in session at the beginning of the February term of district court, Judge English, who took presiding Judge's chair in court room No. 1 for 1914, instructed the members especially to investigate any charges of violations of statutes prohibiting gambling, houses of ill fame and the sale of liquor at illegal hours to minors and without a license.

He instructed the grand jurors to investigate charges of interference with the justice and dignity of the courts and to indict persons who they believed had violated the law in this respect.

The judge also instructed the jurors to observe strict secrecy concerning the proceedings which take place in their room on the fourth floor of the court house, warning them failure to do so would be a violation of the law.

Visits to the county jail and other county institutions and reports to the court of their condition also will be a part of the grand jury's work.

Judge Altstadt is Victim of Apoplexy at the Court House

Judge William Altstadt, for many years a justice of the peace in Omaha, suffered a stroke of apoplexy that almost proved to be serious yesterday on the ground floor of the court house.

The judge had gone to the court house to be a witness in the case of Henry Newman, 1913 South Sixteenth street, who was to secure his naturalization papers.

His grandson, Vincent Hascall, had just preceded him upstairs, as he was also to be a witness.

Police Sergeant Pete Dillon was in the court house and saw the judge standing stiff against the wall trembling and he asked him if he wished to be assisted to the elevator.

The judge assented, but Dillon had only gone a few steps when the judge fainted in his arms.

Dillon then carried him into the rooms of the Douglas county pioneers adjacent and Dr. Charles Rosenwasser was summoned.

After temporary medical attention Mr. Hascall removed his grandfather to their home at 1913 South Sixteenth street.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MAY CONSIDER MILLER'S PROTEST

The latest protest of Roma Miller against the serving of banquets by the Omaha Commercial club, is attracting some attention among Commercial club members.

The protest of Mr. Miller grows directly out of the proposed banquet to be held February 18 for Creighton university law students.

There are those who maintain Miller has no grounds of complaint, because the faculty members who are giving the banquet to the students are largely members of Commercial club.

On the other hand, Roma Miller is trying to hold the club to what he maintains was their first agreement when the question of putting in a dining room came up, that they would not give banquets unless a majority of those for whom the banquet was given, are club members.

It is possible that the matter will come up before the executive committee of the club at noon today.

If it does not come before the executive body, the matter will likely be dropped and the banquet will be given just the same.

INCORRIGIBLE GIRL IS TURNED OVER TO PARENTS

Alva Lucas, aged 15 years, residing at 1713 Madison street, South Omaha, was arrested in a charge of incorrigibility Sunday afternoon by Probation Officer Bernstein, Bernstein and Captain Dromy.

She notified the girl in the company of Harry Becker, 111 North Twentieth street, while riding on a Farnam street car.

Dempsy, recognizing the man, ordered Bernstein to follow the pair and arrest them.

Two Days of Cold Will Make Plenty of Ice for Omaha

February and dealers and packers hold that this will be the rule this year. They are greatly encouraged by the weather reports from the northwest and also by the report that all through this state and Wyoming there has been a decided drop of temperature since Sunday.

Ice men say that with forty-eight hours of zero or near zero weather they could begin cutting good, merchantable ice off the water company reservoirs and off Carter and Seymour park lakes. With two days of such weather they contend they could gather the normal crop, filling the houses. With the second artificial ice plant in operation next summer, the dealers all admit that a lesser quantity of natural ice would be used in Omaha next summer than during the periods in the past.

PRACTICAL JOKER SETS POLICE COURT SNEEZING

Quite a little excitement ensued Monday morning in police court when some practical joker scattered a lot of sneezing powder on the floor.

An epidemic of watery eyes and restlessness ensued and court was adjourned until the assembly had regained its composure.
