As the bill passed it provides that every immigrant admitted to the United States must be able to read "the English language, or some other language or dialect, including Hebrew or Yiddish." It prescribes that each applicant for admission must read a slip on which is printed between thirty and forty words.

In its present form this measure passed he house and the senate in the last congress, but was vetoed by President Taft. A similar bill was vetoed during President Cleveland's second administration Supporters of the bill ar econfident that it will again pass the senate, although President Wilson has let it be known that he does not approve the literacy test.

Make Desperate Fight. Opponents of the literacy test fought desperately to the last, but on a last effort to eliminate the test from the bill, they were defeated, 140 to 239. The final vote came at the end of a day of vigorous threatened to cause serious trouble.

Customs Collectors at All Points Along the Border Are Directed to Permit Shipments of Arms and Amunition.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 4.-The raising of the embargo on arms by the United States brought down columns of newspaper malediction on the head of President Wilson today. The city, however, gave no evidence of hostility toward American residents. The patrols on the street were doubled during the night as a precaution, but today there was no sign of apprehension on the part of the Mexican authorities that disorders would occur.

"President Wilson has dropped the mask of the Puritan and declared himself the friend and protector of rebeis." is the seven-column headline placed by El Pais over its account of President Wilson's action. President's Motive.

The newspaper declares that President Wilson's motive, while alleged to be based on high pretexts of neutrality originates really in commercial interests. It "It was known that European and Japanese factories were turning out war

TEN PHASES OF ADVERTISING No. 2—Telephone and Telegraph

Have you a telephone in your home? Do you appreciate the economy of the telegraph? It used to be considered a waste of time and money for telegraph and telephone companies to put their advertisements in newspapers.

But now you can scarcely pick up a newspaper in any of the leading cities without reading of the advantages of both the telephone and the telegraph.

They are the servants of the people, always ready to do quickly and economically what used to take so much time and patience to accomplish.

The wonderful growth of the telephone and telegraph and their almost universal use have been brought about largely through newspaper advertising. The day is fast approaching when telephoning and tele-
