FRASER CLUB DINNER GUEST

Sovereign Commander of W. O. W. Asks Aid of Omahans. Woodcraft for Omaha; Omaha for Woodcraft, Suggested as Slogan in Speech of Chairman of Managers.

Texas Woodmen of the World, living in a state that has furnished nearly 200,000 members to that organization, cannot understand why in Omaha, which is headquarters for the Woodmen of the World, the organization has a mere handful of members, according to Sovereign Commander W. A. Fraser. This statement he made last night at the banquet given by the Commercial club in his honor at the club rooms. He said when he left Texas to come to Omaha to take his new position here, he was told to "go there and 'waken those dead ones'."

HUGE OPIUM HUNT STAGED

Police and Federal Officers Rake Old Tenderloin for Stuff. PART OF A NATION-WIDE PROBE

Omaha Believed to be One of Country's Big Distribution Points for the Smuggled Contraband. Directed by a special representative of the United States customs' office, police and federal officials searched the old tenderloin district last night for contraband opium believed to be in the hands of distributing agents here.

The officers visited the Chinese stores, restaurants and homes along Ninth and Tenth streets and Capitol avenue. When they finished these, the police sought out negroes known to use the drug. The raid netted a pound of confiscated gum opium, worth, perhaps, $40.

The government officers have information that raw opium, brought from the orient into Canada and Mexico and smuggled into this country, is forwarded to several large cities for distribution. Omaha, the officers say, is one of the largest distributing points, and two young Americans are said to be the agents of the smugglers for this locality. These two, whose identity, the officers say, is unknown to them, receive the drug and then carry it in person to respectable Chinese merchants, who distribute it to the "retailers."

The two are now being sought by the federal authorities. It is said that no longer than two weeks ago an enormous supply of uncooked opium was brought into Nebraska by them. When they were here, officers learned that they stopped at a downtown hotel and lived in regal style. Both are inveterate users of the stuff, but managed to conceal their habit from the hotel management.

Cadet Taylor, local surveyor of customs, says that the investigation here is a part of a nation-wide probe being conducted by the government, which is determined to break up the opium ring. A law which recently went into effect provides a fine of $5,000 and five years' imprisonment, not only for selling, but smoking also, has given customs officers wide powers.

A week ago police officers raided an opium den on North Eleventh street and found a brother and sister in the bunks in a stupor from the effects of the stuff. Two Chinamen, keepers of the place, paid small fines in police court next morning and departed. This raid, government officers say, interfered with the investigation being made by the federal authorities without the knowledge of the police. When it was made, all the other places where the stuff is sold immediately became more cautious than ever. Had it not been for this the raids last night would have been startlingly effective, it is declared.

What King Thinks. Charles E. Black, (King, Ak-Sar-Ben XXX), reviewed the great work of Ak-Sar-Ben for the building up of Omaha, and declared that Ak-Sar-Ben and the Woodmen of the World are the two greatest organizations in the city. J. E. Fitzgerald, chairman of the sovereign managers of the Woodmen of the World, spoke of the composite blood from all eastern states that has gone to make up the citizenship of Nebraska, and said even so was the membership of the Woodmen of the World made up of some of the best stock of the country. "And with headquarters at Omaha, and Omaha should stand for woodcraft."

Mr. Carson contended that, per million invested, there were fewer men employed in the liquor industry than any other line of business. He stated that in Nebraska, while the brewery investment totaled more than $3,000,000, there were but 317 men employed by those concerns.

ing crowd of shoppers, eager to catch a close-range glimpse of the picturesque tribesmen in their native turbans, capes, bare legs and soft slippers. The twenty visiting nomads were grouped in the center of the big department, sitting on a pile of handsome imported rugs that made an appropriate setting for them. Saleem Ayoub, the interpreter, helped the shoppers ask questions of his brother tribesmen, who do not speak English. Shiek Hah-Med was a center of attraction, but Bakaya El Hussan, who has four wives back in Arabia and yet wants to find an American girl to join his harem, received the most attention. He had the interpreter propose for him to every woman who came near, but none jumped at the chance.

READING ONE OF GREATEST AIDS TOWARD SUCCESS. "Reading is one of the greatest aids to success," said Miss Edith Tobitt, the public librarian, before the students of Kellon night school last evening. She spoke on "Reading Toward Success," it is the recently inaugurated series of "Success" talks being made to the students by representative members of the community.

"Supplement your knowledge of men and things by reading," she told the attentive pupils. "Your special line of work will be improved by knowledge gained from general reading."

"Never wait till you have time to read," she advised, "or you will never read at all. Read in between times, while shaving or waiting for a meal to be served, and at other odd moments."

J. Trull Maxwell, physical director of the Young Men's Christian association, will speak next Tuesday evening on "Health as an Aid to Success."

Sorry! Remorse always "gets you" when you have been neglectful of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels and have allowed a spell of Bilioousness or Indigestion to develop—but be of good cheer, and try a bottle of

Farm Lands FOR SALE

When Meadows are Green. IS THERE anything in the world that looks more contented than a good cow in a good meadow? Yes, there is one thing that looks more contented, and that is a good farmer in a good field of wheat or corn. For he has the human intelligence to appreciate the great harvest that the earth can yield. People are learning their lessons these days. People who have starved in the city, on meager, unwholesome food. People who have starved their minds with meager, unwholesome lives are learning the lesson that only the earth can teach. In every big city, every Sunday, thousands upon thousands of them swarm out through the railroads and the trolley lines to some little suburban woods, or some nearby farm heavy with the burden of its yellow harvest. Perhaps you have not yet caught the spirit of this movement toward the land. Perhaps you are already too near to it to appreciate how good it is. But just remember this, the thing which all these other people missed is the thing which you are going to miss some day. The longing which they now have is the longing which you are going to have before you die. And the sooner you get that longing and the sooner you satisfy it the better for you. A little land is the thing you need most in the world. Turn to the Farm Lands advertising in the Want Ads of this paper. Do it now. See how easy it is to own a bit of land, especially with the easy payments that are usually offered to you. Answer some of these ads, and mention The Bee, please, each time you do for that will be a help to us as well as to you.
