Complete Change for Better Overtakes Wheat Market.

BEARS ARE HARD TO KILL OFF Come Right to the Front in the Face of the Pit Activity with Contradicting News from Argentina. OMAHA, Feb. 18, 1914.

OMAHA, Feb. 18, 1314.

There was almost a complete change in conditions surrounding the wheat market yesterday for the better. Not only was the market strong and %60% to hisher. But there was an improved business and this included some huying on outside account. This change was brought about by general buying of cash wheat in the various markets by seaboard exporters. The amount of these purchases was not heavy, but they were scattered from one end of the country to the other, including Canada. Philadelphia and Baltimore both reported sales of wheat on "distressed" freight room. New York said that sales were made there for foreign shipment of 200,000 but but Boston, in its usual fashion, claimed bids were out of line. Kansas City reported moderate sized lots of wheat sold for eastern shipment and Winnipeg claimed that a cargo was sold there direct.

Chicago probably sold more wheat than all the other markets combined. The transactions there were reported as 200,000 bu, but they were said to have been larger.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Plattening out of export business today took the edge off the market for wheat. Prices at the close were steady, but 160% to 160% ounder last night. Corn finished 160% down, oats off 160% to 160, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a decline of 260%.

Discouragement for the wheat bulls came early. Liverpool quotations being unresponsive to yesterday's advance on this side, and there being avowals that the bulk of the supposed export traffic of late was of a speculative kind which might not ever cross the ocean. Furthermore, the receipts northwest were beginning to show the effects of recent liberal purchasing in Nebraska. Altogether the tendency was to induce real-

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The stock market was upset today by conflicting reports concerning the probable disposition of the freight rate cases. The movement of prices hinged almost entirely on these reports, which, as they gained circulation in Wall street, were so contradictory that before the day was done speculators were badly confused. The story of the day litustrated the part which surmise and conjecture sometimes play in the affairs of the stock market.

Uncertainty as to the disposition by the Interstate Commerce commission of the eastern railroade' application for a per cent increase in freight rates hus exerted a repressive influence on the market for so long that speculators were greatly relieved when news came from Washington that President Wilson favored a speedy decision. The street, however, did not stop at that, but jumped to the conclusion that the president favored an increase in rates. A Wall street news agency published the statement that information from "a source close to the Interstate Commerce commission" indicated that "a favorable decision" would be rendered at an early date.

On the strength of these assumptions the market, which had been dull and irregular earlier in the day, advanced strongly. The railroad stocks led the unturn, but were followed readily by the industrials and most of the representative shares made gains of a point or more.

"Do not jump at conclusions and de not be hasty in judgment." said Strick-land W. Gillilan. "To illustrate my story I will tell a story of August, my pet dog. August was always jumping at con-clusions. clusions.

"He would run out into the street to jump at them.

"When a horse went by August would jump at his conclusion.

"When a cow went by August would jump at her conclusion.

"One day a mule went by and August jumped at the mule's conclusion and the mule kicked.

"That was the lest of August.

"That was the last of August.
"And the next day was the first of September."—Chicago Post. Just Imagination.

Just Imagination.

The fellow who can't be reformed held up a tiny phial where his fellow clerks could see it.

"You wouldn't think," he said, "that the milligram of radium in there was worth $17,600, would you?"

They crowded around and stared at the phial with bulging eyes.

"Think of it!" said the oldest clerk, "A fragment like that worth a pot of money! See it?"

They all saw it and wondered, "Who trusted you with it. Charlie?"

"Nobody," replied the wicked one. "In the first place, it isn't radium, and, in the second place, there's nothing there!"

Then he went back to his work.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Brief Decisions.

While the race is not always to the swift, the records show that it is even more seldom to the slow.

Thus far winter weather prophets have been as active as ever and as inaccurate. A government scientist at Washington gravely announces the important fact that the bits of a skunk is not dangerous. Probably so; but also probably this scientist is the first man who ever waited around long enough to be bitten by a skunk. The government has fixed the cash value of the wife at $1,000. Gentlemen with no wives to speak of pay an income tax on $3,000. Married men are given an additional $1,000. As exemption, recompense or consolation?—Judge.
